To the Members of the Alumnae Association

Greetings:

Once again our Alumnae Association is resuming an active place in society, after having had its peaceful way of living disrupted by the recent world crisis.

However, there comes a time when it is necessary to take stock of ourselves as to what we have done; and what we are going to do. The past year has been a busy one, and we are making many plans for the future. We are unduly grateful to those who have worked so diligently towards our goals.

Our Banquet last June proved to be a festive occasion. We were delighted, indeed, that many of our members from distant cities came to celebrate with us.

The Card Party, Bazaar and Dance, for the benefit of the Scholarship Fund, held in October was equally as successful. Once again each nurse is to be commended for her loyal support and cooperation.

The Alumnae's interest in the Needlework Guild has been renewed, and our Chapter is now under the able leadership of Mrs. Sara Headley Hampshire.

We are happy to announce also a Wholesale Plan of Accident and Sickness Insurance has been made available to our nurses through the Alumnae Association. Those who are interested in the Plan, may refer to the report by Mrs. Ethel Troy in this Bulletin.

The Committee on Professional Advancement are busy now working out some policies in order to create interest in post-graduate study through the Scholarship Fund and the Loan Fund of the Alumnae Association.

With the organization of the University of Maryland Alumni Association, three representatives of our Alumnae have been appointed to serve as directors on the University of Maryland Alumni Council.

The Nurses' Alumnae Association is continually striving for the advancement of the nursing profession, that is, better nursing care for more people. With this objective in mind, we must all endeavor to do our part in keeping our Alumnae active and progressive.

Virginia Carolyn Conley,
President, Nurses' Alumnae Association.
SCHOOL OF NURSING LIBRARY

Alumnae will be interested in a brief history of the first year of the library which they so generously made possible. Hereafter the official annual report of the library will be published for each fiscal year.

At the beginning of the fiscal year, July 1, 1946, it was decided that a library should be set up in the School of Nursing, organized according to standard library practice under the direction of a trained librarian, in such a way as to meet requirements for accrediting. This library should be part of the system of libraries of the University, supervised by the Director of Libraries.

In order most effectively to accomplish the objectives, the School of Nursing Library was organized under the direction of the Medical Library with the Librarian of the School of Medicine designated as its administrator. Mrs. Simone C. Hurst of Baltimore was engaged in September to be the Librarian-in-Charge and given a period of special training in the Medical Library in preparation for maintaining the Nursing Library when it was ready to operate in the School of Nursing building. A system was worked out whereby classifying and cataloguing of books should be done in the Medical Library by the trained medical cataloguer; all other activities would be carried on by Mrs. Hurst in the School of Nursing.

It required the remaining months of 1946 to prepare the designated room for use as a library. Extraneous articles were removed; shelves built the entire width of the east and west walls from floor to ceiling; new floor covering laid, and redecorating done. All books which had been scattered through the School of Nursing or shelved in the adjacent office were assembled and sorted. Useless material was discarded; the remaining books divided into two sections, one scientific, one recreational. The medical cataloguer then classified and catalogued the scientific collection and supervised the proper arrangement of the recreational books. The library opened for use the beginning of 1947, with well-defined procedures established.

In the early months of 1947, through the efforts of the Library Committee, the Alumnae of the School of Nursing were solicited with most gratifying results. Through the generosity of the alumnae, sufficient funds were collected to provide the library with arm chairs, electric fans, floor lamps, Venetian blinds, a book fund of several hundred dollars for both scientific and recreational books and periodicals. Several individual gifts were presented by alumnae and organizations in the school: the Encyclopaedia Britannica, a card catalogue cabinet, a wall clock.

By June the library was very well equipped and had added appreciably to the book collection, providing the most useful modern textbooks and reference works recommended by faculty and library staff. Besides 864 volumes in the scientific collection, there were 147 books for recreational reading.

The new library was ready to become a full-fledged member of the University’s library system. On June twentieth, the library was dedicated in an effective ceremony and accepted by President Byrd and the Director of Libraries as a permanent part of the library system of the University of Maryland.

Ida Marian Robinson.

ETHEL PALMER CLARKE, R. N. B. S.

CLASS OF 1906

I was born in Devon, England, on October 3rd, 1875, eldest daughter of Frederick Tancock Palmer and Alice Suell Palmer. I had much of my early education in private schools in England. We came to the United States of America in December 1890 and settled near Richmond, Virginia, where my father had bought a large farm. He died after a very brief illness in January 1894 leaving my mother with four children of which I was the oldest.

I graduated from the Southern Seminary, Bowling Green, Virginia, in June 1892, taught in private families for two years, stayed at home after my father's death. I was married in November 1900 to Thomas Ellett Clarke.

For my professional life I entered the University of Maryland Training School for Nurses, Baltimore, in March 1903, when Mrs. Katherine Taylor was Superintendent of Nurses. I graduated in 1906 under Miss Nettie Flanagan, of whom I think all her students have warm recollections. On the night of commencement I went to Annapolis on a special train with Dr. St. Clair Spruill to attend a child with a skull injury. He did not operate and I only stayed there two or three days. I returned to University Hospital and continued as night supervisor until Miss Flanagan asked me to take the hospital for crippled children to Blue Ridge Summit for the summer. We had recently worked out an affiliation with Dr. Tunstall Taylor and this hospital for our senior students. On returning to Baltimore in the fall with the children I turned over my duties as superintendent of nurses to Miss Ethel Smith who later was very prominent in nursing affairs in Virginia. I then did private duty for about six months as I wanted to know it from the inside because I always felt I should be director of a school of nursing. My first case was for Dr. Franklin Martin near Ellicott City where I stayed for six weeks. I then went to my mother's home in Richmond, Virginia, where I had private cases for Dr. Shelton Horsley and Dr. Charles Blanton until I accepted a position of Superintendent of DeSota Sanatorium, Jacksonville, Florida. Miss Flanagan called me to Baltimore to be interviewed by Dr. John E. Boyd for this position, a private hospital owned by four good physicians. I organized one of the very first schools of nursing in Florida and stayed there until May 1911 when I resigned feeling I had done all I could in that situation.

I was called to the University Hospital as Superintendent of Nurses in 1911, I think July, and stayed there until September 1st, 1914, when I resigned to go to Teachers' College, Columbia University, New York. I spent the school year of 1914-1915 at the college and had a wonderful time. Miss Nutting was then head of the department and Miss Goodrich was advisor for the students in administration, of which I was one.

On July 1st, 1915, I went to Indiana University as director of the School for Nurses at the Medical Centre in Indianapolis. It was a new hospital and pioneer work, as was the work in Jacksonville, and that sort of thing always had an appeal for me. Indiana was the second university to organize a school of nursing as a department in the university and Nellie Gates Brown went with me to Indianapolis as instructor, the first fulltime instructor in the state. She was with me for thirteen years. There were eleven students in the school when we arrived and the one general hospital, a state hospital donated by Dr. Robert W. Long and bearing his name; given in large part to help care for the rural poor of Indiana. There were eighteen private rooms and two floors of wards, medical, surgical, obstetric and a small ward for children. It was always overflowing and had an extremely active service of one hundred and ten beds. The school grew rapidly and always had a very fine type of student. In 1924 the James Whitcomb Riley Hospital for children was opened. Built entirely by public subscription as a fitting memorial to the poet of Indiana. It had two hundred beds and was open to the children of the state who might be referred to it by a physician, parent or citizen thru the courts. The county refunded to the state its share of the per capita cost every quarter. The law worked out beautifully. The hospital was always full, had a large out-patient department, gymnasium, physical therapy, etc., everything needful for the diagnosis and care of children's diseases. The occupational therapy department with a group of highly trained workers was maintained by the Junior League of Indianapolis. The Kiwanis clubs of the state added a large orthopedic ward and later the Rotary clubs built a convelescent home for the children.

In 1926 the Coleman Hospital for women was opened, the gift of Dr. and Mrs. William H. Coleman for obstetrics and gynecology, about eighty beds.

In 1928 the Ball Residence for nurses was opened, the gift of $500,000 of the Ball brothers of Muncie, Indiana, a beautiful building in housing one hundred and sixty-five with a good teaching department, which I was able to help in planning a gymnasium, excellent porches, a small roof for sunning and good living and sitting rooms furnished with Stichley furniture so it was truly charming. All these years Dr. Charles P. Emerson was dean of the medical school and I had considerable freedom in working out plans for the school. From the beginning a five year course was offered leading to a B. S. degree and diploma of Graduate Nurse. After the first few years every student had the eight hours of English (composition four, literature four) required by all colleges for a bachelor's degree and four hours of sociology. It was the aim of the school to develop nurses with a sound technical and professional training and also to send out nurses with a social and cultural background that would render them more useful and more acceptable for positions of responsibility, and also give them richer lives. I think the results have justified the methods.

In 1931 I resigned at a time when there was a change in the dean of the medical school. I spent a year near New York with Dr. M. T. Whitely of Teachers College, Columbia University, a friend of many years. Then in February 1933 I became director of the School of Nursing of Bridgeport Hospital, Bridgeport, Connecticut, an active hospital of four hundred beds. I had seven good years there until in November 1939 I had a second severe attack of glaucoma and eventually lost my left eye so I had to retire, much to my regret for my profession had been a way of life to me and had brought me great joy and satisfaction in spite of the obstacles and disappointments inherent in any work of the kind. It was so rich in contacts and friendships.

Fortunately in December 1937 I had bought a nice little home in Madison, Connecticut, about twenty miles east of New Haven on the shore where I now live very comfortably and happily with a good housekeeper and a garden that can always keep me busy and interested for I have nearly half an acre of ground with a brook running thru it.

Of course, I have held office in state organizations, been on a few national committees and been very active in all nursing projects, but there is not time or space to go into all that. I joined the Red Cross nursing service early, my number is 2140, but in each war was unable to serve actively on account of health. The physical side of life has never been easy for me, but now, tho my vision is very limited I am well and active if I recognize my strength limits. P.S. I received a B.S. degree in education from Indiana University in 1932. When I left Indiana University we had a school of nursing of one hundred ninety students and about one hundred graduates. There were always plenty of applicants tho our requirements were high and we had to measure up to University requirements, both as to admission and to standards of work. It was a wonderful group, students, and staff, alert and eager. It kept us "on our toes" to meet their challenge.
Miss Mary Gavin
BIOGRAPHY OF MARY GAVIN, R. N. & B. S.

Class of 1908

University of Maryland, School of Nursing

Mary Gavin was born on January 23, 1884, in Prince Edward Island, Canada, the daughter of Peter and Anastasia Ryan Gavin, and came to the United States with her family when she was five years old. After living for several years in Saint Paul, Minnesota, the family moved to Spokane, Washington. She received her education in the public schools of Saint Paul and Spokane. After being graduated from high school, she entered the Teachers’ Training School in Spokane, and two years later completed the course, receiving a teachers’ certificate. She then taught in the public schools of Spokane.

In 1905 she entered the School of Nursing of the University of Maryland, graduating in 1908. She remained in Baltimore and engaged in Private Duty nursing for most of the following ten years, although she made several excursions into other fields of nursing during that time. She was in charge of the operating rooms at the University of Maryland Hospital for six months in 1909-1909, did Public Health Nursing as a member of the Instructive Visiting Nurses’ Association in Baltimore for eight month in 1910-1911, and served as relief Assistant Superintendent of Nurses at the University Hospital for several months in the latter part of 1911.

When the United States entered World War I in April 1917, the University of Maryland was called upon by the War Department to organize a base hospital for overseas service. The organization of the nursing service was begun in June 1917, and a call went forth for nurses to volunteer for service with the unit. Miss Nettie L. Flanagan, class of 1902, was selected by the faculty as Chief Nurse; and it was to her that the nurses applied. Mary Gavin volunteered for service and was accepted as a member of the unit. In November 1917, Miss Flanagan resigned, and Miss Gavin was named to succeed her as Chief Nurse. Although the organization of the nursing personnel of Base Hospital No. 42, A.E.F. (the official designation of the unit) was completed early in 1918, it was not until July 13, 1918, that they sailed for France, 100 nurses, 1 diettion, and 1 secretary. On August 1, 1918, they arrived at Base Hospital No. 42, which was located at Bazoilles-sur-Meuse, in the Department of Vosges. The hospital had a two thousand bed capacity and the following months were extremely busy and interesting ones.

On January 28, 1918, Base Hospital No. 42 left Bazoilles-sur-Meuse to return to the United States. The nurses of the unit were given the opportunity to sign for further service in the A.E.F., and forty-one of them, including Miss Gavin, asked to remain. They were all assigned to Evacuation Hospital 21, and Miss Gavin was made Chief Nurse of that hospital. In May 1919, Evacuation Hospital 21 was discontinued and the personnel ordered to return to the United States. The nurses arrived in New York on June 18, 1919, and reported to the Nurses' Demobilization Station where they were informed that they could either apply for immediate discharge from the service or, if they wished to remain in the service, accept assignment in the United States. Miss Gavin decided to remain in the Army Nurse Corps and was assigned to duty in the Office of the Surgeon General, Washington, D. C. She reported for duty at that station on June 27, 1919, and remained there until September of 1921. During this time relative rank was conferred upon members of the Army Nurse Corps, and Miss Gavin received the rank of First Lieutenant.

Her next assignment was that of Chief Nurse at the General Dispensary, U. S. Army, New York City, where she remained eight years. After that Miss Gavin served as Chief Nurse at the Station Hospital, Fort Sheridan, Illinois; for three years, at the Station Hospital, Post of San Juan, Puerto Rico; two years, and the General Dispensary, U. S. Army, Baltimore, Md., for four years. On September 21, 1939, she reported to the Station Hospital, Fort McPherson, Georgia, for duty as Chief Nurse. She was promoted from First Lieutenant to Captain on November 1, 1940.

In 1940, with the preparedness program under way, and the enactment of the Selective Service Act, there was a tremendous increase in all Army activities. Many new camps and stations were being opened all over the country, especially in the Southern States. There was an urgent need for more Army Nurses, and a program for recruiting nurses was begun. It was decided by the War Department that it would be necessary to assign an Army nurse to duty in each of the nine Corps Area Headquarters (later named Service Command Headquarters) to supervise all nursing activities in the Army Hospitals in that area, and to take charge of the recruiting and assignment of nurses. On December 10, 1940, Miss Gavin was assigned to duty in the Corps Area Surgeons' Office, Headquarters Fourth Corps Area, Atlanta, Georgia, and was placed in charge of the Army Nurse Corps Section of that Headquarters. Her duties consisted of the procurement and assignment of nurses for all hospital installations in that area, in which were located the states of North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Tennessee, Mississippi, Alabama, Florida, and Louisiana. She was also responsible for the nursing service and was required to make frequent inspections of the various hospitals and report her findings to the Surgeon, and through him to the Office of the Surgeon General. With the entry of the U. S. into the World War II all activities increased, thousands of nurses were being sent overseas, and the problems of procuring a sufficient number of nurses to meet the needs at home and abroad was indeed a difficult one.
Miss Gavin was promoted to the rank of Lieutenant Colonel on March 22, 1943. On May 1, 1944, she was relieved from her assignment in Atlanta to proceed to her home to await retirement, in accordance with the ruling that an Army Nurse must retire when she has reached her sixtieth birthday. She was retired from active service on August 31, 1944, as Lieutenant Colonel and is now living in New York City.
BIOGRAPHY OF BERNICE CONNER, R. N. B. S. & M. A.
CLASS OF 1912

University of Maryland, School of Nursing

Bernice Conner was born on April 11, 1887, Marion Station, Maryland, the daughter of Nathan and Eliza Conner. She received her education in the public schools of Marion Station. After graduating from high school she taught school in Somerset County, Maryland, for three years.

In 1909 she entered the School of Nursing of the University of Maryland. She was graduated from this school in 1912. She remained in Baltimore for the next four years, engaging in Private Duty nursing and hospital staff work. She served as Head Nurse of the Private Halls and Night Supervisor of the University of Maryland Hospital.

In 1916 she studied at Teachers College, Columbia University, New York. The following year she again engaged in Private Duty nursing in Baltimore.

When the United States entered World War I, and the University of Maryland organized its hospital unit, Miss Conner volunteered to serve as a member of the Nursing Personnel of Base Hospital No. 42, the official designation of the unit. It was not until July 13, 1918, that they sailed for France, with 100 nurses, 1 dietition and 1 secretary. On August 1, 1918, they arrived at Base Hospital No. 42 which was located at Bazoilles-sur-Meuse, in the Department of Vosges. The hospital had a two thousand bed capacity. The time spent in the service of this hospital was interesting and exciting. On January 28, 1919, Base Hospital No. 42 left Bazoille-sur-Meuse to return to the United States.

Miss Conner returned to Baltimore, and during 1919 she started the Social Service Department of the University of Maryland Hospital. During the following three years she served as Red Cross Nurse in Baltimore County. She was the first nurse to do Public Health work in Baltimore County.

In 1921 she volunteered to go to Serbia with a Commission sponsored by Dr. J. Mason Knox. In Serbia she did Public Health nursing in Child Welfare and was the head of the local unit there. She returned to the United States in 1923 and during the following year she studied at Teachers College, Columbia University.

In 1924 she was engaged in Public Health work at the East Harlem Nursing and Health Demonstration Center, first as a field worker, later becoming the Supervisor of the Pre-school work. Miss Conner received her Bachelor of Science degree from Columbia University in 1925.

She became the Supervisor of the Visiting Nurses Association in St.
Miss Bernice Conner
Louis, Missouri in 1927. She returned to New York in 1928 as a substitute teacher in the New York City schools in Hygiene and Home Nursing. The following year Miss Conner was appointed Supervisor of the Judson Health Center in New York.

On March 31, 1930, she was appointed teacher in Hygiene and Home Nursing in the Brooklyn, New York schools, the position which she holds at the present time.

In 1931 she received her Master of Arts degree from Teachers College, Columbia University. During 1941 and 1942 Miss Conner taught Practice Teaching in Hygiene and Home Nursing in the Evening School at New York University. During World War II she renewed her interest in Red Cross work by teaching classes in Nursing at night.

Miss Conner’s career up to date has been a most interesting and varied one. Although she has been away from the University of Maryland School of Nursing for many years, Miss Conner has maintained interest in the school, and has done extensive work in keeping its history up to date.
SOME ADDITIONAL NOTES ON THE HISTORY OF THE SCHOOL OF NURSING

As we approach the Fiftieth Anniversary of our School of Nursing, search was made for records to show the work and contribution of those who had helped in the growth and progress of our school. Very little, too little material has been found.

This is merely an addition to that which has been published in former years in the Bulletin regarding the establishment of the School of Nursing. We hope that this material, so laboriously gathered may excite, by its meagreness, some criticism from the Alumnae so that much more detailed information concerning those years which are blank may become available. We hope that many have in their possession material which they will forward to the Alumnae, so that this history may not only be more complete, but also beneficial to those who will continue to come to the University of Maryland for education and training.

It is hoped that the Alumnae will provide for better keeping of records by the appointment of a History Committee or a Historian. To stimulate interest regarding the recording of the history of the School of Nursing a yearly prize of ten ($10) dollars has been established by Miss Bernice V. Conner. This prize will be known as the History Prize. Following are the requirements for this prize:

An award, to be given annually to a member of the graduating class, for the most comprehensive thesis on the history of her three years training. This thesis shall be presented to the Historian of the Alumnae Association on the 15th of April of each year. It shall be the duty of the historian to decide on winning entry.

The school history was brought fairly well up to date in the Alumnae publication of 1945. Since that time several items of interest have been sent in by some of the older graduates.

The first hospital was built in 1823 and was called the “Infirmary”. It was located at the site of the old hospital at Lombard and Greene Streets. The reason ascribed for its building was that the Faculty of the College of Medicine of Maryland “sorely needed” it to carry on the work of the members. It is also interesting to note here that the funds for the medical school were obtained from a lottery, authorized by the General Assembly of Maryland in January 1808. The limit set for funds to be so obtained was $40,000. Lotteries were not in such bad standing then, it seems.

This early hospital is described by Lucas in his “Sketch of Early Baltimore”. In 1833 four new wards were added to the original building, and in 1852 a large addition was made, which was of an entirely different style of architecture. Now the institution could accommodate 150 patients. In the year 1866 the Out-Patient Department was inaugurated, and began to function. In 1875 the large Greene Street wing was built. In 1880 the Lombard Street portion of the hospital was overhauled; the building enlarged, and a number of private rooms added. The circular of 1881 shows the hospital with the name “University Hospital” painted across the front of the building, and “Baltimore Dispensary” on the side of the building. In 1897 the “new building was erected”. Discussion began in 1895 about building a new hospital in a different location. That dream was realized when we moved into the new hospital at Redwood and Greene Streets in November 1934.

In the beginning of the School of Nursing both pupils and graduates wore the Florence Nightingale cap. A letter from one of our graduates tells us that “Mrs. Katherine Taylor, who was Superintendent of Nurses, from 1900 to 1904 introduced the present student cap, of organdie and ruching, because she felt it was more practical, and lessened the hours of washing and fluting, for tired nurses.” Now the student nurse anticipates the pleasure of changing to the Florence Nightingale cap, and the graduates cling to the honor which the historical cap brings us as our heritage in the great tradition.

Of the war years, just past, the history of the School of Nursing has been practically identical with most other schools of its kind. Shortages, both of personnel and material have prevailed, and we feel that it is better to pass over this period briefly. Of the work of those of our number who were with the armed forces, in many and varied capacities, the story has been told many times.

The graduates of this school are found in many activities, many far removed from the nursing field, but their interest in the school is never flagging. Of the various organizations that are aides to the hospital they form a large majority. We hope that with the establishment of the “History Prize” a greater interest may be aroused, and that the history may continue to grow year by year.

(Editor’s Note: Written by Serena Sele Bridges, B. S. Class of 1916, from a quantity of material collected by Bernice V. Conner, R. N. B. S. & M. A. Class of 1912.)

   At the University Hospital a nurse may be called, for her first day on a case, to report for duty not more than four hours preceding a regular period and asked to remain through the regular period, for which she receives one dollar ($1.00) per hour up to time of regular period and eight dollars ($8.00) for regular period.

   When nursing in hospitals, a nurses' fee is regulated by rules of the hospital in which she is working.

9. Members may be denied the use of the Directory at any time for not observing rules of same.

THE STUDENT CAP

For ten years the Florence Nightingale cap, made of point d'esprit, was worn by both the student and the graduates of the University Hospital. In 1901 Miss Katherine A. Taylor, a graduate of Philadelphia General Hospital, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, and at that time Superintendent of the University Hospital, designed a cap of organdy and ruching. This cap was introduced because of the extensive work involved in laundering the cap of point d'esprit.

Several of the students made these caps for fifteen cents each. This aided them in financing their course in the School of Nursing.

The making of these caps has later been transferred to the sewing room located in the old University Hospital, which is the Out Patient Department at the present time. During the war Red Cross Volunteers made one hundred caps a month for the students and at the present time make from thirty-five to forty caps a week.

If any Alumnae of the School can add to this short history any interesting item that would make the article more complete, will you please write the Editor.

RECENT CHANGES AND IMPROVEMENTS IN THE SCHOOL OF NURSING

Florence M. Gipe, Director

"A library is not a mere repository of books to be visited upon occasion. It should afford an active vivifying force to the life of the school of which it is a part. It should stimuate investigation through study. In this, the student's castle, one should reflect and analyze through meditation what has prompted our predecessors to endow us through liberal deeds of giving and printed thoughts with these gifts given through hard work and personal sacrifice. For this reason the accepted philosophy of the nursing school, its faculty and nursing staff is to educate the whole student for continued growth and effective living."

The most noted improvement that has been made in the University of Maryland School of Nursing has been the outstanding participation of the Alumnae Association in helping to make possible the up to date modern library under direct control of the University's Library Division at College Park.

Other improvements, despite the many handicaps encountered, have been noteworthy. While all of them are so decidedly important one hesitates to take them in chronological order. The most important one to the writer has been the securing and maintaining of a well prepared faculty of teachers. Those of you who had the good fortune of being taught in the preclinical scientific subjects will be glad to know that these courses have been reinstated in the Medical School.

Anatomy and Physiology—Eduard Uhlenhuth, Ph.D. and Miss Shirley Byers, B.S.,R.N.
Chemistry—Emil G. Schmidt, Ph.D., Ll.B. and Eva Bradley, B.S.,R.N.
Materia Medica—Frank Slama, Ph.D. and Betty Morris, B.S.R.N.
Ruth Musser, M.S.
Microbiology—Frank W. Hachtel, M.D. and Eva Bradley, B.S.,R.N.
In the department of clinical instructors the following three have been added to medicine and surgery:

Helen Bahr, B.S., R.N.
Jean Bloom, B.S., R.N.
Betty Morris, B.S., R.N.

Miss Margaret Hayes, M.S., R.N., Sherman Hospital School of Nursing, and Catholic University, is heading the nursing arts division.

Mrs. Bessie Zec is on leave of absence, and will complete her degree at the University of Maryland in the spring of 1948. At that time she will return to her Alma Mater. In her absence two University nurses, Miss Gloria Smith and Miss Barbara Garrison, are assisting Miss Hayes.
Miss Anna Holmes, B.S., R.N., Union Memorial Hospital and Columbia University, is on a leave of absence and will complete her Masters degree at the Johns Hopkins School of Hygiene in the spring of 1948. She will then return to the University of Maryland School of Nursing.

Miss Myrtle Robertson, B.S., R.N., Associate Director, is also going on a leave of absence to complete her Master degree at the University of New York.

The University of Maryland School of Nursing is one of the very few having an approved guidance department. During the past year this division of the school has been opened under the direction of Miss Lucia Irons, M.S., Goucher College and Smith School of Social Work.

In the department of pediatrics a combined position of administrative supervisor and clinical instructor exists. This position is filled by Miss Norma Freeman, who has had special preparation at Catholic University, Sydenham Hospital, and Baltimore Nursery Schools. Three head nurses, all of whom have had special courses in Contagious Diseases, assist her.

In the department of obstetrics Miss Flora Strett, R.N., University of Maryland, is administrative supervisor. Miss Dorothy Filbert, R.N., Woman’s Hospital, post-graduate work at the Hague Hospital, Jersey City, New Jersey, and a student at Catholic University for her Bachelors degree, is clinical instructor. Miss Maratha Hoffman, University of Maryland, formerly superintendent of nurses at McCready Memorial Hospital, Crisfield, Maryland, has been appointed as Assistant Superintendent of Nurses, and has ably superintended the obstetrical department. A full time graduate is in charge of the formula room. The results of this close supervision have been most gratifying.

Miss Aitkenhead, who needs no introduction, is still carrying on in her able way. All classes in surgical technique are taught in the operating room in situation. Miss Kathryn Williams, B.S., R.N., assists in teaching the students.

The most pressing need in the School of Nursing is the new nurses’ residence with modern equipment. Through the assistance of the School Committee we were able to secure space for 60 graduates in the quarters formerly occupied by the internes on the fifth floor and eighth floor of the hospital, and were able to remove all students from the old hospital residence.

Our nurses’ residence, though overcrowded, is “homelike and comfy”. Its living rooms depict a woman’s touch which is no other than the Woman’s Board. Miss Martha Mallon, R.N., is in charge of the home assisted by the house keeper.

Recreation

Facilities for recreation have been improved. The students are permitted to use the Y.W.C.A. swimming pool two nights a week. A Glee Club, in combination with the Dental School has been promoted.
Weekly rehearsals are held in the basement of Second Lutheran Church, and a trained chorister from Peabody is in charge.

Monthly dances are held for the students in the cafeteria.

Special topics for open discussion are held in Gordon Wilson Hall each month so that students may be kept well informed on civic problems. Free participation by the students is urged.

New Courses

An affiliation in Contagious Diseases has been secured with Sydenham Hospital for all students in the School. Public Health affiliation with the Baltimore City Health Department has been added to the College students' curricula. In the near future we hope to affiliate for tuberculosis nursing as this is an urgent need for university schools so that positive health teaching may be given throughout the community.

By-laws for the recent School of Nursing Committee have been made under the direction of Mrs. John L. Whitehurst, and approved by President Byrd.

An organized Faculty and Curriculum Committee has been appointed, and is now revising the educational program. On this Committee are members of the professional schools in Baltimore, and School of Education, Economics, and Science at College Park. The association between the two divisions of the University has been closer within the past year because of the combined program.

Planned staff education is in progress during the school year, and is held once each month. All new scientific procedures and drugs are discussed.

Twenty-five supervisors and head nurses are taking advanced nursing education under the direction of the University of Maryland. Sister Florence, M. S., R. N., Mercy Hospital, is the instructor.

To the Alumnae Association I express my deep gratitude for the courteous treatment, respect, and cooperation that you have given me. Not once have you faltered in any of my requests. I assure you that with your strong cooperation we will become a school of national importance.
ANNUAL BANQUET AND DANCE—1947

VIRGINIA C. CONLEY, CLASS OF 1940, PRESIDENT.

Many friendships and acquaintances were renewed at the Annual Banquet and Dance, Friday, June 6, 1947, in the ballroom of the Belvedere Hotel; given by the Nurses' Alumnae Association in honor of the graduating class of the School of Nursing.

Miss Virginia Conley, President of the Nurses' Alumnae Association, extended a word of welcome to members of the graduating class, the honored guests and members of the alumnae. The occasion was a memorable one, as the alumnae this year played host to the largest class to be graduated from the School of Nursing—eighty-seven in number.

Rev. Roland Reukel, Minister of The Second English Lutheran Church, offered the invocation. Our guest speaker, Mr. J. Milton Patterson, Treasurer of the Board of Regents of the University and Director of Public Welfare of this city, spoke of the need for nurses in rural areas. Dr. H. C. Byrd, Mrs. John L. Whitehurst, Miss Florence Gipe and Mrs. Alan Voshell were among our distinguished guests.

Miss Nathan Winslow, class of 1903, was our oldest graduate present. Members of the alumnae came from many states to celebrate class reunions. Four nurses would have celebrated their Fiftieth Anniversary, had they been physically able to attend the banquet. The alumnae regrets they were unable to enjoy the evening with us. More than two hundred graduates were present, in addition to the eighty-seven members of the graduating class.

Miss Elizabeth Rohr, representing the graduating class, extended gratitude of the members for the banquet and dance and also presented a gift of money from the class to the school to open a library fund.

The climax of the banquet was the presentation of the awards to the members of the graduating class, presented by Miss Gipe. Mrs. Voshell and Mrs. Whitehurst personally presented their awards. The awards given by the Surgical Staff were presented by Miss Elizabeth Aitkenhead, competent supervisor of the operating room. Miss Aitkenhead celebrated her twenty-fifth year of service—February 1, 1947—and the alumnae was happy to have her as a guest.

Garden flowers and mountain laurel bedecked the ballroom. The evening was highlighted by a dance, which was quite enjoyable.

Thanks to Bessie Lee Arnurius and her committee who arranged the banquet and dance which so many alumnae and friends enjoyed. Let us all begin to think of our 1948 banquet and class reunion celebrations.
The Nurses' Alumnae Association held a Card Party, Dance, and Bazaar on October 24th, at the Emerson Hotel from 8:30 p.m. to 1 a.m. for the benefit of the Scholarship Fund.

The whole-hearted support of members and their friends was quite in evidence by the large number of donations of needlework, cakes, candies and other articles that were received.

Much effort was put into the disposal of a very large number of sweepstake tickets.

Despite the rather small number in attendance for the affair, our efforts to make it a success were not in vain. The Scholarship Fund was benefited by our work, not by a tremendous amount, but by a very pleasing and satisfying sum.

We wish to take this opportunity to thank each and every member and their friends for their generous help in making this affair a success.

Dorothy Shaff Walker, Chairman
Nancy Craven Sheppard, Co-Chairman.

BY BESSIE MASTON ARNURIUS, '20
Co-Chairman of the Sweepstake Books.

Louise Barnett Reifschneider, '20, Chairman

Please accept my most grateful thanks, all of you, for either selling or taking the sweepstake chances for the benefit party for the Scholarship Fund.

Following are the names of the winners:

Mr. Ira Bennington .......... $100.00 (Delta, Pa.)
Miss Julia Atkinson .......... 75.00 (Balto., Md.)

Mrs. Agnes Clarkson .......... 25.00 (Balto., Md.)
Mr. W. E. Shipley .......... 10.00 (Balto., Md.)
Mrs. T. C. Webster .......... 5.00 (Balto., Md.)

Thanks again to everyone who in any way helped to make this party a success. We are very proud of the way our graduates always come forward and help our Alma Mater whenever called upon. So until next time with our grateful thanks and appreciation.

Your Alumnae Association.

The beautiful afghan made by Miss Grace E. Dick, Class of 1929, from wool brought from Australia, and chanced off, was won by Mrs. Conley, mother of Miss Virginia Conley, the President of the Nurses' Alumnae Association. The chances amounted to $125.50.

Miss Dick organized the nursing staff for the University of Maryland Units, and had charge of the 42nd General Hospital during World War II. Thanks a million Miss Dick.

THE 42nd AND 142nd GENERAL HOSPITALS OF THE UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND SCHOOL OF MEDICINE IN WORLD WAR II
(Compiled for the Maryland Historical Society)

BY ANNE LLEWELLYN COUGHLAN, CLASS OF 1938

In 1940 the University of Maryland School of Medicine was requested by the War Department to organize a surgical hospital similar to the Maryland Unit in World War I. Later the War Department desired the organization of a thousand bed general hospital. After the outbreak of the war, the immediate need for smaller general hospitals being recognized by the Surgeon General, the original unit was reorganized into two general hospitals of five hundred beds each. They were named the 42nd and 142nd General Hospitals.

Recruiting of nurses began late in December, 1941. On the recommendation of Miss Annie Creighton, Superintendent of the School of Nursing, University of Maryland, Miss Grace E. Dick was selected chief nurse. Under her supervision more than 120 graduates of the nursing schools of Baltimore hospitals were examined and 90 finally accepted. When the unit was divided Miss Regina Donahue, a graduate of Mercy Hospital, was appointed chief nurse of the 142nd General Hospital.

Under Dr. Maurice Pincoffs’ able and enthusiastic leadership the nurses, mostly in mufti, and the doctors went on active duty in April, 1942. Dr. Pincoffs was commanding officer of the 42nd Unit which went to Fort Custer, Michigan. Dr. Monte Edwards was appointed to head the 142nd Unit which was stationed at Fort Riley, Kansas, for immunization and indoctrination. There nurses from hospitals all over the country joined the units to complete the compliments ordered by the tables of organization.

One month later both units were in San Francisco awaiting transport across the Pacific to destinations veiled in military secrecy.

The 42nd docked at Melbourne and went on immediately to Canberra where the nurses busied themselves for six weeks in social activities and in aiding the Australian women with war work. In July 1942 the doctors, nurses, and enlisted men convened in Brisbane to establish their hospital in what had previously been a convent. They remained in that location for sixteen months treating both medical and surgical cases, many of which were battle casualties from the New Guinea Campaign. Late in 1942, Dr. Pincoffs was made Chief of Professional Services in the Southwest Pacific Area and Dr. George H. Yeager became Commanding Officer of the 42nd.

Meanwhile, the 142nd General Hospital disembarked in Auckland, New Zealand, for ten days and was then dispatched to the Fiji Islands.
Their first hospital was near Lautoka, Fiji, where they treated many casualties from the Solomon Islands Campaign. A year later this hospital was moved to Suva, Fiji, and expanded to 1,000 beds. Dr Monte Edwards had returned to the States because of ill health and Dr. Murray M. Copeland had replaced him as Commanding Officer.

The 42nd had also been expanded to 1000 beds and part of the personnel had established a convalescent hospital at Camp Columbia near Ipswich. As the battles drew farther away and the forces diminished in Australia, still another change took place. In May 1945 the nurses were transported by plane to Manila in the Philippines. News of the Japanese surrender came so soon after this that the unit had not had time to settle in Manila. They boarded the A. H. S. Marigold and after a short lay over in Okinawa had the honor of being the first hospital unit to enter Tokyo Bay on August 31, 1945, and were present at the time of the surrender.

Soon the members of the 42nd had established a processing station for recovered American military personnel in Yokahama. Several nurses were sent to outlying prison camps to do preliminary screening of patients. After two weeks of hard work by the processing station most of these men who had been held prisoners by the Japanese were on their way to the States.

The 42nd General Hospital made its final move into St. Luke's Hospital which had been established by the Episcopal Church some years previously in Tokyo. Here Mrs. MacArthur presented the unit with a flag recaptured in Manila as the Americans reentered the city.

Many replacements had joined the hospital as personnel with high points or other reasons had returned home. Within several days of entering St. Luke's Hospital the few nurses and doctors who had been with the unit since activation were relieved of duty and sent to the States. When the 42nd was deactivated none of the original members remained.

The end of the war found the 142nd General Hospital in Calcutta, India. To bring their story up to date, in September, 1944, they started the long sea voyage from Suva, Fiji, around the southern coast of Australia through the Indian Ocean to Bombay. There had been one stop in Melbourne, Australia, for the unit members to visit their first large city in over two years. Almost immediately after landing in Bombay the Unit entrained for Calcutta.

There they relieved the 263rd General Hospital and began functioning as the 142nd in the same wards, erstwhile marble palaces, and barracks. Both medical, malaria predominating, and surgical cases were treated. Many surgical casualties were brought in from an adjacent air base.

At the time of the Japanese surrender most of the members who had been with the unit for three years had returned to the States on rotation and none of the original personnel remained when the unit was deactivated some months later.
THE INTERNATIONAL COUNCIL OF NURSES

VIRGINIA CONLEY, CLASS OF 1940

On May 12, 1947, the 127th anniversary of the birth of Florence Nightingale, the 9th Congress of the International Council of Nurses met in Atlantic City. An enthusiastic throng of 6,500 nurses representing 33 nations were on hand when President Effie J. Taylor called to order the first post war Congress. For the first time in 40 years, the American Nurses Association were hosts to this delegation, and they had put forth every effort to make it a memorable occasion.

In her greeting to the delegation, Miss Taylor reviewed the primary functions of the International Council of Nurses as:

2. The sharing of problems, and the ways and means of solving them.

Miss Taylor, in her presidential address, stressed that the serious depression which fell on the nursing profession was caused partly by the world crisis, and partly by a defective system of education. She pointed out that the inadequate supply of nurses everywhere should serve as a challenge to find and correct the causes.

The topics of discussion included the various phases of nursing service and nursing education, and the problems arising in each. Mlle. Bihet of the National Federation of Nurses of Belgium opened the discussion group with the subject "Professional Education." She was inclined to believe that it was impossible to avoid a revision of the whole problem of education, and that nursing like other professions needs an adequate and methodical preparation. Mlle. Bihet laid much emphasis on the moral, intellectual, social, and technical factors in education; and the responsibility of the teacher in the education of the student nurse. She definitely felt that the whole training of pupils should be in the hands of a woman with a good head, a kind heart, great tact, and who at the same time has made this profession the ambition of her life; and should be based on a moral education. This teacher must be a qualified and excellent nurse, and must possess all the qualities she wishes her pupils to acquire. Mlle. Bihet presented a new proposed plan for nursing education formulated by the National Federation of Belgian Nurses, and urged all nurses to propose reforms considered essential. The need to strengthen postgraduate education was stressed by leaders of many countries who reported a wide variety of postgraduate courses being offered in their respective countries.

The universal problem of the "The Shortage of Nurses and Methods to Meet It" was discussed by Miss R. L. Van Voorthuysen of the Netherlands. She blamed the war for the restlessness of the world. This has reacted on the nurses also, many of them endeavoring to secure positions abroad. Miss Van Voorthuysan thought to combat this restlessness it would be well to direct the inclination to go abroad by establishing an exchange of nurses between various countries under the auspices of the I. C. N. She also believed that the expansion of institutions where there is constant need for accommodations, the growth of public health and industrial work and the marriage of many nurses following the war were the direct causes of the shortage of nurses. To remedy this Miss Van Voorthuysan advocated more schools of nursing, more student nurses, the use of the assistant nurse and part time nurses, and lastly long enough to listen to them."

"The Responsibility of the International Council of Nurses in relation to the International Education of Nurses" was discussed by Miss Ethel Johns of Canada. She stated that the I. C. N. has demonstrated that it is possible for people of different races, creeds, languages, and political beliefs to work together. International nursing education implies that nurses seek and find opportunities of learning about nursing in other countries. Successive congresses held at regular intervals in different countries make it possible for nurses from all parts of the world to meet in congenial surroundings and take counsel with one another. Miss Johns insisted that the I. C. N. should also remind us that our foreign sisters might be able to teach us something if we could ever stop talking long enough to listen to them."

Miss Johns outlined several factors which she felt would aid in the International Education of nurses:

1. Establishment and maintenance of close relationship with all international groups associated with the United Nations which are engaged in promoting health and welfare of mankind.

2. The maintenance and improvement of the standards of the basic education of nurses.

3. The formulation of accepted standards for postgraduate education, and encouragement of the interchange of nurses between member countries for the purpose of study and observation.

4. The development of strong leadership which will insure the preservation of the moral and spiritual values which are the very soul of nursing.

In the discussion of "Ethics of Nursing", Mlle. Alice Clamangeran of France emphasized that "our patients want us to be more than technicians." The atmosphere in the School and the example set by the Director and teachers are the best and most efficient means to teach ethics. Mlle. Clamangeran was in complete accord with Mlle. Bihet in that a strong moral education is essential in the interest of our pupils, patients and profession. Her outline of the basic ethics of nursing consisted of the following points:
1. Fundamental principles of ethics.
2. Respect and love of the patient.
3. Good behavior of the nurse.
4. Respect of authority.
5. Discipline.

At the closing session of the Congress, Miss Taylor introduced Mrs. Alma H. Scott of the United States who presented an elaborate structure study for the work of the I. C. N. in the future.

Grace M. Fairley of Canada presented the following resolution which had been adopted by the Resolutions Committee:

1. Promised to assist national nurses' organizations with teaching equipment and materials where needed, and to continue to provide uniforms, food packages to nurses who need them.
2. Pledged active support to the United Nations Health Organization, League of Red Cross Societies.
3. Pledged support to the Children's Fund proposed by the United Nations for relief of children all over the world.
4. Urged the development of nurses' professional associations as the most suitable spokesmen for nurses in question of hours, salaries, and employment conditions.

The retiring president, Miss Taylor, gave the watchword “Faith”, and presented the new president of the I.C.N., Miss Gerda Höjer of Sweden. Miss Höjer extended a cordial invitation to the nurses of the world to attend the next Congress of the International Council of Nurses which will be held in Stockholm, Sweden, in 1949.

Presentation of Citations

Before the close of the Congress three citations were presented paying tribute to two American nurses and to the I. C. N. Citations for distinguished service were given to Annie W. Goodrich, former president and now honorary president of the I. C. N., and to Lavinia L. Dock, who served as the Council's first secretary for twenty-four years. Ruth Sleeper, president of the National League of Nursing Education, presented the Mary Adelaide Nutting plaque to the I. C. N. for its educational leadership.

Following this ceremony, the second Florence Nightingale Oration was delivered by Mrs. Lucy Seymour of Bedford College, London, an I. C. N. tradition established in 1937. Mrs. Seymour had selected as the subject of her address, "The Writings of Florence Nightingale", which she felt had been long neglected. The oration was excellent, and it proved to be a delightful and impressive climax to the Congress.

The evening programs throughout the week proved to be most interesting and relaxing. On Sunday evening prior to the opening of the Congress, a memorial service was held for Mrs. Ethel Gordon Fenwick, of Great Britain, the co-founder of the International Council of Nurses, who died on March 13, 1947. The Chapel Choir of the Westminster Choir College assisted in the musical portion of this very beautiful and reverent service.

On Monday evening the American Nurses Association held a formal reception for the nurses attending the I. C. N. at the Ambassador Hotel. During the week we were privileged to hear the Lincoln University Male Chorus, the Philadelphia Festival Orchestra, and the Westminster Choir. On the last evening of the Congress, Owen Lattimore of the Walter Hines Page School of International Relations, The Johns Hopkins University, delivered an address on “The Three Worlds that Make One World”.

It was indeed a privilege and an honor to attend the Congress of the International Council of Nurses. It was an opportunity which the nurses in the United States may not experience again for many years to come, and I was happy and grateful to have been chosen to represent the Alumnae Association.
THE MARYLAND STATE NURSES ASSOCIATION:
PAST AND PRESENT

It seems important at this point to remind ourselves that organizations such as ours very quickly lose their power and prestige if they do not effectively serve the purposes for which they were established. Let us examine our original purpose as stated in the Certificate of Incorporation of the Maryland State Association of Graduate Nurses, Incorporated, as it was known in 1903: "The purpose for which the said corporation is formed, and the business or objects to be carried on and promoted by it are to elevate and maintain the standard of nursing, to promote good fellowship among all graduate nurses, and to advance their interests whenever and wherever possible." As a matter of interest to University nurses, the original certificate of Incorporation which was completed January 16, 1909, contains the name of Miss Sara E. Parsons, President.

On June 14, 1937, the Maryland State Association of Graduate Nurses, Incorporated, became the Maryland State Nurses Association, Inc. Did the purpose of the organization change? This is the statement of it: "The object of this association shall be to establish and maintain a code of ethics among nurses, to further all means aiming to elevate the standards of the profession and to establish professional reciprocity between the nurses of Maryland and those of other States and Countries".

The fundamental purpose is certainly not changed but a broader scope of activities is inherent.

At the Annual Meeting to be held this year on January 24 you are being asked to vote upon revisions in the constitution and by-laws. One of these changes appears in the purpose of our organization. The statement remains the same as it was in 1937 except that the word "reciprocity" is changed to professional relationships and the following has been added "and to cooperate with other agencies toward better nursing service." Thus the statement of purpose, if the revision is approved, will stand as follows: "The object of this Association shall be to establish and maintain a code of ethics among nurses, to further all means aiming to elevate the standards of the profession, to establish professional relationships between the nurses of Maryland and those of other States and Countries, and to cooperate with other agencies toward better nursing service".

Whatever nurses are able to accomplish for their own welfare and for the welfare of the people whom they serve will result not through individual action alone but through group action. This, I am sure, has been recognized over and over again by the members of the Nurses Alumnae Association of the University of Maryland Hospital School of Nursing. There undoubtedly have been instances in which the effectiveness of group action under dynamic leadership has been dramatically demonstrated by your organization.

Yours, is one of the original alumnae associations in Maryland. It was incorporated in 1903, the same year in which the Maryland State Nurses Association was formed. The forty-four years of our history reveal the contributions which your association and ours have made to each other and to the individual nurse. Yours has always been a strong and powerful organization and I am sure it is your objective to keep it so. That is also our objective for the State Association.

"To cooperate with other agencies toward better nursing service". Here we see the growing recognition of a fact which has for some time been apparent to many nurses and to some other people: that the problems confronting the nursing profession today are no longer exclusively professional problems, but rather a matter of public concern. Nursing organizations have taken the leadership in improving the situation but we can not work, nor should we, work alone. If you have not already done so I urge you to read the article "Where's That Nurse?" which appeared in the January 4 issue of the Saturday Evening Post. The authors of this article secured background material from the Nursing Information Bureau of the A. N. A. and from many nurses, hospital administrators and members of the Medical profession. It is a plain-talking article and will undoubtedly cause much discussion and perhaps some controversy.

It is well for us to realize that a profession exists only by the right which is granted to it by the community, that is, by the people. As the patient in Old Blockley, now the Philadelphia General Hospital, once told a nurse, "If it wa'n't for us'ns, you'ns wouldn't be here". We now enjoy the privileges of professional recognition. We shall continue to enjoy them only so long as we also assume and meet the responsibilities of our profession.

What has been accomplished by our nursing organizations in the past is a constant inspiration to us. I do not need to remind you of the important achievements for nurses such as legal recognition through state registration, development of official registries, advancement of educational standards, increase in educational opportunities, establishment of scholarship and loan funds, development of professional magazines and information service. These have resulted from the work of our organizations in the past. They continue to require our time and attention not only because our needs are changing but new needs are also arising. The very nature of the time in which we are living and playing our part in the history of nursing is a great stimulus to further activity.

Uppermost in the minds of many nurses today is a desire for economic security. If this were simple to achieve the problem would have been solved years ago but it would not have remained permanently solved. We should need to isolate ourselves completely from our environment to be unaware of the implications of the changes which are occurring in our entire economic structure. The labor management relationship has reached a crisis. The new congress lists the need for revisions in our labor laws among the first matters for consideration. Who will speak and act for nurses? You know the action which has been taken by the A. N. A. What shall we in Maryland do? How shall we do it?

Another activity which engages much of our time is that related to aiding in securing well qualified women to enter our schools of nursing. The work of the Student Recruitment Committee which functioned under the nursing council during the war is now being carried on by the Student Enrollment Committee of the Maryland State Nurses Association.

Concurrent with this work must go the development of a sound public relations program. You all know from the Bernays articles which appeared in the American Journal of Nursing last year that people in general are ill informed about nursing—what it really is, what preparation is required and what opportunities it offers to women. Nurses themselves are not always very well informed about current developments. We are doing something about this in our work with counselors in our public schools, with women's clubs, with alumnae associations, with hospital administrators and with members of the medical profession.

The individual nurse can be the most effective courier in both recruitment and public relations. To the question: "Why did you choose to become a nurse?" a very common response is: "I knew a nurse who _____ ________". In order to be convincing, however, the nurse must be sure that nursing has much to offer. She must also bear her responsibility for making nursing a profession to attract new people. This she can do by her professional activities in her school of nursing, in her work and in her professional organizations.

Among the newest enterprises of the Maryland State Nurses Association is the Professional Counseling and Placement Service. This work is extremely interesting and gratifying to us as well as to the counsels and to employers. Much of our time at headquarters is devoted to this service.

The Committee on Personnel Practices will have its report and recommendations ready in the very near future. It is through this activity that the Board of Directors believes we can most effectively work with nurses and employers to bring about greater job satisfaction and greater opportunities for nurses.

In order to keep nurses informed the Maryland Nursing News has been enlarged. We urge you to send us your criticisms and suggestions in order that we can make it truly your official organ for Maryland nurses.

Some of our work requires legal advice. At the present time two projects are necessitating more than the usual amount of such assistance: the introduction of a bill in the General Assembly to increase the fee for state registration from $10.00 to $20.00 and the change of the status of the Central Directory of Registered Nurses, Inc., to become a non-profit-sharing agency of the Maryland State Nurse Association.

Other work conducted at headquarters would be interesting to you. The amount of detail involved could better be appreciated by a visit with us. We cordially invite you to make such a visit.

All nurses profit by the work of professional nursing organizations whether they are members of that organization or not, but it is obvious that benefits do accrue to members. We know that most nurses who are active will always identify themselves with these organizations and make their contributions to them for the benefit of themselves and others.
TESTIMONIAL DINNER IN HONOR OF DR. SHIPLEY

Two hundred and fifty Baltimore surgeons and physicians last night paid tribute to Dr. Arthur M. Shipley at a testimonial dinner at the Sheraton-Belvedere Hotel.

Professor of surgery at the University of Maryland for the past 27 years of his 45 year association with the university, Dr. Shipley was complimented by leaders of Baltimore's medical fraternity.

Among those who spoke were Drs. Harvey B. Stone, Alfred Blalock, Maurice C. Pincoffs and C. Reid Edwards, an associate of Dr. Shipley's at the university.

Other speakers were Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro and President H. C. Byrd of the University of Maryland.

Those present included more than 40 physicians who had received their appointments as residents at the University Hospital and City Hospitals from Dr. Shipley.

During the course of his remarks Dr. Blalock told the occasion when Dr. Shipley had been asked by the famous late Dr. William S. Halstead to conduct a clinic—considered a rare honor from one of "The Big Four" of the Hopkins Medical School.

In the lighter vein Dr. Pincoffs offered his professional diagnosis of Dr. Shipley's energy and told those present that the guest of honor had never known when to quit work.

(The above was clipped from the Sunpapers.)

Dr. Arthur Marriott Shipley, son of Roderick O. Shipley and Wilhelmina Clark Shipley, was born on January 8, 1878, at Harmon, Maryland. He received his preliminary education at the local county and Friends Schools after which he taught school in the country for one year. In 1902 he graduated as honor man in his class from the University of Maryland School of Medicine. From 1902 to 1903 he was interne on Dr. Tiffany's and Dr. Martin's services. The following year he was assistant resident in surgery. From 1904 to 1908 he served as Superintendent of the University Hospital. However, during the year 1906 he was granted leave of absence for postgraduate studies in Germany under Dr. Chiari. In 1909 Dr. Shipley married Julia Armistead Joyanes of Baltimore.

His career at the University of Maryland School of Medicine as a teacher began in 1905 when he was appointed Associate Professor of Clinical Surgery. In addition to his teaching duties, he served as Chairman of the Hospital Committee from 1910 to 1917.

In August 1917 he was commissioned as a Captain in the Medical Reserve Corps and was sent to Camp Meade as Chief of the Surgical Service at the local Base Hospital. In December of the same year he was transferred to Camp Oglethorpe as Chief Surgeon, Evacuation Hospital No. 8. He sailed with his unit for overseas duty in May 1918. Evacuation Hospital No. 8 served with distinction in France. In February 1919 he was detached from his unit and came home as a casual. Dr. Shipley reported to Camp Meade for further service until April of the same year when he was discharged from the Army as Lieutenant Colonel. A year later he was cited for the Distinguished Service Medal by Surgeon General Ireland.

In 1920 Dr. Shipley was appointed as full Professor of Surgery in which capacity he has served to date. In January 1921 he continued his affiliations as Chief Surgeon, Baltimore City Hospitals, in which capacity he had been acting since 1911. He continued to serve at the City Hospitals until 1937. Nearly every student associated with this school will undoubtedly remember the many wonderful clinics given by the Professor at the Baltimore City Hospitals.

Dr. Shipley holds national acclaim as evidenced by the many societies of which he is a member. Among the societies are included the American Surgical Association of which he was Vice-President 1943, the Southern Surgical Association, Society of Clinical Surgery, Research Society, American Thoracic Society, and the Eclat Club. Dr. Shipley was a very active member of the American College of Surgeons of which he served as a member of the Board of Regents from 1935 to 1945, and was made a Governor the following year. In addition to his activities in these societies, private practice, and teaching, he found time to serve as President of the Medical and Chirurgical Faculty of Maryland 1936 to 1937.

During World War II when there was a dearth of personnel, he bore a heavy load of the teaching, and in addition, served as Head of the Procurement and Assignment Service, Third Corps Area.

THE HOLLISTER MEMORIAL

The Hollister Memorial Fund at present amounts to $551.21.

Because numerous friends have indicated a desire to make yearly contributions until the fund is sufficiently large to provide an income which can be utilized for a definite purpose, the fund is being kept open.

On October 30, 1947, the Chairman of the Committee, Ethel M. Troy, attended graveside services in the Denton, Maryland, Cemetery, where Miss Hollister's body had been brought for its final resting place.

THE "REUNION"

By Grace Reynolds Warfield, Class of 1920.

Over the river and through the fields,
To Miss Beuchler's house we did go,
Three were early, three on time,
And four were late, you know.
The dinner was cooking,
The tables were set,
And, Miss Beuchler, gracious but firm,
Said "Miss Scaggs you do this, and Miss Mac you do that, Miss Biddlecomb come with me."
"Yes, Miss Beuchler," they all did agree!
Along came Schwaub and Rennie,
With their camera took pictures a plenty.
Poor "Miss Beuchler" was aghast!
It was four o'clock and past,
The sun was about set,
And still no Miss Bay, Miss Barnett, no Bessie Lee, not even Miss Yates yet.

Soon the phone gave a ring and that settled things.
A blow out! Oh, my what a shame,
Just the class of '20 up to their old tricks again.
The husbands were weak not meek,
Since breakfast seemed ages ago;
But soon came the time, the dinner bell finally did chime.
Those pleasant moments went swiftly by,
And we hope in one year Miss Beuchler will give us another try
As you know, we all love to go and keep '20s friendship aglow.

YOUR HEALTH AND ACCIDENT PROTECTION

On June 1, 1947, thru the Nurses' Alumnae Association of the University of Maryland, a plan was inaugurated to give its members actively engaged in their profession, a monthly income to replace earnings in the event of disability thru accident or illness.

The plan, operated by the MASSACHUSETTS BONDING AND INSURANCE COMPANY, provides income up to $100 monthly, covering all diseases. There are no discriminations regarding female disorders. All operations and accidents are covered also. Up to $60 monthly, there are no restrictions because of age or previous medical history. Payments begin the first day in the event of accident, the seventh day in illness.

Members, including recent graduates, may join the plan on the anniversary date, June 1, 1948.

For further particulars and application forms, communicate with the State Representative, Ethel M. Troy, 17 Light Street, Baltimore 2, Maryland, or directly with the Dana G. Hall Agency, 123 William Street, New York 7, New York.
I desire to become a member of the Alumnae Association, and enclose herewith three dollars in payment of initiation fee and dues for this year.

To the Members of the Nurses' Alumnae Association

The nurses of the United States have recently celebrated their seventy-fifth anniversary. It was on September 1, 1873 that Linda Richards, America’s first professional nurse, received her diploma from the New England Hospital for Women and Children. From that time up to the present day, the nursing profession has made rapid strides. Today we are known as “the best nursed country in the world”; and this achievement has been due largely to the efforts of the nursing organizations.

We, the Alumnae Association, are justified in having pride in our past. Our Association was one of the pioneer nursing organizations in Maryland which was instrumental in bringing about reforms leading to modern nursing. However, in order to continue to enjoy the privileges of a professional organization, we must assume and meet certain responsibilities.

Our first responsibility is to our School of Nursing. At this time every school needs the strongest possible support. We must be tolerant of changes, and have a real understanding of the educational function of the school. There can be no progress without changes, and the cooperation of the Alumnae should be sought.

Our second responsibility is to the nursing profession; as the primary reason for our very existence is the administration of the best possible nursing care. The patterns for nursing care are changing rapidly, but only the profession can set the standards. Therefore, it is imperative that we take an active interest in our professional organizations as a means of keeping abreast of nursing trends.

Lastly, we are responsible to the University; for we function as an integral part of the University of Maryland Alumni Association. In doing this, the various schools are brought closer together thereby fostering good fellowship and a better understanding of the others’ problems.

In meeting these obligations, our Nurses’ Alumnae Association should continue to grow in power and strength, and should be of unlimited value to the nursing profession and the University.

Virginia C. Conley
President, Nurses’ Alumnae Association
H. BOYD WYLIE, M.D.

Dean School of Medicine

Dr. Hamilton Boyd Wylie, the son of Dr. Hamilton Boyd Wylie, Sr. and Carrie S. Wylie, nee Slater, was born in Baltimore, Maryland on May 3, 1887.

He received his premedical training at the Johns Hopkins University, 1905 to 1908, and was granted the degree of Doctor of Medicine in 1912 by the Baltimore Medical College, an institution which has since become a part of the University of Maryland School of Medicine.

He married Nina B. Landragan in 1912, and has two children, Mrs. Herbert M. Reedy, Jr., and Hamilton Boyd Wylie, Jr.

Dr. Wylie began his career at the School of Medicine of the University of Maryland in 1913 as Associate in Physiological Chemistry and Pharmacology. He served successively as Assistant in Clinical Pathology and Pharmacology; Demonstrator of Clinical Pathology and Pharmacology; Associate in Physiological Chemistry, Pharmacology and Clinical Pathology; Associate Professor of Physiological Chemistry and Pharmacology, and Associate Professor of Clinical Pathology and Physiological Chemistry until 1919 when he was appointed Professor of Biochemistry.

As head of the Department of Biochemistry he has developed and maintained a well organized department. His characteristics of thoroughness and clarity of exposition have made him an excellent teacher.

Dr. Wylie participated in the activities of the Dean's Office prior to the retirement of Dean J. M. H. Rowland in 1939, and it was largely through his efforts that a Committee on Admissions for the selection of medical students was appointed in 1936. He has been chairman of this committee since its organization.

Dr. Wylie was appointed Acting Dean in 1939 and served in that capacity until November, 1942 when he became Assistant Dean. He acted as Assistant Dean from 1942 to June 30, 1946, when he again become Acting Dean. He was appointed Dean of the School of Medicine on June 15, 1948.

His keen interest in medical education is reflected in the improved standards of teaching in the Medical School.

He is a member of: the American Chemical Society, the Medical and Chirurgical Faculty of Maryland, the American Medical Association, the Medical Advisory Committee of the Baltimore City Hospitals and the Medical Advisory Council for Medical Services of the Department of Public Welfare of Baltimore, Chairman of the Dean's Committee of Maryland Cooperating with the Veterans Administration, and a member of Sigma Xi.
IN MEMORIAM

(Condensed from Dr. Shipley's article in "Medicus Terra Mariae" of 1948)

Dr. Thomas B. Aycock was born December 9, 1895 in Fremont, North Carolina. He was the fourth son and seventh child in a family of eight children. His father died when he was about two years old. He spent his youth on a farm with his widowed mother. He had his early schooling in a one-room, one-teacher school and then entered the Pikesville High School in North Carolina where he continued until the spring of 1916—about three years.

The following year he entered the undergraduate department of the University of North Carolina where he remained until the summer of 1917, when he returned home and worked on his mother's farm until he was drafted into World War I. He was assigned as a private to the 81st Division. He was sent overseas and rose to the rank of sergeant, and was discharged in 1919 in time to enter again that year at the University of North Carolina. He won his B.S. degree at Chapel Hill and spent the following two years taking the first and second years in medicine at the University of North Carolina.

The following year he entered the Junior medical class at the University of Maryland where he graduated well up in his class in 1924.

In the next year he was interne in the University Hospital. He was then transferred to the City Hospitals and remained there as House Officer until July 1, 1929, spending his last year as Resident Surgeon. He then joined the surgical staff of the University Hospital, rising steadily from Assistant in Surgery to Professor of Clinical Surgery. He was very interested and proficient in Thoracic Surgery.

His wife was an invalid for a considerable time and died about a year before Dr. Aycock's passing. His last years were somewhat handicapped by hypertension, although he continued staunchly at work until the ruptured surgical aneurysm at the base of his brain caused his death at the age of fifty-two.

He was loyal, honest, straight-forward and experienced in the fields of surgical practise and hospital behavior.
NANNIE JACQUILINE LACKLAND

Nannie Jacqueline Lackland was born at "Riverside", the family homestead in Jefferson County, West Virginia. She was the daughter of the late Martha Ellen Willis Lackland and Thomas Griggs Lackland. She received her early education in a private school and later attended the Stephenson Female Seminary in Charles Town, West Virginia.

At the age of twenty-five, Miss Lackland began her career which has been so interesting and which has proven to be so beneficial to many people in many parts of the country. She enrolled in the University of Maryland School of Nursing, one of five students in the class. After graduating from the school in 1898, she spent some time at the Kelley Sanatorium in Baltimore; and for several summers was in charge of the Children's Hospital School then located near Catonsville, Maryland. For two summers she was one of the head nurses at the Mt. Wilson Sanatorium near Baltimore, and later did hourly and private nursing for six years in Baltimore.

Miss Lackland served on the staff of the Visiting Nurses' Association, part of the time as nurse in charge in Portland, Oregon. For some time she was associated with the Delineator magazine as a public health nurse of the Health Department of that publication. After her service with the Delineator magazine, Miss Lackland was with the Children's Bureau, United States Department of Labor as a Field Nurse, making studies of maternal and child mortality, in connection with the proposed bill, the Shepherd and Towner Act, which was later passed by Congress.

After her work with the Department of Labor, Miss Lackland took a course in Public Health Nursing at Teachers' College, Columbia University, New York City. She also did post-graduate work at the Orthopedic Hospital in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. She was superintendent of St. Peter's Hospital in Charlotte, North Carolina, for several years, and was superintendent of the Visiting Nurses' Association in St. Joseph, Missouri, for ten years. After leaving St. Joseph, Miss Lackland was superintendent of the Visiting Nurses' Association in East St. Louis, Missouri, for one year. She served as state supervisory nurse for the American Red Cross in the state of Mississippi just after the first World War. She instructed classes in bedside nursing during the hostilities. In 1918 she was in charge of a district in Washington, D.C., under the Department of Health during the flu epidemic.

Miss Lackland was a member of the first Board of the State Examiners of Nurses in Maryland, and served in that capacity four years. She was President of the University of Maryland Nurses' Alumnae Association for two years, and Treasurer of the Maryland State Nurses' Association for two years. She was on the committee which composed the first By-Laws and Constitution of the University of Maryland Nurses' Alumnae Association. Miss Lackland served two terms each as President of the Oregon State Nurses' Association, President of the Second District, Missouri State Nurses' Association, and Vice-President of the Missouri State Nurses' Association. She also served on the Board of the Central Registry for Nurses in Baltimore when it was first organized.

Nannie Lackland retired in 1935 after a lifetime of service and earnest devotion to duty which took her to many cities and through many states. In addition to her travels in this country, she has travelled extensively abroad. From 1935 to 1942 she made her home in Washington, D. C., and since then has resided in Charles Town. During her residence in Jefferson County, West Virginia, Miss Lackland has been extremely active in church and club work and civic affairs. She is a member of the Episcopal Church, and of the Women's Auxiliary of that denomination. In addition to being president of the Woman's Club, she is a member of the Lawson Botts Chapter United Daughters of the Confederacy, of the Hospital Auxiliary, and of the Jefferson County Historical Society.

Residing in her apartment on South George Street, Charles Town, Miss Lackland is enjoying the much deserved rest that comes as a reward to a life unselfishly well spent. She has won for herself the title of a "good sport," in addition she is a valuable citizen of the community.

THE TESTING OF A NEW ANTIBIOTIC

Theodore E. Woodward, M.D.

It is now well known that two antibiotics derived from fungus growths have a wide application in clinical medicine. Penicillin, which is very effective in Gram-positive infections, was the first one described by Sir Alexander Fleming in England. The second, streptomycin, was brought to medical science by Dr. Samuel Waksman, and has wide usage in Gram-negative infections and also in human tuberculosis. Pharmaceutical houses, however, are not completely satisfied with these agents and are constantly in search for improved types. It was this constant searching attitude by the Research Division of Parke, Davis and Company that led to the finding of chloromycetin, and the manner in which this new agent was discovered will be related.

Under money grants provided by Parke, Davis and Company, Dr. Paul Burkholder of Yale University, occupied himself by testing and screening various new fungi grown from soil. It happened that Dr. Burkholder received a scoop of earth from Venezuela from which he isolated a new mold. He found that it produced striking effect when tested in the test tube against certain Gram-negative bacteria, such as colon infection and certain types of dysentery bacteria. Dr. Burkholder sent his new strain of fungus to Parke, Davis and Company in Detroit. Here the mold was further studied, and the workers under Dr. Ehrlich produced a new agent in crystallin form, and it was here that the name chloromycetin was proposed, because of the fact that the drug is a derivative from the streptomycyes group of fungi, and because this new agent contains some non-ionic chlorine. The research group at Parke, Davis and Company then tested the crystallin compound in various other infections, and confirmed the fact that this new agent had a wide range of activity.

Soon, some of this new drug was sent to the Army Medical School for further development there by Dr. Joseph E. Smadel and his group. These workers discovered that animals injected with such dreadful diseases as typhus fever did not die when they were given chloromycetin. This, then, was a tremendous step because it appeared that a new agent had been discovered for the control of rickettsial infections. In this part of the country, rickettsial infections include Rocky Mountain spotted fever and endemic typhus fever. Dr. Smadel's work led to a medical mission for the testing of the new drug in clinical cases. The Surgeon General of the Army allotted funds for such a trial, and a group of doctors was organized for this expedition. We at the University of Maryland were asked to participate, and were very happy to send a representative along to observe this new and dramatic unfolding of the cure of severe infections not hitherto controlled.
The problems encountered in preparing for such a mission represent a story in itself, because every test tube, every technical aid needed for such a controlled study was transported by air 12,000 miles away to the Federated Malay States. Malaya was selected for the testing of this drug because the type of typhus fever existed there that we wished to try. It is called Scrub Typhus, so-called because of the fact that the individuals acquire the disease in the brush or scrub, where little mites or chiggers hide. It is the bite of this little insect that produces a severe rickettsial infection. We had the comfort of a special plane and transported about 6,000 lbs. of equipment. One rather amusing incident along the way occurred on the island of Guam where our principal entomologist wandered away from the plane, permitting us to take off before he was missed. On returning we found that this pure scientist had gone into the brush to search for grasshoppers. It was several days before he returned to the good graces of the group. In the Philippine Islands additional necessary equipment was acquired, namely, two jeeps. Those of you who have had experience in the Army know that one of the prime requisites for any problem, regardless of type, is transportation.

Once in Malaya, everything went smoothly, principally because of the very gracious reception and preparations made by our British host. We had hardly unpacked before cases of scrub typhus presented themselves. The first case might be related in a little detail, because he represented such a typical infection. He was a young Malay soldier, who had acquired his disease while engaging in maneuvers on the air field of Kuala Lumpur. By the time we first saw him he had a temperature of 104 degrees and was very sick and toxic in appearance. He had a pink rash over his trunk, and he had a small ulcer high in the armpit which represented the site of his mite bite. He presented a very typical case of scrub typhus. After we had inoculated mice and had done various routine laboratory procedures, he was started on chloromycetin at 10 o'clock in the morning. By evening he asked for food the first time in five days, and on the following morning his temperature was normal. It remained normal from that time onward and for all intents and purposes he was clinically cured. We all felt considerable encouragement at that time, and our hopes were not dampened. We continued to treat cases in all stages of the illness, and found that here was a dramatic cure for a serious disease. In treating 32 cases, the patients averaged 24 hours of fever after the institution of therapy which compared favorably with the expected two weeks febrile course. No deaths were observed. The new medicine was found to be so specific that only one dose was needed to cure this serious disease. Scrub typhus in Malaya is a disease dreaded and feared as much as we fear infantile paralysis in this country. In Malaya because of the fact that the prime source of economy for the country is rubber, it is necessary for a great number of people to work in the jungle. In clearing the jungle for the planting of rubber trees the little tiny mites come out of the ground and attach themselves to skin. If that particular mite is infected that particular individual becomes ill in seven days. The people in Malaya, both native and European, have learned great respect for the disease. Just before our arrival, a very prominent British subject had died from scrub typhus, he having acquired the infection while touring the gardens of the Governor General of that Protectorate. Thus, the trouble, expense and work, which the testing of this new drug entailed certainly seemed to justify itself.

That was not all, however. Purely by chance observation, we were able to observe that this new drug could greatly influence the course of another serious illness, namely, that of typhoid fever. As you might imagine when one is testing a new drug, it is difficult to secure 100% accurate diagnosis in all instances, particularly when one desires to treat the disease early in the stage of illness. Actually, in our series of 42 cases, only 32, as was mentioned, turned out to be scrub typhus. The other ten were divided between malaria, Weil’s disease, Murine or endemic typhus fever, and two cases of GKW (God knows what). The cases of typhoid were most interesting because we observed that their temperature, although not returning to normal in 24 hours, did fall in 3 days. But, before the return of temperature to normal, their general appearance was very greatly improved. Having determined accurately that these cases were typhoid, by means of blood cultures and cultures of the stool for the typhoid organism, we decided to take some of the precious drug which still existed in very limited supply to test for typhoid. We allotted enough chloromycetin for the treatment of 10 cases of this disease. The results in the treatment in these 10 cases continued as the first two treated. The temperature was normal in a fraction over 3 days, and of added significance, the reduction in toxicity was even sooner. Of the 10 patients there were no fatalities. Even in one of these cases, there was a perforation of the intestine. This patient survived, however, without surgical intervention. One patient had a massive hemorrhage from the intestine during the course of his treatment, but he responded to the usual supportive measures, including blood transfusions. In the group of controlled cases observed, “controlled” meaning those patients who did not receive chloromycetin, one case was fatal, and in these patients the temperature ran for weeks in comparison to the 3-day fever in those who received chloromycetin.

This new weapon still remains in critical supply. It has been tested now in this country, and at the University Hospital in Maryland, in Rocky Mountain spotted fever. In this disease it has likewise proved specific in its action, and during the past summer 17 cases were treated whose temperature became normal 3 days after the institution of this therapy. Chloromycetin is being tried in other infections, and its horizon is not yet reached. At the moment, however, the known range of its effectiveness justifies all of the effort which medical researchers have put into the development of this additional antibiotic for the control of disease.
HOW BIG IS OUR WORLD?

By Ruth Clements, Class of 1920.

We are told that the world is about 25,000 miles in circumference and that America comprises about 14,900,000 square miles. Such dimensions are almost beyond our comprehension; yet in view of our present civilization our world can be traversed in quite short order. On the other hand, apart from measurable dimensions, how big is our world?

Our nursing world seems to be as limitless as the horizon and nursing as extensive as life itself. Life may be a passive existence or an active enterprise. Certainly we would agree that this is a time for active constructive living on the part of all nurses. Without clear objective thinking we might be led into idle criticism of the many new ventures in hospital nursing service as well as in school of nursing programs. Apparently the wise person can no longer think in terms of local or state health measures; on the contrary, one must keep in step with our government in the planning of a "World Health Organization."

As we live today and plan for the future are we seeing with or through our eyes? In other words, have we vision or just sight? Perhaps this Fall, while we commemorate the seventy-fifth anniversary of the graduation of Linda Richards, is a significant time for us to increase our faith in those who, many years ago, had vision and great courage as they prepared the way for us to make nursing a great profession. We have read in our October Journal that Dr. Meakins believes that, "A profession is in no real sense a profession if it leaves the shaping of its destiny to others."

During these days of changes (we hope advancement) in our social and professional order, perhaps we need to fortify ourselves with a more open mind, perseverance and enthusiasm. It seems to the writer that we nurses need to read widely, study, think, counsel with nursing leaders and experts in the field of wholesome human relations as we never have before. With the knowledge of many facts and the understanding of the circumstances surrounding the facts, surely we would be more inclined to replace criticism and fear with constructive suggestions and a zeal to persevere and prove our ability to discharge our duty as we meet the many health demands made upon us as a professional group.
THE BIENNIAL CONVENTION OF THE AMERICAN NURSES' ASSOCIATION

Dear Alumnae,

Although the Convention is over now, I am left with a feeling of exhilaration and a zest for nursing which I have not felt since the beginning of student days. The great body of intelligent, well-informed, thinking men and women who made up the Convention gave me a real pride in my profession. I wish each and every one of you could have shared the experience with me. Again I want to thank you all so much for making my participation possible.

In attending the proceedings, I tried to budget my time so as to cover as many different aspects of the Convention as I could. Since many conferences were scheduled simultaneously, this was not altogether feasible. Luckily, I made a good contact with the Press, and so secured advance press releases of those programs which it was not possible for me to get to personally. I enclose them as substitutes for a personal report.

In retrospect, the big problems before this Convention seemed to be:

1. Where are the necessary numbers of nurses needed for now and for the future coming from?
2. How can the nursing services be most efficiently used?
3. How can nursing teams be most adequately trained?

Most programs had direct bearing on these queries and the others dealt with corollary concepts.

Herewith my daily report of the 1948 Biennial Nursing Convention at Chicago.

JEAN CONRAD WOELFEL

Mrs. Woelfel’s reports of the Convention are compiled in booklet form, and have been placed in the Nursing School Library. Lack of space prohibits us from printing the complete report; however we are publishing two proceedings which we felt would interest our readers. We are deeply grateful to Mrs. Woelfel for representing our Alumnae and our School in such an enthusiastic manner.

Report on the Study of Schools of Nursing

(Speech by Dr. Esther L. Brown)

This was undoubtedly the most instructive and constructive lecture given. The Study will be published soon and should be required reading for all Nursing Schools and Alumnae groups. It minces no words, pulls no punches and evaluates the nursing service today in a most straightforward manner. It also makes all possible constructive suggestions for solving the nursing dilemma.

What society needs from nursing:
1. Extension of health services.
2. Hospitals which act as community health centers.
4. Larger financing of health services.
5. New clinics especially in pediatrics, obstetrics and psychiatry.

Nursing service of the future—Enormous amounts of nursing care will be needed and a larger degree of competence will be necessary. Getting enough nurses is the major problem today. 45,000 student nurses are necessary to maintain the present standards yet there are only 26,000 students in schools of nursing now. WHY?

Because:
1. The salary scale is inadequate.
2. Schools of nursing are in bad shape.
3. There is no inducement in graduate fields.

Solution:
1. List the nursing problems and try to find competent help, using everyone, including practicals, aides, attendants, etc. Best training is “In-Service” or “on the job” training. “In-Service” training is designed to prepare every person in the hospital. Use it also to help the graduate nurse to keep abreast.
2. Enlarge and improve supervision.
3. Change psychological atmosphere in hospitals to develop efficient nursing teams. Hospitals now are too hierarchical. Graduate nurses are not gracious to the non-graduate staff.
4. Educate practical nurses—such training to be carried on through a system of public or vocational schools preferably.
5. Prepare the graduate bedside nurse by hospital schools. Her training is now too long and too involved for simple functions and not long and concentrated enough for complex services of the future.
6. Cut out smaller hospital schools and consolidate them in larger University schools. Result—just as many graduates and more proficient ones.

Opportunities in Nursing For A Satisfying Life
(Speech by Dr. William C. Menninger)

Dr. Menninger stressed the proper psychiatric approach to life as a nurse. He listed the handicaps which limit personal satisfaction in nursing as:

1. Nursing is young as a profession—ergo, there are many unsolved problems and many misconceptions about nursing.
2. Nurses have to do many things which have nothing to do with nursing. Service details limit her time with her parents.
3. The nurse is at a disadvantage in educational requirements because she has to consort with Ph.D.'s, M.D.'s, etc. Nurses should all have complete collegiate experience.
4. Nurses do not have adequate training and observation in psychotherapy which is very important in patient relationships.
5. The life in training is too gruelling and limiting.

To attain a richer, fuller life in nursing he suggests:

1. Expand horizons of interest—increase social contacts—take part also in community affairs.
2. Revive the Florence Nightingale spirit—don't just make a living, make a life. Have a sense of purpose—increase idealism.
3. Give attention to the patient as a total person. Handle patient and his emotions as well as his disease.
4. Avoid spinsterhood—have dreams, aspirations, hopes.
5. Form a team with all members in the field of medicine. Integrate the educational system for all.
6. Provide health services for all people. The best interpretation of health problems and policies to the public comes from us in the field of medicine. Otherwise socialization will ensue.
ECONOMIC SECURITY CONFERENCE FOR HOSPITAL STAFF NURSES

JUNE GEISER, R.N., Representative of the Maryland State Nurses’ Association to the Convention

From April 7 through April 12, 1948, the American Nurses’ Association held a national conference on the economic security for hospital staff nurses at the Hotel Bellevue, San Francisco, California. The topic for discussion was, “HOW SHALL WE KEEP THE PROFESSIONAL NURSE AT AMERICA’S BEDSIDE?”

At the opening meeting Wednesday evening, which was a dinner in honor of the ANA Officers and Directors, Miss Densford, President of the ANA, set the tone of the Conference in her address, entitled, “Horizons”. She spoke of how the ANA hoped to implement its economic security program, the aim of which is to provide adequate nursing care for the American Public.

Thursday morning, Ella Best, Executive Secretary of the Association, broadened the view of the nursing world, not only to include the problems facing the ANA, but also those of the International Nurses Congress. Miss Best also discussed the extension of Nursing Service Research to include studies of the distribution of nurses, the relationship between cost of living and the income and salaries of nurses, and the attitudes of the public toward the nursing profession. According to Miss Best, the ANA has urged United States aid by attempting to amend the Federal Social Security Act so that it will extend old age and survivors’ insurance to nurses who are self-employed or who work in voluntary or non-profit hospitals.

Miss May Kennedy, Treasurer of the Association, gave a stirring address on the need for nurses to look to their retirement age and to plan for security then, while they are still young. She outlined the Harmon Plan, the specially designed Group Annuity Program for nurses, pleading with the nurses to insure their future by regular monthly savings through this plan.

Next, Miss Shirley Titus, chairman of the ANA Committee on Employment Conditions, made a few remarks concerning “KEEPING THE NURSE AT AMERICA’S BEDSIDE.” Miss Titus asserted that the first responsibility of nursing was that of giving sound quality nursing service to the American public. Every approach to the betterment of economic security of nurses must have as its ultimate goal, nursing service of sound quality and adequate quantity. Service is the nurse’s first responsibility and personal justice is her basic right. Miss Titus continued, “A nurse is a public servant. Her first duty is and should be to her patient. Wages and working conditions must be subordinate to that duty. A labor organization not familiar with the special problems and responsibilities of the nursing profession is not equipped to represent the nurses. Nurses should not lose sight of their duties and responsibilities, but neither should they cling to the idea that they are a profession that always calls for self-sacrifice. When you are an employed person, open to exploitation and repression by management, your professional status means nothing."

On Friday morning, Miss Titus presented the California State Nurses Association's Economic Security Program in action. The purpose of the program is to improve employment conditions and to give the nurse a professional status. The three techniques of psychological, publicity, and political pressures were used to establish the program by publishing and widely disseminating standards to hospital management and by informing the public through radio, newspapers, and civic meetings. These pictures clearly presented the quality and quantity of nursing care increasing in direct ratio to a sound economic security program. Results were better patient care, satisfactory compensation, and greater attraction to the profession.

Miss H. Yvonne Ward, Assistant Executive Secretary of the Association, gave a brief outline of the importance of the section which contains the nurse. She said, "The section is the heart of the economic security program. Nurses must participate in their sections if they are to develop any program vital to the profession."

On Saturday morning, Dr. Herbert Northrup, Assistant Professor of Industrial Relations, Columbia University, addressed the convention. He pointed out the great need for hospital administrators to bring their personnel practices up to date. In order that hospitals meet the needs of the public they must renovate their techniques as well as their approach to personnel administration, "Tottering hospital economics must not look to enforced charity from nurses to bolster its weak structure."

Miss Marion Tass, Staff Nurses' Advisor, addressed the group concerning the Economic Security Program for all Nurses on Monday morning. She stated that staff nurses are aware of various problems confronting other categories of nursing and realize that the basic principles of the Economic Security Program can be applied to all nursing because all nurses have a common goal—quality nursing care to the American public.

In summary, it was decided that low salaries, long hours, split shifts, and lack of written agreements are some of the factors which are discouraging young women of today from taking nursing and causing some of the nurses to leave the profession and seek other jobs. The unanimous opinion of the delegates was that the way to keep the nurse at America's bedside is to guarantee her economic security.
THE MARYLAND STATE NURSES' ASSOCIATION AND THE NURSE

The importance of effective group action in the achievement of objectives justifies the existence of countless organizations today. The Maryland State Nurses' Association is one of these many organizations. Having accepted the premise that there is strength in numbers working in unison, we must examine our purposes and aims and consider by what means they have been realized.

As stated in the Constitution of the Maryland State Nurses' Association, "The object of this Association shall be to establish and maintain a code of ethics among nurses; to further all means aiming to elevate the standard of the profession and to establish professional relationships between the nurses of Maryland and those of other states and countries; and to cooperate with other agencies toward better nursing service." A review of the past reveals specific achievements which have contributed to the realization of our aims. We shall consider some of these accomplishments and at the same time indicate some of the problems facing us today. Let us see behind these the energy and power of group action, the ultimate source of which is the initiative and cooperation of individual members of the Association combined with those of all other members.

The enactment of legislation to control the practice of nursing for the purpose of protecting the nurse as well as the public was one of the first major activities undertaken by the Maryland State Nurses' Association. As a result of that work we now enjoy the recognition and prestige which are associated with the title of Registered Nurse. Have you ever thought what it means when you sign yourself "R.N."? First of all it indicates that your name has been legally recorded in a register of nurses who have met requirements established by a State Agency. That agency is the Maryland State Board of Examiners of Nurses, which was established in accordance with the Laws of Maryland Relating to Registration of Nurses and Licensed Practical Nurses. This law was enacted originally in 1904 as a result of the efforts of the Maryland State Nurses' Association. It was revised in 1916 to provide credit to those nurses who had college or university preparation and less than three years in an approved school of nursing. A second revision was enacted in 1922 to provide for the licensing of practical nurses. Maryland is one of some twenty states having laws related to practical nurses.

Now, as you know, laws concerned with the practice of nursing are merely permissive—that is, certain titles are protected. In only one state, New York, and one territory, Hawaii, is the Act mandatory. In these two all those who nurse for hire must be licensed. The weaknesses of a permissive law are apparent to any thoughtful nurse or citizen. The question then of attempting to secure legislation of a mandatory nature constitutes one of our current problems. It behooves every nurse to familiarize herself with the provisions of the present law and with the procedure for effecting changes in it.

A second early accomplishment of the Maryland State Nurses' Association was the establishment in 1909 of a placement service for nurses. Individual members at that time provided the necessary funds for the establishment of the Central Directory of Registered Nurses, Inc. While the services of the Directory were used largely by the Baltimore area for the placement of private duty nurses, many employers requested assistance in securing qualified personnel in other fields of nursing, such as industry, public health, office and general staff nursing. This is still true.

Now, however, the Professional Counseling and Placement Service which was inaugurated in 1946 by the Maryland State Nurses' Association has enlarged the scope of placement service in Maryland. In addition, opportunities for counseling have been broadened. The Professional Counseling and Placement Service is available to nurses and employers without charge. It is supported entirely by dues of the Maryland State Nurses' Association. Nurses and employers have used the service extensively. Vocational, educational and personal counseling have been sought by graduate nurses, student nurses, prospective student nurses, practical nurses, nurses' aides and others.

By the coordination of state services through the American Nurses' Association Professional Counseling and Placement Service office in Chicago movement of nurses from one area to another has been facilitated and important positions have been filled. Further development of the Professional Counseling and Placement Service on a local basis is needed.

The Maryland State Nurses' Association has not attempted a program of economic security such as the American Nurses' Association has outlined. However, the recommendations relative to personnel practices which have been made by the Maryland State Nurses' Association have been used by hospitals and other health agencies in establishing better working conditions and salaries.

It must be obvious to all of us that these activities have contributed much to promote better nursing service for the public and to advance the welfare of nurses. Certainly all of us enjoy the sense of being identified with a professional group such as the Maryland State Nurses' Association. It is a privilege and a responsibility of each nurse to lend her support to carry on the work to be done. Otherwise she reaps the benefits that are achieved by others without making a contribution herself.

REPORT OF UNIVERSITY OF MD. ALUMNI COUNCIL

DAVID L. BRIGHAM, Alumni Secretary

It is a real privilege to be given the opportunity to visit my many nursing friends through your Bulletin. For many months I have wanted the opportunity to express my sincere appreciation to Nursing alumni of the University of Maryland for the support they have given the overall alumni program and in particular the magazine "MARYLAND".

The General Alumni Council composed of thirty-three members with three representatives coming from each of the eleven School Associations has held four meetings since the first of the year and is actively engaged in developing a large scale program. These activities are to be geared to the progress of the University as it rapidly takes its place among the leading educational institutions of the country. The General Alumni Association has as its foundation the eleven School Associations and these in turn are expected to serve as the key to the success of alumni efforts of the future.

Functions of the Council fall into four major categories. Of primary importance is the "MARYLAND" magazine which serves to link alumni with the University and with the activities of the various Schools. Editors have been appointed for each of the Schools to provide news of interest for and about alumni. We also ask that suggestions for improving this publication be freely given and they in turn will be carefully considered. This is one place where we urge the continued generous support of graduates of the Nursing School.

Of almost equal importance is the plan to initiate University of Maryland Alumni Clubs in the towns and counties of the State and the larger cities of the nation. Here again nursing alumni can lend a hand in both organizing and continuing these clubs.

Scholarships are an important phase in the life of an Alumni Association and an inducement to outstanding students to attend our School. To study and develop such a plan the Council has appointed a Committee to consider this program in detail. The Committee is asked to recommend the various types of scholarships to be offered, the number which they feel the alumni can maintain, and the methods to be used in raising necessary funds.

The fourth major operation concerns reunions by classes, Schools, and in general. These include the two major annual events of Homecoming and Charter Day. Since Charter Day is just ahead of us, we call your attention to the date of January 20 and the location at the Lord Baltimore Hotel. At this time we will celebrate the 142nd Anniversary of the founding of the University of Maryland. Charter Day has a history almost as inspiring as that of the University itself. Alumni will be striving to make this the best of many fine celebrations.

It was felt best to develop first a strong central organization before introducing an extensive and far reaching net-work of alumni activity. With the development of the Alumni Council and the launching of six School Chapters or Associations for the College Park group, this plan has become a reality. Future progress must now hinge upon the initiative and active support given by those of us who were former students of the various branches of our University. Many have already given much of their time and thought to this endeavor. There is every insurance that a mushroom has started to grow and that before many months pass the Alumni Association will have obtained a maturity which will demand recognition not only in the State but across the nation.

Again we enlist your support, welcome your suggestions and ask for your advice. The nurses have demonstrated their desire for a strong alumni organization and have given much more than passing support. We appreciate their efforts of the past and anticipate encouragement from them which will bring the recognition of which we have all dreamed.
ANNUAL BANQUET AND DANCE

Graduate nurses looked back on the past year's accomplishments and advanced practices in the profession with a feeling of pride and gratitude at the Annual Banquet and Dance, Thursday, June 3, 1948. The banquet, given by the Nurses' Alumnae Association in honor of the graduating class, was held despite inclement weather at the Emerson Hotel. An enthusiastic crowd of over 200 were present to celebrate the occasion.

Miss Virginia Conley, President of the Nurses' Alumnae Association welcomed the guests, the graduating class of the School of Nursing, and fellow alumnae members, many who came from distant cities to renew acquaintances and friendships.

Reverend Albert E. Day of The Mt. Vernon Place Methodist Church offered the invocation. F. Murray Benson, Director of Parole and Probation of the State of Maryland, was guest speaker for the banquet.

Miss F. Gipe, Director of the Division of Nursing Service and Nursing Education, presented the awards to the members of the graduating class. Mrs. Louise Reifschneider presented the awards offered by the surgical staff. Elizabeth Roth Hipp and sister, Mabel Roth Hogge, presented for the first time an award of two Florence Nightingale caps.

We were honored in having with us Miss Nannie J. Lackland, Class of 1898, who was celebrating her 50th anniversary as a graduate of the School of Nursing. Miss Lackland's enthusiasm and zest should serve as an inspiration to both young and old graduates. Mrs. Nathan Winslow, Class of 1903, celebrated her 45th anniversary. Due to the efforts of Mrs. Thelma Caldwell Sawyer many of the class of 1933 were present to celebrate their 15th anniversary.

One of the highlights of the evening was the presentation of a gold watch by Miss Virginia Conley on behalf of the Nurses' Alumnae Association to Bessie Maston Arnurius "in appreciation for the invaluable contribution which she has made to our organization".

Dancing followed the banquet and was enjoyed by all. The Alumnae wish to thank Mrs. Doris E. Mathis and her committee for making the affair a success.

Our next annual banquet will be held Friday, June 3, 1949, at the Emerson Hotel and at this time we will celebrate our 60th anniversary of the founding of the School of Nursing. Plans are being formulated now for a special program. Any suggestions from our Alumnae will be welcomed.
CURRICULUM GROWTH IN THE UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND SCHOOL OF NURSING

Florence M. Gipe, Director of Division of Nursing

Tracing the growth and development of the University of Maryland School of Nursing one sees a pattern of progress identical with that of the Medical School.

Beginning with a total of 200 class hours of instruction the school has now surpassed this number more than seven times. During the past years the curriculum has been increased to meet social and physical needs. Reviewing the past one finds the following:

1900 .................................. 200 hours of instruction
1910 .................................. 300 hours of instruction
1920 .................................. 350 hours of instruction
1925 .................................. 450 hours of instruction
1930 .................................. 500 hours of instruction
1935 .................................. 475 hours of instruction
1937 .................................. 635 hours of instruction
1940 .................................. 750 hours of instruction
1945 .................................. 1000 hours of instruction
1948 .................................. 1350 hours of instruction

What has made these changes necessary? The answer is obvious—advanced medical science. New drugs, techniques, play therapy, geriatrics, public health, contagious diseases, medical care programs, humanities, student guidance, and international relationships are only a few of the additions required to make our social offerings acceptable.

While there have been no drastic changes except additions and “fine-combing” of outdated practices we would mention for your benefit some worthwhile improvements.

A. The Nurses’ Home is still being improved. Seventy complete sets of new furniture have been added. New curtains, rugs, and bed spreads have replaced the former furnishings. New offices have been furnished. A new electric washing machine, and most recently an RCA television set have been installed.

B. In the teaching division a separate budget is maintained. All faculty appointments are sanctioned by the President of the University. Vacation periods and leave of absence for instructors to study are the same as for the other schools of the University of Maryland.

C. Service personnel are concerned primarily with patient care and administration policies. In order that the students’ teaching should not be jeopardized we have added clinical instructors in every clinical department, namely:
Obstetrics 1
Medical and Surgical 2
Pediatrics 1
Operating Room 1
Out-Patient Dept. 2 (One in Public Health, one in social sciences)

Much of our teaching is done on the divisions rather than in an isolated lecture room. Our beautifully designed hospital makes it possible to hold our clinical classes in the class rooms on the various clinical floors.

During the last several years the School of Education, College Park, has been assisting us to meet a much felt need for the nurses in the State and elsewhere by adding curricula which will help nurses to improve themselves in their own work. Instructors for these courses were carefully chosen as to their educational preparation and experience. More than fifty nurses attended summer school on the Baltimore campus alone, during the past summer session. These nurses represented many Maryland hospitals and other states such as California, New Hampshire, and Florida. Subjects carried for the summer were of a professional nature, and were taught by the following instructors:

- Supervision and Clinical Teaching—Sister M. Florence, R.N., B.S., Ph.B. Mercy Hospital.
- Nursing Arts—Margaret Hayes, R.N., M.S. University of Maryland School of Nursing.

Through the School of Education certain subjects are advised for nurses taking advanced work. Among them are:

- Introduction to Nursing Education
- Supervision and Clinical Teaching in the Hospital Unit
- Principles of Pediatric Nursing
- Curriculum Construction, Observation, and Teaching
- Practice Teaching
- Bacteriology I and II
- Philosophy of Education with emphasis on Nursing Education
- Problems of Personnel
- Mental Hygiene in the Classroom
- Comparative Anatomy
- Measurement in Education
- Child Psychology
- Educational Research with emphasis on Nursing Techniques
- American History
- History of Education with emphasis on Nursing Education
- Chemistry I and II, Organic and Inorganic
- Some of the newer aspects of nutrition
- Accounting and Budget Making
- Guidance and Counseling
Before entering upon a program of studies the candidate is requested to contact the Director of the School of Nursing who is also Professor of Nursing Education in the School of Education, College Park. She, with an advisory council and Dean Harold F. Benjamin, decide all major curricula and evaluate records for advanced standing.

The program is in its early stages, slowly we will meet and solve such problems as are vitally concerned with our professional future in university schools. A new era is approaching for nursing education with the evaluation of Dr. Lucile Brown’s famous study. With medical and social demands either the profession will meet these needs or another group will, to our everlasting grief.

America alone must far outshadow the fondest anticipation of Florence Nightingale. Doubtless, she would be amazed to see the results of her great work.

YOUR HEALTH AND ACCIDENT PROTECTION

On June 1, 1947, thru the Nurses' Alumnae Association of the University of Maryland, a plan was inaugurated to give its members actively engaged in their profession, a monthly income to replace earnings in the event of disability thru accident or illness.

The plan, operated by the MASSACHUSETTS BONDING AND INSURANCE COMPANY, provides income up to $100 monthly, covering all diseases. There are no discriminations regarding female disorders. All operations and accidents are covered also. Up to $60 monthly, there are no restrictions because of age or previous medical history. Payments begin the first day in the event of accident, the seventh day in illness.

THE HOLLISTER FUND

The Nurses' Alumnae Association has been promised a room for its use in the proposed new hospital building to be erected close by the present hospital and Nurses' Home.

It has been decided, therefore, that under present circumstances the most fitting memorial to Miss Hollister would be the furnishing of this Alumnae Room.

Since this objective must await the passage of time until the new edifice materializes, it is hoped that the enthusiastic approval of our graduates will be manifested by additional contributions to the Fund.

To this end, as we go to press, the Association is planning a dance in the Ballroom at Edmondson Village on the evening of Saturday, the eleventh of December. We are hoping for a large attendance not only to support the Hollister Memorial Fund, but also to renew old friendships and gain new ones.

To the Members of the Nurses' Alumnae Association

Greetings:

The year which has just closed marks another period of accomplishment. It was not only the 60th anniversary of the founding of the University of Maryland School of Nursing, but was also the year in which the school received national recognition.

Many years ago, in 1903, our pioneer nurses wrote in the Constitution of the Nurses' Alumnae Association, as one of the purposes of the organization, "For the advancement of the University of Maryland School of Nursing". The Alumnae Association is to be complimented on the outstanding contribution which they have made toward the growth and progress of the school.

Although we realize that we have no power to dictate or advise the school, our cooperation is essential for advancement of its purposes. Our past record shows evidence of our interest and devotion to our school.

The Alumnae have made possible the very fine library of the School of Nursing.

Members of the Alumnae Association have worked untiringly for the national recognition of our School of Nursing, and this, we are proud to say, has been recently accomplished.

Last year members of the Alumnae undertook to recruit students for the school, and practically every high school in Maryland was visited.

Through the Scholarship and Loan Fund, we have consistently urged our graduates to seek higher education.

Your Alumnae is represented on the Nursing School Committee, which is the Advisory Board for the school.

The President of your Alumnae serves as a member of the Advisory Council of the Maryland State Nurses' Association.

Also your Alumnae is represented on the General Alumni Council of the University of Maryland.

As Alumnae members, we remember that we are judged according to the present standards of our School of Nursing. There is no time for relaxation as there is still a tremendous job to be done to keep our standards high.

In closing, I want to take this opportunity to thank each and every member for her sincere interest, kind cooperation and deep loyalty to her School and to her Alumnae during the years it has been my great privilege and honor to be your President.

Sincerely,

Virginia Carolyn Conley,

President, Nurses' Alumnae Association.
HELEN VAN DEVANTER WISE

Miss Helen Van Devanter Wise was graduated from the University of Maryland School of Nursing in 1902.

On August 5, 1904, Miss Wise went to take charge of the Peninsula General Hospital in Salisbury, Maryland, which at that time was a new hospital. She moved the hospital unit into the new building during Christmas week of that year.

Early in January of 1905, the School of Nursing was organized under Miss Wise as Superintendent of Nurses. She served in this capacity until 1909. She returned to her home town at Leesburg, Virginia, where from 1909 to 1917 she engaged part of the time as Public Health Nurse.

Later Miss Wise did private duty nursing in Baltimore and Philadelphia. She came to the University of Maryland School of Nursing as Superintendent of Nurses on September 1, 1917. Miss Wise kept this position until May 1, 1919, when she returned to the Peninsula General Hospital as Superintendent.

On December 1, 1924, Miss Wise called together ten young women and planned the formation and organization of the Junior Auxiliary Board at the Peninsula General Hospital. This Board supported a welfare nurse for the county, and supplied for needy families, free medicine, milk and clothing. They bought braces and special shoes for crippled children; as well as helping the hospital.

Miss Wise has been given credit for aiding in making the Peninsula General Hospital an accredited one. She was also a member of a Board, who with the aid of the W.P.A., planned the municipal park in Salisbury, Maryland. She exerted her influence in the establishment of the Children’s Home there.

In 1928 the Salisbury Award was given to Miss Wise for coordinating city and county charity and health activities under the Wicomico Welfare Association. Miss Wise was not only interested in the hospital, but in the community at large. Her vision and determination will always be remembered by all who knew her. She retired in 1933.

The Junior Auxiliary Board of the Peninsula General Hospital has given, in her honor, a portrait which hangs in the corridor of the hospital.

Miss Helen Wise was made a Life Member of the University of Maryland Nurses’ Alumnae Association on January 1, 1949.

EDITH E. MORGAN

Miss Edith E. Morgan, R.N. Class 1929, is Director of Nursing of the New York State Psychiatric Institute and Hospital, and is also an instructor of nursing in the College of Physicians and Surgeons at Columbia University, New York, N.Y.

Miss Morgan was graduated from the University of Maryland School of Nursing. She was Headnurse and did clinical teaching at Sheppard and Enoch Pratt after graduation. Then she had similar experience at Westchester Division of N. Y. Hospital.

She has been at Psychiatric Institute since 1940. She completed her B.S. degree in nursing education at Teachers College, Columbia University in 1943. She taught and organized a program for psychiatric affiliating students and graduate nurses taking University work.

During early days of psychiatric nursing she served on an Advisory Committee and gave some classes at Teachers College, Columbia. She also gave some classes to Army officers who were taking a course in psychiatry before going over seas. Because of these activities she was declared "essential", therefore army experience was prevented.

He helped to organize the Middle Atlantic Hospital Assembly, an organization made up of representatives from hospitals in New York, Pennsylvania, and New Jersey. He is now serving as president of the group.

Mrs. Buck (nee Ruth Law) was social director at the Lenox Hill Hospital School of Nursing at the time of their marriage. They have two daughters — Joanne, aged 10 and Judith, aged 3.

Mr. Buck has made many changes and improvements at the University Hospital during the short period he has been there. He is well liked by the hospital personnel, and is always ready to help solve their problems no matter how large or small they may be. We all wish Mr. Buck the best of luck in his work here and hope he will remain with us for a long period of time.
In Memoriam

Dr. G. Carroll Lockard, Professor of Clinical Medicine at the University of Maryland School of Medicine, died on August 7, 1949 at the University Hospital after an illness of six months. Death was due to a cerebral hemorrhage.

He was considered one of the leaders of his profession having served as president of the Baltimore City Medical Society in 1944, and as president of the Medical and Chirurgical Faculty of Maryland two years later.

After graduation from the Baltimore City College, Dr. Lockard began his medical studies at the University of Maryland Medical School, being graduated with a certificate of honor on May 19, 1903. On his graduation he became associated with the late Dr. Charles W. Mitchell, noted pediatrician, and remained as his private assistant until Dr. Mitchell's death.

The year following his graduation, 1904, he was appointed assistant in Pathology and Bacteriology at the University of Maryland Medical School. In 1911, he became Associate in Medicine, and two years later was named Assistant Professor of Clinical Medicine and Pediatrics.

Dr. Lockard was appointed Professor of Clinical Medicine in 1918, a post he held until his death. He was a member of the American Medical Association, the Southern Medical Association, a fellow of the American College of Physicians, a member of the Committee on Medical Care of Maryland, and a member of the State Planning Commission.

He was a member of the Monthly Medical Reunion, of which he was chairman for a number of years, and of a number of other medical and social clubs.

Dr. Lockard is survived by his wife, the former Miss Louise Cummings Wright, two children, George Carroll Lockard, Jr. and Mrs. Charles M. Howe; and two grandchildren Virginia Carroll Howe and Louise Lockard.
THE UNIVERSITY SCHOOL OF NURSING
AS SEEN BY THE SOCIOLOGIST

The university school of nursing must be considered from the point of view of the students and of the society of which they are a part. The university will give the students both the advantages of a liberal education and adequate preparation for their chosen profession. The modern university studies social needs, so that it may prepare its students to fulfill the function of their profession in society. It is with this that we are primarily concerned in this paper.

The opening paragraph of A Program for the Nursing Profession prepared by the Committee on the Function of Nursing, Eli Ginzberg, Associate Professor of Economics, School of Business, Columbia University, chairman, implies that the present nursing situation is a social problem. The situation is analyzed and a program suggested which should enable the nursing profession to meet the demands made upon it. Radical changes are involved. The profession cannot rest upon its glorious, traditional heritage but must design and implement a service to fit the modern need. Both quantity and quality of nursing service must be considered.

The number of nurses needed by 1960 is estimated to be over 600,000. It is impossible to bring the required number of recruits into the "three year" schools of nursing or the degree courses. The answer appears to lie in the use of the non-professional nurse to supplement the service of the professional.

The use of "the team", non-professional nurses working under the professional bedside nurse, gives the advantages of the case assignment method which has long been considered superior to the functional. Patients are assigned to the team for total care. The professional nurse who heads the team makes the plan of nursing care for the individual patient, assigns appropriate duties to the non-professional members, and supervises while working with them in the care of the patient. The university school of nursing must produce this good bedside nurse who heads the team. She should have an adequate background of general knowledge, ability for creative thought, and the scientific attitude and professional competency.

The university school of nursing is not the only school for the education of nurses, but it is the logical institution, since it is the center of higher education. Nursing is not yet a science. It draws upon the physical and social sciences but makes use of the material in ways peculiar to nursing. In the university school the "procedures", as written in the nursing texts or procedure book, are built on scientific principles. The objective is to make them efficient, and so simple that they may be used by relatively inexperienced nurses in the care of the sick. (Practical nurses, nurses' aides, neighbors and by-standers who give kindly care or first aid.) It has been demonstrated that a large proportion of procedures taught in the course in nursing arts can be easily mastered by non-professional nurses, in fact may become a part of folk knowledge.

In the education of the professional nurse, less time is spent in the demonstration room than in the past. With modern teaching methods, all nursing techniques are learned with less time and effort. Time formerly spent in repeated practice of simple skills is now used in the nursing care of a wide range of patients, learning to adapt the procedure to the needs of the individual patient and to integrate the procedure in the total nursing care plan. Unless the school gives the student this experience under good supervision, theory and class room practice will be of little value.

Although procedures are being made more simple, nurses are called upon to take over many treatments which were formerly given by the physician. The psychosomatic influence of nursing care is known and old procedures must be reevaluated. The result is that many nursing skills cannot be acquired in the demonstration room, but must be learned in caring for the patient. Ward instruction is therefore of increasing importance.

The ward instructor works with the student at the bedside. She gives the student the benefit of her years of experience. The patient is safeguarded from the mistakes common to students who are still learning to apply skills mastered in the demonstration room to the care of the living patient, or giving for the first time a treatment which could be discussed and observed in class or clinic but not practiced other than on a living patient. As the student progresses, the ward instructor reveals to her the full content of good nursing care while working with her at the bedside. They participate in a common project, in which more and more responsibility is assumed by the student as she develops the ability to give the patient the care he needs. The public health aspect is shown in the class room and influences the care of the patient in the hospital. Obviously the students clinical experience must include the nursing care of a wide range of cases.

Thus nursing students are taught by the sound educational methods used in the preparation of other professional workers. If the four year plan is used, the student of nursing is prepared for the first level position in the same number of academic years as teachers and aides in social work agencies. The professional degree in public health nursing, administration, nursing education or supervision requires graduate study.
The university school of nursing, then, gives the student the advantage of a liberal education, and professional preparation to meet a clearly defined social need, through highly specialized courses of study and selected experience.

REPORT OF THE CONVENTION OF THE NATIONAL LEAGUE OF NURSING EDUCATION

Helen Bahr,
Clinical Instructor, U. of Md. School of Nursing

The Convention of the National League of Nursing Education met in Cleveland from May 2 to May 6, inclusive. The theme was systematic investigation and planning for nursing, and all activity, either directly or indirectly, contributed to that aim.

After the welcoming address and routine reports of committees, there was a discussion open to the public, on problems of International Health. Mr. C. I. Sterling, of the Institute of Inter-American Affairs, reported remarkable progress in the Latin American countries due to cooperation and aid from the United States. The Institute has been able to send out numbers of health teams, who have established training centers of Health and Sanitation. While it is hoped that before too long these centers can operate themselves, U. S. supervision is still being depended upon.

Miss Lucille Petry, of the U. S. Public Health Service, discussed the World Health Organization’s recent meetings in Geneva. The entire world has been divided into regions, with conveniently located centers, operating in close contact with headquarters in Geneva. It is hoped that duplication of effort will be avoided and economy will result from such regionalization. The Health Organization exists to teach public health principles, especially to areas lacking in medical facilities.

The next day’s discussion considered planning as a professional responsibility. Dean Seay, from the University of Kentucky, suggested principles of planning common to all professions, emphasizing the essential nature of a good general education to any professional stature, and the necessity for continuous in-service education in order to achieve professional growth. The report of Miss Helen Goodale, of the committee implementing the Brown report, showed clearly how closely nursing planning takes into account those principles.

There was a panel discussion on ways in which nursing education is changing to better meet the needs of nursing service. Here the entire emphasis was on the use of the medical care team. Dr. Beard, of the U. S. Office of Education, feels that the practical nurse, an important member of any team, can be more efficiently and economically trained in vocational schools. If practicals are brought under the Public School System, training will be free of expense to the individual, and will be more uniform, thus simplifying licensure. The Truman Health Bill provides funds for support of such a plan, while clinical facilities are readily obtainable in subscribing hospitals. Miss Low, from University of Minnesota, brought out the advantages to the student of affiliation with rural hospitals, since public health activities constitute such a large part of a rural program. Dean Barthoff, from the University of Texas, discussed preparing the professional nurse for participation in the medical care team. Much of the difficulty in using the system results from the poor conception on the part of graduate nurses. The student must be familiarized with the system by working actively in it, and developing her judgment in deputizing non-professional duties becomes as essential as clinical experience. The function of the university school was discussed by Miss Tuttle, of the Kellogg Foundation, who feels that such schools should develop research to validate, improve, and encourage current activities within the profession, and should invite the participation of members of other professions in order to avoid complacency and promote understanding.

The panel on accreditation for schools of nursing had three lay educators whose contributions were of great value. Father Rienhard, of St. Louis University, President of the North Central Association of Collegiate Schools, said that the values of centralized accreditation are to characterize acceptable institutions, to guide prospective students, to promote understanding among institutions, preventing academic stagnation, and to stimulate evaluation and improvement in professional standards. Centralized accreditation provides, further, for security both for the community, on one hand, and for the school and the individual students on the other. The process of a valid program of accreditation must spring from the school, through regional and national agencies, and with minimal interference by the agencies. Dr. Schmidt, of the Joint Committee on Unification, presented a resumee of the attempts to establish a centralized accrediting agency for nursing schools, which included several years work doing surveys, research, etc. Plans are now ready for release at an early date.

The Department of Measurement and Guidance made a thorough and encouraging report. The use of aptitude test batteries before admission to nursing schools has increased more than thirty per cent, and where used, has cut the attrition rate ninety per cent. Standardized tests of achievement are now available for most courses in nursing schools. These tests are compiled by test experts with the aid of clinical specialists, and are constantly kept up-to-date. They enable a school to evaluate its students in relation to those over the entire country. The Graduate Nurse Test Battery is available to any school offering post graduate facilities as a basis for college admission or job placement. The State Board Test Pool has proven so popular that now only six states are not members. The service provides standardized, expertly compiled tests,—six different tests, made up with allowance for geographical localities and their differences,—with provision for correcting and grading the finished papers. This closely approaches the activity of National Board examinations.

In discussing new patterns for clinical curricula, Dr. Lindsey, of Indiana State Teachers’ College, emphasized the value of constructive methods over purely instructional ones. The clinical areas lend themselves ideally to student study activity which can be flexible enough to take advantage of the best teaching material available. The curriculum must be continuously analyzed and revised within the basic structure to permit the dynamic growth of the student. Advanced curricula, according to Mrs. McManus, of Teachers’ College, Columbia University, must consist, not of further practice in previously learned areas, but must provide new learning and opportunities to explore and experiment in research.

The entire spirit of the convention was one of optimism. Realizing that there are tremendous problems in this transitional period in professional education, nursing leaders feel that the means of solving those problems are available, and that the profession as a whole is working toward an eventually satisfactory role in service to the community.
THE ICN CONFERENCE AT STOCKHOLM

Clara M. McGovern, Class of 1920

During the week of June 12th, the International Council of Nurses celebrated its fiftieth anniversary at Stockholm. Almost 4000 nurses from every quarter of the globe gathered in this beautiful city to discuss problems and outline plans for projecting the ICN's program for nursing education and nursing service.

The Conference opened on Sunday morning with registration at the Royal Tennis Hall. The grounds surrounding the building presented a gay picture, as flags of the member nations lined the walls of the veranda. Swedish nurses in uniform welcomed us as they directed us and answered our many questions. Many of the visitors wore their native costumes while we had donned our brightest colors. Even the weather smiled—the day was so beautiful. Coffee was served on the terrace as old friends visited with one another in many languages. But the diversity of tongues presented no barrier to us for there were unity of feeling and a common purpose.

Services for nurses were held in all churches on Sunday evening. Nightingale Memorial services were held in several of them with the beautiful candle light procession of student nurses that we know so well.

Princess Sybilla attended the opening session Monday morning. There addresses of welcome from Dr. J. Axel Hojer, General Director of the Swedish Medical Board, Dr. Dag Knutson, President of the Swedish Medical Association, Mrs. Agda Rossell, President, Swedish Association of Business and Professional Women (of whose membership one sixth are nurses), and Dr. Valter Aman, General Secretary, Federation of Professional Employees.

Nurses from 41 countries responded to roll call. The Associations of Germany, Austria and Japan were reinstated while the five new members—Italy, Turkey, Southern Rhodesia, Korea and Haiti were warmly welcomed. This session was concluded with the Stockholm Philharmonic Orchestra playing Beethoven's "An Die Freude".

"The Medicine of Tomorrow and the Position of the Nurse", "Nursing Education—Clinical Instruction", "Nursing Service—How to Meet the Demands";—these were the topics of the papers read at the sessions during the next three days. The nurse of 1960 is going to be an entirely different person from the nurse of 1860. There seems to be general agreement on this point. What kind of a person she will be is the subject of much conjecture. Is she going to be an "Assistant doctor", trained to relieve the doctor of much of his routine work as Dr. Hojer suggests? Is she going to relinquish the role of bedside nurse to another group? However nursing leaders are agreed on one point, they will not relinquish the total nursing care of the patient.

"The Medicine of Tomorrow and the Position of the Nurse" proved to be the topic of a most interesting session. Dr. J. Axel Hojer read the first paper. He gave a brief summary of the history of medicine in Sweden, noting the progress made in reducing infant mortality and increasing the life span. He spoke of the part the nurse played in this work. "The nurse fulfilled all the duties now divided between a dozen different people". With emphasis today placed on Public Health and Preventive Medicine, he questioned whether the task of the doctor or nurse will be easier. To detect a disease before it manifests itself to the patient will require more knowledge and skill on the part of both groups. He argued that we would get closer to the heart of the problem if the group of doctors and the group of nurses were co-ordinated into one body with two classes—the doctor and the assistant doctor, and a third group under the name of nurse which would undertake the routine care of the patient.

Miss Venny Snellman, Director of the Division of Nursing, Department of Health, Finland pointed out the enormity of the task of total health and medical care organised on a nation wide basis. The acceptance of the Auxiliary worker by the nursing profession represents one of our greatest changes. She questioned whether Dr. Hojer's suggestion to raise the basic group level making the middle group more of a medical person, and the goal of the American Nursing leaders, an Academic degree for every nurse, might not lead to two entirely different situations. She added the middle group or professional nurse as we know her would always assume the responsibility of the nursing care of the patient.

Miss Borghild Kessel, Director of Public Health in Oslo, Norway reviewed the progress of social reforms in her country in the 20th century. They are now suffering from the aftermath of war and occupation, with its paralyzing effect on initiative, and must regain what was lost during that time. She said that a careful study had been made of the subsidiary worker. Norway, with a population of only 3½ million people, intensely democratic, had found it advantageous to educate only one type of nurse—the registered nurse, and to have leaders and teachers grow naturally out of this group. Her reaction to Dr. Hojer's proposal was "We have no ambition to be called Assistant Doctors, but we do hope to become excellent nurses."

At the session on Nursing Education—Clinical Teaching, papers were read by Miss Lula K. Wolfe, Professor of Nursing and Chairman of the Department of Nursing, University of California, Miss Katherine Russel and Miss Jean Wilson, University of Toronto, Canada, and Miss Aagot Lindstrom, Sister Tutor, Ullevale Hospital, Oslo, Norway. Revision and reorientation of the Nursing curriculum was urged with full time, well qualified nurse instructors, free of all administrative responsibilities to teach nursing where it is practiced, "The clinical Instructor is the key person in teaching the student the social and emotional health aspects of nursing". "She must be all things to all students". The qualifications of the Clinical Instructor was discussed. It was resolved that every effort be made to improve salary, conditions of work and status of the ward sister, and all who participate in the educational program.

Miss Margaret McNaughton, Matron of Stracathre Hospital, Angus, Scotland opened the final session with a paper on Nursing Service—How to meet the demands? She pointed out that recruitment of nurses has not kept pace with the expansion of Health Service. Some of the reason for our lack of success in attracting an adequate number of young men and women to the profession was our tendency to seek our inspiration from the past. While formally the vocational urge attracted a sufficient number to meet our needs, this is not the case at the present time. "That in trying to meet the demands, the nursing profession has shown great sacrifice and endurance in bearing with unsatisfactory conditions in order to fulfill its obligations to the public. The public conscience rightly condemns these conditions, especially when they are applied to the young, but forgets its responsibility in creating the necessity. Plans for new clinics, hospitals, and health schemes continue to be drawn up without reference to staff available.

One of the most important decisions of the Conference was the incorporation of the Florence Nightingale International Foundation in the ICN. This was the result of a unanimous vote of the Grand Council.

All was not business in this land of the "midnight sun", for amusement and camaraderi played important roles. "The Stave of Mercy", a chronicle play of nursing in Sweden was given at the National Theatre on Monday and Tuesday evenings. The play was written by Elizabeth Dilner, Superintendent of the Nursing School at Upsala. The cast was composed of doctors and nurses and midwives. They presented a finished theatrical performance.

On Wednesday, the guests were taken on visits to outlying towns. It was my good fortune to go to the venerable old town of Upsala. Miss Dilner greeted us at the University Hospital and we were conducted through the building by a member of her staff. We were guests of the governing board at luncheon. After services in the famous old Cathedral, we went sight seeing through the town. An unforgettable day was concluded with Dinner in the State Hall of the Castle—the room where Queen Kristina renounced her throne in 1654.

With music, song and dance, the conference closed at Skansen, Thursday, June 16, and many are the happy memories we took with us.

No one will forget the hospitality of the Swedish people and the self-denial which they practiced in order to make their program possible, a cake and coffee sale was held in Stockholm. To meet the ration problem, the nurses went for days without their allotment of the necessary ingredients. 90,000 cookies were turned out of hospital kitchens. At the sale members of the royal household stood shoulder to shoulder with ex-patients awaiting their turn at the counter. All Stockholm participated in the event. In two hours, $10,000, the required amount was raised. Part of the proceeds paid the expenses of the nurses who came from war devastated countries. Every one seemed bent on making our stay as happy as possible. As Miss Densford, President of the American Nurses Association said, "Even the custom officers were kind to us".

It is interesting to note that throughout the countries of the world which were represented at the Congress, the problems regarding nursing education and nursing service were common to all. It was consistently recognized that in order to provide adequate professional nursing education, the curriculum must be revised to free the students from the responsibility of nursing service. Also clinical instructors must be employed to coordinate the classroom work and bedside instruction.

In meeting the demand for more adequate nursing service, the importance of the role of the subsidiary worker in the nursing team was emphasized. These problems require the sympathetic understanding of both the medical and nursing profession as well as the hospital administrators.

It was indeed a privilege and an honor to attend the Congress of the International Council of Nurses. It was an experience which I shall remember for years to come. I was proud to represent the University of Maryland School of Nursing and the Alumnae Association at the nursing convention.

The next ICN Conference will be held in Brazil in 1953.

Now that a secure, permanent place is being made in the Curriculum for the educational utilization of Clinical and Ward facilities, it is rare good fortune that this book should appear. At last, Clinical Teaching has promise of coming-into its-own as the heart of the curriculum.

Ward Administration and Clinical Teaching is by Florence Meda Gipe, Director of the Division of Nursing, University of Maryland and Dr. Gladys Sellew, Associate Professor of Sociology, Rosary College, River Forest, Illinois. They wrote "for both teachers and administrators in nursing and for . . . faculty members . . . ."

The authors, who have enjoyed successful experience in teaching and administration, are convinced that effective teaching is possible only where Ward Administration is good. Miss Gipe and Dr. Sellew are serious students of research; they have surveyed the literature of these and allied fields in preparation for this task. We are given the sum of their findings and their experience.

The book is objective. It is born of practical, scientific observations and experiments. There are sample studies a-plenty, for instance, a minute-by-minute time study comparing the nursing-care hours needed for the normal new-born with those needed for the premature infant. The authors investigated the comparative cost to the hospital, over a six-months period, of the use of disposable versus non-disposable intravenous sets. Parenthetically, they found that disposable sets for that period amounted to a saving of $1,343.20.

The subsidiary worker is brought into focus in the discussion of the "Team" as well as in the situations in which she is commonly used. The effectiveness factor in the replacement of personnel is convincingly presented with facts and figures.

In Part Two, the authors have fashioned into practical patterns the modern methods of teaching and learning. The basic essentials of educational psychology are reviewed in the light of their force in ward situations. The true meaning of Clinical Teaching as a comprehensive program, rather than as a series of isolated fragments, is made crystal clear. The inclusion of class-plans, various forms, schedules, models and photographs has materially enhanced the teaching text. Nor is the functional versus the case assignment of patients neglected. The section on counselling reflects the authors' keen appreciation of guidance in Nurse Education.

Sample pre-tests are included for several areas of learning; the technique of test construction is given consideration and a Final Examination in Medical Nursing Experience is included.

The format is pleasing, the size is handy and the bibliography, comprehensive. Could Miss Gipe and Dr. Sellew have written a book "less than the best"? We congratulate them and wish their book the success it deserves.

ACCELERATED EVOLUTION IN NURSING EDUCATION

Florence M. Gipe, Director, School of Nursing

Most of you, I am sure, realize that nursing education is changing. It is going through a period of accelerated evolution set in motion and guided by educators who are in executive positions in the National League of Nursing Education and in the American Council of Education, Washington, D. C. The direction of this change has been contemplated ever since the American Society for Superintendents, now the National League of Nursing Education, first met in Chicago in 1893. Even at that time educators frowned upon the philosophy of hospital administrators who parcelled out twelve to twenty hours work a day, the greater part being received as bundles of domestic chores.

The first reaction in the form of opposition was published in 1923 Nursing and Nursing Education in the United States. (The Goldmark Report) Following this, the Grading Report was published in 1930 wherein it was shown that in most instances the students in schools of nursing had better preparation than the teaching faculty ‘‘and yet we called them schools of nursing’’. The latest reports of 1948 brought about, because young women were refusing to enter the nursing profession, were requested by registered nurses and the public at large. These reports were Nursing for the Future by Esther Lucile Brown, Ph.D. and still a later one known as A Program for the Nursing Profession by Eli Ginzberg, Ph.D. and the Committee on the Function of Nursing, Columbia University, New York City, N. Y. Both reports emphasized the important principle ‘‘that if schools of nursing are worthy to be called educational institutions, then they must have the characteristics wherein they are to be judged worthy of the name’’. As a starting point they recommended that schools be given an opportunity to have certain areas studied so that a classification and interim screening could be made. The purpose of this screening was to assist students to select a worthwhile school. The areas studied in the University of Maryland School of Nursing were:

1. Basic curriculum
2. Faculty, number of and academic preparation
3. Salaries of faculty
4. Budget
5. Selection of students
6. Student health program
7. Number of hours per week taught by each faculty member
   Membership in professional organization as a whole
The original report signed by the six national nursing organizations was received by President H. C. Byrd on September 10th. The faculty of teachers are pleased to report that the University of Maryland was placed in the top classification of 25 per cent of the nations better schools of nursing.

Within two years the School of Nursing will again be reclassified by the recently formed National Accrediting Association. Regardless of the present status and of the old form of national accreditation of 1938 all schools to be on the approved high school and college list for student guidance will have to be reevaluated and reaccredited at that time.

The accrediting of all schools of nursing is analogous to the work of the American Council of Medical Education in 1910 wherein all medical schools were evaluated and classified. The results were that six of the eight medical schools then in Baltimore were dropped. Two were retained, the Johns Hopkins University Medical School and the University of Maryland Medical School with the amalgamation of the Baltimore College of Medicine in 1913, associated with Maryland General Hospital and of the College of Physicians and Surgeons in 1915, associated with Mercy Hospital.

Knowing the value of professional nursing we are not contemplating so drastic a change as the medical schools, but we are cognizant of the fact that our nursing schools must be strengthened both in control and philosophy. A change is bound to come because of our changing social structure. To resist this change means the loss of the minority thinking, not the majority. As Abraham Flexner, Chairman of the Study on Medical Education said in 1925, "the direction of the change is more important than the speed at which it takes place".

Being an old university school and one that enjoys a traditional social heritage let us be unanimous with the unselfish purpose to keep this school as the University of Maryland School of Nursing whose standards reach and even surpass the minimum expectation of a good university school.
Baltimore alumni of the University of Maryland turned out on September 20, 1949 for the first general meeting of the Baltimore Alumni Club with what Dr. Frank Black, '04, president, called an "enthusiastic response."

An estimated 250 Maryland alumni came to the Alcazar and heard speakers urge them to promote membership. Then they listened to an orchestra play college songs, and renewed old acquaintances.

Most agreed the organization of the club was long overdue in the metropolitan area of Baltimore, where about one third of Maryland alumni now live.

Dr. Black, who with other officers was appointed in April to serve during the club formation, said more than 100 former Maryland students have been active in getting the chapter started.

"We want to form this club on an extensive scale," he said, "and I urge all of you here to give your time and energy to ensure its success."

Dr. Black was introduced by F. Murray Benson, '23, who, as master of ceremonies said: "Our object is to get together beauty and brawn—the output of the University of Maryland."

Dr. Arthur I. Bell, '19, third vice president, said Maryland graduates "are in the 48 states and over most of the world, but one third are in the Baltimore area."

Another speaker, Dr. J. Ben Robinson, '14, executive board member for the Dentistry School, told the alumni that they should continue now the interests they had as students.

"The University has made great progress in the last 29 years," he said. "It's creation was unique. It is a collection of fine colleges with traditions brought together to form an unexcelled institution of learning."

Lee R. Pennington, '15, administrative assistant to the director of the F.B.I., said he expects the Baltimore Alumni Club to become one of the outstanding alumni groups in the nation.

Dr. Black announced the following additional club officers: Dr. Albert E. Goldstein, '12, first vice president; A. V. Williams, '17, second vice president; James O. Proctor, '39, secretary-treasurer.
Executive board: J. W. Stevens, '17, agriculture; Walter Brooks Bradley, '37, arts and sciences; Austin C. Diggs, '21, business and public administration; Dr. Charles W. Sylvester, '08, education; H. H. Allen, '10, engineering; Betty McCall Roberts, '23, home economics; William J. O'Donnell, '41, law; Dr. Daniel J. Pessagno, '20, medicine; Miss Virginia Conley, '40, nursing; and W. Arthur Purdum, '30, pharmacy.
THE MEDICAL CARE PROGRAM

Martha Curtiss, '48

The Medical and Chirurgical Faculty of Maryland, in the year 1939, proposed that a standing committee of the State Planning Commission be constituted to survey the problems of medical care for the citizens of the state. This resulted in the organization of a state committee on medical care with Dr. Maurice C. Pincofs appointed as chairman.

Upon completion of the plans for the counties of Maryland in 1945, the state committee appointed a separate group to make a comprehensive study of medical care needs in the City of Baltimore. A program was organized under terms of a legal contract with the City Health Department and participating hospitals. It became effective three years following the evolution of a state health plan.

The Medical Care Clinic of the University Hospital, located in the Dispensary Building, began on August 9, 1948, to provide free medical care to welfare recipients. Johns Hopkins Hospital began a similar clinic with a patient load of 11,000, the University of Maryland having 5,500. Since that time the program has expanded considerably, and today there are five such clinics; the other three located at South Baltimore General, Sinai, and Provident Hospitals with patient loads of 2500, 1000, and 2500 respectively. Mercy Hospital is preparing to open with a patient load of 2000 soon.

The only individuals eligible for the Medical Care Program are those who are receiving welfare assistance. Although the patients of the five free clinics add up to the astonishing total of 22,500, there are still many more recipients of public funds who will receive the benefits of the program when the facilities are available.

The University Medical Care Clinic has a routine procedure which is carried out as close as possible with all its patients. Each person, or family, as the case may be, receives an appointment by mail to come to the clinic. Upon their arrival, a preliminary interview is made by the clerical staff to verify and correct data received from the central medical care section of the City Health Department on each person.

The patients are weighed, measured, and their temperature, pulse, and respirations are obtained. Urinalysis, hemoglobins, and Wasserman tests are done and the patients are then sent to the X-ray Department for a micro-film of the chest. When these procedures have been completed, each individual is interviewed by the Assistant Director of the clinic. Information concerning past medical experiences and present complaints is obtained. Any condition found which warrants immediate attention is handled accordingly. Otherwise, the patients are given appointments to return for a complete physical examination at a later date. The reports from the laboratory are available at the time of examination. Before the patients leave, they are assigned to doctors of their choice as far as possible. These doctors, who are general practitioners in Baltimore cooperating with the program, serve as family physicians to the patients. Although these people are advised to call upon the doctor only in times of true need, they are provided with free medical services whenever necessary. The local medical doctors are remunerated for their services with an annual payment of seven dollars per patient.

When the patients return to the clinic they are examined completely by practicing physicians, most of whom are associates of the University Hospital. When indicated, the patients are referred to specialized consultants who further examine them. The clinic itself has consultants in Medicine, Ear, Nose and Throat, Surgery, Gynecology, and Psychiatry. All other problems are referred to the various clinics in the University Out-patient Department. Any laboratory procedures or diagnostic tests requested by the examiners are carried out through the use of facilities present in the Dispensary. After the examinations and necessary laboratory procedures are completed, the patients are referred to their local medical doctors unless follow-up therapy is indicated in one of the specialty clinics. In either event, the family physicians receive abstracts of the physical examinations and reports of all tests performed, and are thus familiarized with their patients. If the local medical doctors at any time wish to have a certain test or examination performed on a patient, they are at will, and, in fact, encouraged to refer that patient back to the clinic. They, of course, receive reports on all such requests. All drugs and equipment necessary to administer the drugs as well as dressings are supplied to the patients free of charge.

Children under five years of age are not examined in the clinic, but are referred to the well-baby clinics throughout the City of Baltimore. If they become ill, they are sent to the local medical doctor who, in turn, may refer them to the Pediatric Department.

There are many cases where the patients are unable to appear in the clinic due to disabling conditions. In such instances a nurse is sent to their home to evaluate their physical status. This visiting nurse service is made possible through the cooperation of the Instructive Visiting Nurse Association of Baltimore City. These patients, as well as those who are able to attend the clinic, are assigned to family physicians.
Frequently patients who are too old and feeble, or incapacitated from other causes, are found to be living alone with no one to care for them. Every effort is made to admit these individuals to the various nursing homes in the city. Unfortunately, the facilities for this type of care do not equal the need, but insofar as possible, those patients who require nursing home care receive it.

Because of the thorough examinations the patients receive in the clinic, many pathological conditions are discovered, surgical and medical. When surgery is advised they are admitted to the hospital as soon as beds are available. This service is offered, as the others, free of charge to the patient. Medical conditions in need of hospital attention are treated similarly.

Although there is a dental section in the process of organization, the dental facilities at present are almost nil. Emergency cases are seen in the Dental Clinic of the Out-patient Department, but it is not equipped or staffed to carry the entire load. Eighty percent of medical care patients are in need of dental care and it is hoped that in the near future this major problem will be solved. There is an endowed fund which has covered the cost of dentures for a few persons, but it does not supply the vast need for this type of prosthesis.

The most interesting and desirable feature of the program is that it is entirely voluntary; for the doctors and the patients. Any family physician who consents to work with the Medical Care Program and later feels that he cannot carry the patient load may discontinue his association with the clinic whenever he wishes. Occasionally a doctor desires to terminate his services to a certain individual or family or a patient wishes a change of doctors. These changes are made on request.

The Medical Care Program should still be considered in its infancy and there are many improvements to be made. The University Medical Care Clinic has had to cross many hurdles, but under the able leadership of its Director, Dr. Hurd Hollis and Assistant Director, Miss Susan Pincoffs, R.N., and through their undying efforts, it has received many glowing reports. With the continued cooperation of the community organizations and the participating physicians, it will ultimately reach its goal of adequate medical care for all of its patients.
ROOMING-IN PROGRAM OF BABY WITH MOTHER
Flora Streett, '38

In August 1949, the policy of rooming the normal, full-term, newborn baby with his mother was inaugurated in the private and semi-private obstetrical wards of our hospital. Although this is a very new idea to us, it has been tried successfully in other states; but I believe we are the only hospital in Baltimore using this plan at present.

The "rooming" of the baby with the mother refers to the placing of the baby in a crib beside the mother's bed after delivery, and the care of the two patients together during the recovery period. The mother takes complete care of the baby under the supervision, and with the help, of the floor and nursery nurses.

Babies are kept in cribs by the mothers' bed both day and night unless one or the other is ill, or if at night an individual baby is unusually noisy it may be returned to the nursery until the 6 A.M. feeding.

The equipment for the care of the mother's breasts, and the baby, is placed in a crib wardrobe. The crib wardrobe consists of two shelves and is hung on the end of each crib. The top shelf contains covered steel containers for alcohol sponges and Zephriran Chloride sponges, a small paper bag for the waste and the patient's water bottle. The lower shelf contains the supply of diapers, pads, and blankets for the day's usage.

The mother can easily reach her baby, and the materials used for its care, while she is lying in bed or sitting on the edge of the bed, and no one touches these materials except herself. The wardrobe can be placed on either end of the crib, whichever is most convenient to the mother. It is constructed without covers or drawers so it can be easily and thoroughly cleaned with soap and water.

Healthy, normal babies are placed with their mother soon after delivery. If the baby has considerable mucus in its pharynx, he is kept in the main nursery until his air passages are clear and respirations are normal. If the delivery is at night, the baby is not placed beside the mother until the following morning.

During the first twenty-four hours after delivery, the nurse spends a great deal of time with these patients demonstrating the technique of baby care and emphasizing the importance of cleanliness. The mother is encouraged to move freely in bed, and observe the nurse closely during this period, in order to have a better understanding of her baby’s care so that she will be able to proceed with a minimal amount of help the following day; thus allowing the nurse to focus most of her attention on the next new mother and baby. She calls upon the nurse in case of questions or any difficulty which might arise.

Each morning the mothers are supplied with an individual pack containing a fresh change of clothing for the baby and fresh materials for the crib. A nurse from the nursery makes rounds each morning with a carriage equipped with seals, thermometers, dressings for the navel, and emergency drugs. As she comes along the mother undresses the baby on her bed, changes the linen on the crib, and watches her baby being weighed, the cord being dressed, and listens to instructions in cleansing the neck, axilla, groin, and vulva with Zephiran Chloride sponges. The nurse records the baby’s weight and temperature, and obtains the record of the baby’s feedings and bowel movements of the previous twenty-four hours from the mother. The mother then dresses her baby and returns it to the crib.

The mothers are encouraged to nurse their babies, and they are placed on the “demand” schedule with feedings administered when the baby is hungry. At first the baby is put to breast for only five minutes, but as the milk supply is established the time period may be lengthened to fifteen to twenty minutes. Under this system the baby quickly places itself on a nursing schedule which is usually between three and four hours.

The visitors have been limited to the husband and mother of the patient. No other visitors are allowed except in cases of serious illness or unusual circumstances. All visitors wear gowns while in the rooms. Visiting is always a problem but the mothers seem less desirous of having a large number of visitors when they have their babies with them.

The primigravida is more receptive to this plan than the multigravida due to the fact that the multigravida have a better knowledge of how to care for their baby, and they are not timid about taking it home where they have to rely on their own judgment.

The “rooming-in” plan of baby with mother in the private and semi-private rooms has worked out very successfully so far, and we are expecting to have it in operation in the entire department in a few months.
JUMBLED THOUGHTS ON PLAY IS MEDICINE

JUNE E. GEISER, '47

To keep youngsters happily occupied while they are convalescing is a vital part of the recovery program for an ill child. The prescription of toys, parties, and games has definitely proven its worth as an ally to medical treatment in the care of patients. Play is the first thought of the child as soon as his acute illness is over; and since it is his natural medium of development and expression, the aim of play in the hospital should be to keep the child's day as normal as possible.

Gradually, through the recognition that physical and mental care cannot be separated as such—but must be considered as an integrated whole, planned play programs are two-fold-first, individual play brings about relaxation and rest; keeps the child occupied so that he is not dwelling on his aches or pains, diverts the child from destructive habits, and teaches the child how to play by himself when a group is not available; and second, group play teaches discipline, broadens play activities, develops leadership potentialities, offers lessons in sharing, taking turns, and playing games fairly, teaches group cooperation, and presents an invaluable socializing experience.

Providing suitable play for children of all ages and degrees of illness is a speciality in itself, and a play program should certainly be organized by a trained person. Under proper guidance, a wiser selection of toys and activities may be made. For, who knows better than the therapist, that toys should be light in weight, safe, durable, attractive, suited for the child's needs, age, and experience, realistic, and washable. Certainly the choice of toys and games depends on the child's diagnosis, his condition, his chronological age as well as his mental age, and the child's environment and background at home.

If a play program is to be of optimal value, it must become part of the daily care of the child. Play must not be limited by time schedules and selected personnel but should be carried on by the individual nurses as they go about their routine duties.

Many a tear-drop has vanished and a smile come shining through just because someone has taken a few minutes to comfort an unhappy child. No time lost when the nurse tells Johnny his favorite bed-time story as she tucks him in for the night. And look! There's little Janie smiling in her sleep! She's probably remembering that good-night lullaby the nurse was singing as she switched off the light. Bobbie feels much better now in spite of that blood transfusion which is dripping so slowly. Why didn't his nurse take a few moments to throw a finger image of a bunny rabbit on the wall by his bed! And he can still see those big floppy ears! And didn't bath-time pass quickly this morning? One can still hear the echoes of "This is the way we wash our face, wash our face, wash our face" reverberating in the corridor. Such a happy atmosphere. Forgotten are the aches and pains! For, after all, fun is part of the cure in the childrens' ward.

Note: We of the Pediatrics Department of University Hospital would like to thank the members of the University of Maryland Alumnae and its Associates for the interest which they have shown in the furthering of our Play Therapy Program. We would be delighted to have you visit us.
SUMMER SESSION ON THE BALTIMORE CAMPUS

Virginia C. Conley, '40

For the second consecutive summer the University of Maryland College of Education has offered courses for graduate nurses on the Baltimore Campus. This year 101 nurses were enrolled for advanced study, representing all the hospitals in Baltimore including the Marine Hospital. Out of state students came from as far as Maine, California, and one from Japan.

Only professional subjects were offered at the Baltimore school, although 25 graduate nurses attended the summer session at College Park to pursue the cultural studies. The instructors at the Baltimore school were Dr. Gladys Sellew, Ph.D., R.N., Associate Professor of Sociology at the Rosary College, River Forest, Ill.; Sister Mary Florence, Ph.D., R.N., of the University of Maryland College of Education; and Miss Margaret Hayes, M.S., R.N., of the faculty of the University of Maryland School of Nursing.

The subjects presented were those in relation to administration, teaching and bedside nursing. One of the projects undertaken was the utilization of the subsidiary worker as a possible means of solving the universal problem of shortage of personnel to help care for the patient adequately in light of advancing medical science.

Also a series of lectures were given on the Modern Trends in Nursing. During the past year the public has been made aware of the need of more adequate health services through newspaper and magazine publications. In some cases the nursing profession has been unjustly criticised, and the nursing organizations were quick to call attention to the editors of the inaccuracies. However, the nursing leaders, themselves, realize that something is wrong in the nursing education, and requested that studies be made of the conditions in the schools of nursing throughout the country. The Brown Report and the Ginzberg Study were forthcoming. Both reports make tremendous recommendations for the schools of nursing in order to maintain nursing on the level of a profession; and at the same time maintain adequate standards of patient care. Emphasis is placed on the fact that nurses perform too many duties that are not professional in nature, that could be successfully undertaken by a less skilled worker. This, no doubt, has aggravated the shortage of nurses; and it would be much less if nurses were engaged in nursing duties only instead of work which rightfully comes under the duties of the subsidiary workers. The need for a training program within the hospital for the non-professional worker is acknowledged by the medical and nursing professions and the hospital administrators.
Both "Nursing for the Future" by Dr. Esther Lucile Brown, and the Ginzberg Study, "A Program for the Nursing Profession," have been made accessible to the public as well as prospective nursing students. It is not enough for each nurse to be made conscious of the changing role of nursing and trends in nursing education; but also the public who will make the final judgement on how well they are nursed and the extent of health services offered to them.

SIX WEEKS AT UNIVERSITY HOSPITAL OF MARYLAND

Rosemary Aiko Nakayama

Six weeks of Summer School at University of Maryland was my first experience as a student in the United States. I just finished my three years of training last year, and a year of post-graduate course this March at St. Luke's College of Nursing in Tokyo, Japan. By the great opportunity offered by Sisters of Mercy of staying in their hospital for one year, I left my home and came across the Pacific Ocean and the continent about 2 months ago. And while staying in Mercy Hospital, I receiving an unexpected opportunity of attending Summer School arranged by Miss Gipe.

I still remember the hot afternoon when I came to University Hospital with a joy, but also with a fear, and how I was received warmly by Miss Gipe and other instructors. As my purpose of coming to the states is to learn Public Health Nursing, Miss Gipe selected three courses for me, "Introduction to Nursing Education", "Principles of Pediatric Nursing" and "Nursing Arts I". These three courses were really helpful for me for my future work in Public Health. "Introduction to Nursing Education" by Sister Florence opened my view widely toward the nursing field. "Principles of Pediatric Nursing" by Dr. Sellew pointed out the newest views of nursing for me, and child's psychology which she stressed, made me think of better nursing care. I was really interested in "Nursing Arts I", by Miss Hayes, in which we discussed about Nursing Arts Program and teaching Nursing Arts. Though these three courses were rather hard for me I really enjoyed my studies. One more good thing I had during these six weeks was an experience in a pediatric ward in which I could learn many things. I liked the innocent children up in the pediatric ward and I really had a wonderful time besides my study.

I am very grateful for Miss Gipe and other instructors, graduate nurses and student nurses for their kindness towards me and helping my study. And also for the librarians and housemothers for their friendliness towards me.
HONOLULU

DEAR BESSIE LEE,

Can it really be true? We are actually in Honolulu. Everything has seemed like a dream from the beginning. We thought you might be interested in our trip so I'll see if I can hit the high spots for you.

We left the National Airport in Washington in a drenching rain. We struck clear weather just after we left Washington and from then on the weather was perfect. Our first stop was Nashville and from there we went to Little Rock, Dallas, Tucson, San Diego and Los Angeles.

Taking off was very exciting. It's rather hard to describe but there is nothing to fear; in fact, we were overwhelmed. It feels as though you are climbing a big hill and then the plane levels off and there you are—way above the ground. The roar of the motors is very soothing, I think, and adds to the majesty of the ship. The ship carries 50 passengers plus a crew of four. Flight reports giving present location, speed, altitude, temperature, etc., are sent through the ship periodically for anyone who may be interested.

The scenery is something anyone would enjoy. The cloud formation, the classifications of which are many and scientific, are fascinating. The air currents and pockets cause the so-called "bumpy air". The ground is like a checkerboard. The towns remind me of our Christmas garden towns, the houses look like cardboard ones, the roads resemble heavy string winding in and out, and the cars are as big as ants.

We arrived in Los Angeles at 11:20 p.m. Pacific time. We were mighty tired and believe me, bed felt good. Aunt Jo, who is a classmate of Mother's and lives in California, came for us the next day and took us sight-seeing. We went through the San Bernardino Valley in Southern California, seeing the countryside in all of its splendor. It is really beautiful, but it is a unique kind of beauty which didn't quite fill the bill as does our type of beauty back home—not that we're prejudiced.

The flowers and shrubs are lovely and to describe them would take days. The fruit trees are everywhere and Peg and I tasted our first fresh fig—much to the amusement of the grocery man. The following day we visited the "San Juan Capistrano Mission" which is one of the oldest missions. It was founded in 1776 and is still active. We ate lunch in a fine drizzle—imagine that in California—and they said it was a heavy fog. The next day we had breakfast at Tom Breneman's restaurant and we were there for his radio broadcast.
We had lunch in Hollywood and then toured Hollywood, Warner Brothers studio and Hollywood Bowl. We had dinner with Miss Stepp who was night superintendent at University Hospital when Mother was in training, at a charming place called "Bit of Sweden". Friday we packed and headed for Wilmington where we boarded the "SS Matsonia" at 3:00 p.m. We weighed anchor at 5:00 p.m. and it was a colorful sight. There was confetti, flowers, and lots of people—And guess who came aboard? Joan Crawford.

We found our staterooms and made arrangements for eating and then proceeded to watch the scenery. We had dinner at 7:30 p.m. and what a meal—twelve courses. The days passed quickly and we thoroughly enjoyed every minute aboard ship. We made many new friends and all of us reluctantly saw our journey come to an end. Friday morning about 8 a.m. we sighted Diamond Head and then the Moana and the Royal Hawaiian Hotels appeared on Waikiki. We were met by boats and hula dancers and the Royal Hawaiian Band greeted us at the pier. There were sunshine and laughter and leis everywhere. We went ashore and were met by Mr. Longnecker who is our hospital administrator. He took us sight-seeing in his tomato-red Buick convertible and we were duly impressed by the many beautiful sights which were on every side.

The hospital is low and rambling and most attractive. It is so quiet and clean. The flower arrangements throughout the hospital are very appealing and are arranged by two Oriental girls who also work in the kitchen and serve trays. The staff dining room is charming and the food good but quite different.

The nurses home is very pretty and is more like a sorority house than a dormitory. The living room is large with a piano and radio, and we are allowed to do our own cooking if we wish. The house is a center for many of our activities whether it be just an informal evening of dancing and a snack, or the more formal occasion of a wedding reception. Our rooms are very cheerful and quite large; it's a pleasure to come off duty and relax in such pleasant surroundings. The girls at the house hail from everywhere and are a wonderful group.

Fanny Lou and Peg are working on the surgical floor and I am in the operating room. We find the work pleasant and interesting, but of course, routines and procedures are somewhat different. We have a lounge where we can relax after our cases in surgery, and we are served orange juice every morning. How about that?

There are many and various activities which keep us on the go. Going to the beach seems to be the most popular pastime, and we go whenever we can. Surfing and outrigger canoeing are also lots of fun. We visited the Royal Hawaiian Hotel and found much to our amazement, that there is pineapple juice, as well as ice water, coming from the drinking fountain. We have been doing a lot of sight seeing on our own in our spare time, and each sight is as breath-taking or beautiful as the one before. We have visited several of the other islands and each had its own type of beauty and charm.

The climate is moderate most of the year and though at times, the weather is humid, there is always a breeze. We've missed the seasonal changes, but it's nice to know that a swim is in season whether it's June or January.

We have found the people of the islands very hospitable and most interesting. Many people mingle amicably with little thought of race or creed, and discrimination among races does not seem to present a major problem.

Unfortunately, time is passing much too quickly, and before we know it, we'll be homeward bound, I am not anxious for that day to arrive as the charm of the islands has captured me and it will be a long, long time before I'll forget the swaying palms, the crash of the surf, and the lingering fragrance of a yellow ginger lei.

Must close for now. Remember us to all, and write soon.

Aloha and love,

Anne Lutz, '46.

Mary Kirk Randolph '45

St. Thomas' hospital, built in 1106, survived the Black Death, the Wars of the Roses, the Dissolution of the Monasteries, the Plague, and the Great Fire of London. For nearly 1000 years this hospital has given refuge and succour to the sick and needy of London. It was quite a thrill to find myself not only in England but so close to the St. Thomas' Hospital we have patterned our own School of Nursing after.

It was a fine day in June when I first visited the hospital, and my first view was one to remember. Bouncing along in one of the funny English double-decker busses, I passed the famed Houses of Parliament and started across the Thames over the Westminster Bridge. There on the opposite bank was St. Thomas' spread along the river's edge for nearly a whole city block, with a white stone terrace running the whole length, and giving a magnificent view of the lovely Parliament buildings.

The hospital consists of eight blocks or wings, with a long corridor connecting them all at the back. The first two wings and the original Nightingale Nurses' Home were all destroyed by the bombing during World War II. It was in 1860 that Florence Nightingale founded this nursing school, and you feel as if you've stepped into another world as you enter the room where they have so carefully preserved some of her memorials, such as the gowns and caps she wore on the wards, her medals, lace shawl, letters to her students in which she tried to stress the importance of religion in nursing, and even the carriage she drove during the Crimean War.

Their nursing school is as modern as ours, with practice classrooms and libraries, in spite of the setback of the recent war. However, in England the nursing course is four years long. At the end of the third year they take their State Boards, then spend their last year in service to the hospital. Before the war, St. Thomas' had 682 beds, but now only about 550 are available. They have approximately 400 student nurses, and the nursing staff averages about 1 nurse to 1.5 patients. A high school certificate is required for admission, although those who have had some college education spend only three years in training. St. Thomas', with its great name, receives more than 1,000 applications yearly for 160 vacancies. The first three years are considered the probationary period. Students wear plain caps—called the "American caps"—the first year, due to difficulty in procuring the net for the Nightingale caps, then for the remainder of the time wear the lace caps so like our own. They wear the Nightingale caps as graduates until they become supervisors or enter administrative work, then don a "Sisters cap"—a lace affair that ties demurely under the chin in a little bow! Nurses in England, I should add, are generally spoken of as "Sisters," and are addressed as such. No graduate nurses wear pure white uniforms in the English hospitals, but their dresses are of blue dimity, long sleeved, and covered with white bibs and aprons.

Students in St. Thomas' are on the block system, so that ward duties are not interrupted by lectures, and lectures are not sandwiched in between hours on duty. They pursue the same course of study as we do and are taught by members of the staff of the University of London Medical School, with which St. Thomas' is affiliated. Uniforms are provided, and the students receive about $400 per year, of which $200 is deducted for board and other expenses. As you can see, nurses' training is very similar the world over.

The Nightingale School of Nursing is world famous and the staff take visitors from all parts of the globe in their stride, showing a warmth and hospitality I cannot forget. On my tour of the hospital and nursing school I was accompanied by a smiling little nurse from India, complete in her flowing sari and embroidered coat, and by the Director of Nurses from one of the Swedish hospitals. We had an enjoyable time comparing notes on our various hospitals as we followed the English "Sister."

Perhaps the greatest contrast between St. Thomas' and University is in the operating theaters. The students receive their O.R. training in their second year and have three months there. While we speak of "scrub" and "circulating" nurses, they use the terms "clean" and "dirty." Sponges are counted and all instruments are boiled, due to lack of autoclaving facilities. Doctors and nurses wear green gowns, caps, and masks, and all drapes are green, which eliminates a surprising amount of glare. The surgeons wear white rubber boots and have rubber aprons under their gowns—an innovation that must save a good bit of personal laundry. Most of the hospitals in England (including St. Thomas') have a five minute scrub and do not go through any solutions. At the present time there is no separate shift of night nurses; the nurses on call must take day duty the next day, going on duty at noon if called out during the night.

There is a lot more to be told of St. Thomas' but space is limited. However, no report would be complete without a word of the effects of the last war. St. Thomas' received an undue amount of bombing, and how they survived at all is a mystery to me. Not a single patient was lost through enemy action, but three nurses, 4 masseuses, and 2 doctors lost their lives. Nurses slept in shelters at night and all convalescent patients were sent to an auxiliary hospital in the country, which helps to explain the few casualties. Whole wards were destroyed by blasts or burned completely out by fire; basement emergency wards suffered floods, as well as the dangers from burst gas mains. Many times electricity, gas, and water power all failed. At one time the hospital was reduced to seven beds, though many more were in use at the country hospital.

Now all the rubble is cleared away, and only hollowed shells of former buildings and deep holes in the earth remain to give evidence of those nights of terror. St. Thomas' has started rebuilding and are planning to enlarge the hospital to 1,000 beds. The record of achievement of this institution is one to be proud of, and Sisters of St. Thomas' have an excellent name in England. During the recent illness and subsequent operation of King George VI, his three nurses were all St. Thomas' graduates, and he thought so highly of them that he takes pains to see that they receive tickets to special Palace ceremonies. I think we can all be proud to share the Nightingale cap with such a fine hospital and nursing school.
WOMAN'S AMERICAN BAPTIST

EMILIE M. BALLARD
Seminary Hill, Insein, Burma
June 13, 1948.

Dear Friends:

Greetings from Burma! It is hard to believe that I have already been here for three and a half months; and yet when I think of all that has happened during that time, I know it must be so.

I left the States on January 9 on the Queen Elizabeth and arrived in Southampton early January 14. We left the same day on the S.S. Strathmore and sailed down through the Mediterranean Sea and the Red Sea and finally to Bombay, taking two weeks altogether. There were about 67 missionaries of various missions on board this ship, and we had wonderful fellowship together. I went by train from Bombay to Madras and spent a week in the latter place at our mission headquarters there while waiting for the next ship to leave. A four-day trip on another small ship brought me safely to Rangoon on February 14. The entire trip had been most pleasant; and though storms had preceded us and followed us, we escaped them all. I was met at the wharf by some of the missionaries and then taken by station wagon to Insein, where I have been living ever since.

Insein is a small town about 10 miles from Rangoon. Many of the houses were large teakwood buildings before the war; but since their destruction, the villagers have been able to build only bamboo houses. These bamboo houses can be very nice and comfortable if the woman of the house knows how to keep it clean; but in the event of fire, they burn too quickly to save them. Seminary Hill is the name given to the mission compound, which contains the Burmese Seminary, the Burmese Women's Bible School, the Karen Seminary, the Karen Women's Bible School, and the Divinity School, classes in the latter being taught entirely in English. A number of the buildings were completely destroyed during the war, but the others have been more or less repaired and the work is going ahead. Although it is vacation time now in America, the schools in Burma are just beginning again after the hot season. The Karen Seminary has 97 students; the Karen Women's Bible School, 94; the Burman Seminary, 20; the Burman Women's Bible School, 22; and the Divinity School, 7. The two Karen schools have many of their classes together, as do likewise the Burman schools, in order to use the limited number of teachers and the limited space to the best advantage. The Divinity School has higher entrance requirements than the others and the courses are taught on a higher level. Upon the completion of this course, students are granted the Th.B. degree by the Northern Baptist Seminary in Chicago, with which the school is affiliated.

I am living with Charity Carman, who is the senior missionary at this station at present and who teaches at the Karen Women's Bible School. With us also live Catherine and Walter Zimmer and their one-year-old son, Timothy. They are the newest arrivals in Burma, having arrived in April. I have also become well acquainted with Dorothy Rich who lives at the Burman Women's Bible School and teaches there. I had prayed that the Lord would guide as to the person or persons with whom I should live and I am certain that He did, for we have enjoyed blessed fellowship together.

Though I have not been here very long, in many ways it seems as though I have always been here, for it has not been hard for me to adjust to the life here. How I praise the Lord for my Scout training, my nurses' training, my Army training, and all the other experiences which He allowed me to have in order that I might adjust more easily to this new life! In other ways, I am very much aware of the fact that I am still quite new, for the customs are so different and the language is new. Again, however, I praise the Lord for leading me to the Summer Institute of Linguistics, because the training I received there has enabled me to learn much more quickly than missionaries have been able to do before.

At first I concentrated on conversation in the Sgaw Karen language, which I am learning. This, of course, is the most important thing to master, and I just wrote down what I heard in phonetics (i.e., using a different symbol for each different sound) and then I memorized it. In addition to learning conversation, I memorized a few hymns so that I could take part in the church services; also a few Bible verses and some of the Karen folk tales. I was able to learn quickly, and beginning in May, I started learning to read and write Karen. This is quite different from our type of writing, but it is such a thrill to be able to read and write that I have hardly wanted to leave it alone. Already I have read and studied quite thoroughly the first three chapters of the Gospel of John, and now I can sing the hymns along with the congregation although I do not always know the meaning of the words. Last week I attended the class on the life of Christ taught in Karen at the Karen Seminary, and I was very pleased to discover that I could understand much of what was said except when the teacher used illustrations from his own experience—then I got lost because of the many words I have not yet learned.

When I have learned a bit more, I shall be required to take a language examination; and when I have passed it successfully, then the Board will decide where I am to be assigned. I am hoping to go to the Ellen Mitchell Memorial Hospital in Moulmein for several months in order to learn all I can about tropical diseases (though I am a nurse, there are many diseases here which I have never seen in America). Then I hope to be assigned to village work somewhere.
There I shall be responsible for guiding the people of a whole group of villages into better health, better education, better living conditions, better ways of making a living, as well as leading them to know in their own experience the love of God and the salvation which He has made possible in Christ. Many of these villages are nominally Christian, but they need much guidance in what Christ can really mean to them personally and in what it means to follow Him. Of course, the Lord may have some other plan for me besides village work, and I am trusting Him to know where He can use me the best.
I do know that whatever task He assigns me will be too difficult to do in my own strength, but full of blessing if done in His strength.

I have met some wonderfully fine Christians here in Burma and it is a real joy to know them. Some of them suffered greatly during the war. Some of them worked in the villages as Christian leaders without taking any salary throughout the war years. Some of them even now are using a third or more of their small salary to help people in need. Oh, that there were many more Christians in Burma like these few outstanding ones! Pray that we shall not only give these Bible School and Seminary students a head knowledge of the Bible, but also that we shall guide them into a deep spiritual life, and shall give them a vision of the great needs of their people and of how Christ can use them to bring their people to the Light. One missionary and several teachers training 200 Christians to be consecrated leaders in their villages may easily have more far-reaching influence than one missionary doing village work. Yet there is a great need for all types of work, and the Lord has a place for all types of missionaries—medical, agricultural, educational, village workers, etc. Regardless of the type of work a missionary does, he is doing evangelistic work if He is following the Lord’s leading.

There is a little boy who lives next door to me who was born just after the war ended. His father, who is the president of the Karen Seminary, was going to name him “Ner Dah,” which means in their language “Victory over our Enemies;” but because he is a Christian, he changed his mind and named his son “Eh Dah,” which means “Love your Enemies.” Isn’t that a good name? All his life his name will remind the Karen people that God wants them to love their enemies; and I hope that he will try to be like his name, too.

If you should find time to write to me, you may be glad to know that you can buy air letter forms at the post office which will cost only 10 cents instead of the usual 25 cents for airmail. Surface mail is not very satisfactory if you want a quick answer because it takes two or three months to get here. Keep praying for me that I shall keep close to the Lord and that I shall always prefer His will to mine.
Pray that He will continue to bless me in my language study and that He shall lead me into the work of His choosing. May God richly bless you and make you a blessing to others.

Emilie M. Ballard, R.N.,
Ellen Mitchell Memorial Hospital, Moulmein, Burma
December 14, 1948.

Dear Friends:

Having passed my first Karen language exam, I have now begun the second stage of my training—the study of tropical diseases and midwifery at our mission hospital in Moulmein. The midwifery course is six months for graduate nurses, so I expect to be here until the beginning of May. It is a thrill to see and to hear how the hospital has started practically from scratch since the war and developed into the fine institution that it is now. The many boxes of white cross supplies have helped tremendously. As yet there is no big sterilizer such as is used in our hospitals in America, and all of the supplies for operations, deliveries, and dressings have had to be sterilized in an ordinary pressure cooker. It is a lot of work, but the results are satisfactory. Until about one month ago, the current was on only from 6-12 p.m. which meant that many emergency operations had to be done with kerosene lamps. When the hospital opened after the war, there were one American doctor, one Burmese doctor, two native graduate nurses, and four student nurses who had not finished their training when the war began. Now there is a trained staff of eight with two more to arrive soon and 34 student nurses, only two of whom are not Christian. There is an average of about 90 patients in the hospital in addition to a large dispensary service. Even some of the pongys (Buddhist priests, who are supposed to have turned from everything worldly and especially are not to look at a woman) are coming to the hospital for treatment. From time to time another of the patients decides to become a Christian, perhaps because of the witness of the nurses, perhaps through the services which are held in the wards every Sunday.

It has been my great joy to teach the Bible course to each of three groups of student nurses. I am teaching them the life and teachings of Jesus, and their response is gratifying. However, there is such a thing as being interested in a class without the teaching affecting one's life; so pray that the message of Christ shall sink deep into their hearts, not only for their own souls' sake but also because of the rare opportunity which is theirs to help spiritually those whom they are helping physically as well.
THE ANNUAL BANQUET AND DANCE

Over 200 graduates of the University of Maryland School of Nursing gathered in the Ballroom of the Emerson Hotel on Friday, June 3rd to pay honor to the graduating class of that school. The occasion was the Annual Banquet and Dance which was given by the Nurses' Alumnae Association of the University of Maryland. Special celebration was in order as this year marks the 60th anniversary of the founding of the School of Nursing.

The highlight of the evening was the talk presented by the guest speaker, Mrs. Eleanor D. Tydings, wife of the Senior Senator from Maryland to the United States Senate. Mrs. Tydings stressed the importance of the National Defense Program in preventing "a cold war from becoming a hot war".

Miss Virginia Conley, President of the Nurses' Alumnae Association, extended a word of welcome to the members of the graduating class, the honored guests and the members of the Alumnae. In her greeting she reminded the graduates of the school of their responsibility in helping to protect and guide the future of the School of Nursing in this time when the patterns of nursing are rapidly changing.

The Rev. Harry Lee Doll, minister of the Old Saint Paul's Episcopal Church, offered the invocation. Other distinguished guests were Dr. Harry Clifton Byrd, President of the University of Maryland, Miss Florence M. Gipe, Director of the Division of Nursing Service and Nursing Education, Mrs. James Arnold, President of Woman's Auxiliary Board of the University Hospital, Mr. George H. Buck, Director of the University Hospital, and his wife Mrs. Buck, Mr. David L. Brigham, Executive Secretary of the University of Maryland Alumni Association, and Mrs. Brigham.

A word of welcome and good wishes was extended to Mr. Buck, who assumed his duties at the University Hospital on June 1st, by the President of the Alumnae Association.

Awards were presented to those nurses who had distinguished themselves by doing outstanding work in the various phases of nursing. Tribute was paid to three of the oldest nurses present at the banquet. They were Miss Nannie Lackland, Class of 1898, Mrs. Margaret M. Winslow, class of 1903, and the late Miss Harriet Schroeder, Class of 1904. Special recognition was also paid to those class members who were celebrating anniversaries from the 5th through the 40th. It was evident that much effort had been expended by the tremendous response to the class reunions.
At the close of the banquet Miss Florence Gipe presented to Mr. George Buck a check for $400.00 for the purchase of a television for the Children’s Wards of the University Hospital. This fund had been made possible by the Alumnae and the student body of the School of Nursing.

Dancing followed the banquet.

Two members of the class who could not attend the banquet joined us for this party. They were—Mrs. W. A. Cutsail (“Skinny Funk”) and Mrs. E. Barrett Prettyman (“Hill”).

Letters of good wishes to every member present came from our former superintendent of nurses, Mrs. Ethel Palmer Clark. From—

Remarks:

Hill—with eyes shining—"Oh you girls look so well and successful and happy, I'm glad that I came. Somehow thirty-five years seemed so long I could see old tired women limping in and I did not want to come because I thought it would be such a depressing experience."

Edith Ervin—"Now, girls, let's meet at my house sometime this fall. This has been so much fun."

These twelve successful women came from busy offices, hospitals, and homes, to share their experiences. Some boasted of their children—Graduate nurses of U. of M. School of Nursing, the University of N. C., Wellesley and Yale colleges. Some have children who are teachers, writers, home-makers.

Some of the nurses boast of their services as superintendents of hospitals, directors of clinics, others of private duty nursing and keeping up with rapidly changing techniques. Three came from the field of Public Health. One of these from years of splendid service with the City of Baltimore, another from Health Education of Montgomery County—an authority on Rural Health problems, and the third from the deep south, consultant nurse with the School-Health Coordinating Service of a State Board of Health.

We came to pay tribute to the founders and the supporters of this School of Nursing Education. We are grateful for the growing years—the green years—spent under their care.

We treasure the inspiration of the nurses who taught us—Miss Alice Bell, Miss Mary Ellen Sullivan, Miss Mary Gavin, Miss Anna Lou Wham, Miss Stella U. Ricketts, Mrs. Ethel Palmer Clark, Miss Patterson—and other staff nurses.

What a pain we must have been to the doctors who patiently taught and encouraged our groping upward toward the light!

These were towers of strength to whom we often looked in troubled times; Doctors Randolph Winslow, Frank Martin, Sinclair Spruill, Mason Hundley (with his look of tragedy when confronted with a new green scrubbed nurse on operations), Charles Mitchell, Compton Riley, Arthur Shipley, Joseph Holland, William Tarun, G. Carroll Lockard, Holmes Smith, Irving J. Spear, Page Edmunds, Robert Bay, William Coleman, Hugh Brent, and their able assistants.

To the forty-one new graduates we wish as much of success and of joy and gladness—and hard work and responsibility—as we have had. May they not only add years to the life expectancy of this, their generation, but may they add expectancy and life to the added years.
TO ABSENT CLASSMATES OF 1919

Emma N. Murray, '19

We were so sorry you were not with us for the commencement and the annual banquet. You missed a great deal!

The banquet hall at the Emerson Hotel was brilliant with large panel mirrors which reflected the attractive evening gowns of the graduates. Each class had its own table and most classes were well represented. The food was delicious and well served. Everyone seemed in good spirits—each class was, of course, called and recognized with much gayety and fun.

There was quite a large class of efficient looking young women graduating. Many of them had won substantial awards for proficiency in various phases of the nursing profession. Mrs. Tydings, wife of the U. S. Senator from Md., made the principal address of the evening calling on nurses to take their places in their communities and nation as well informed responsible citizens.

I know that you wish, especially, to hear of your classmates. Nine of the seventeen in our class returned to sit together once again. There was fair-haird Lohse, now Mrs. L. N. Beach of East Wallingford, Connecticut—the mother of a fine son; dark-haired Brown, now Mrs. Duvall—with a record of raising several fine citizens; Mitchell, now a proud Grandmother; Jane Nichol, now Mrs. Juelg, has overcome a severe illness and has been nursing at the University—she was the leader in getting the group together; Gordy has proven herself a very skillful and capable nurse as well as homemaker; Smarr, always quite attractive, has become indispensible to a certain household and makes her home with Mrs. Cleland of the Ambassador Apts., Baltimore; Zepp, now married, has displayed much character in managing her affairs; Kling, now Mrs. Vernon Preston, has achieved a very attractive home on Falls Road, Baltimore where we had luncheon together on June third, just before leaving for home. Murray has achieved good health, and is still following her profession in Newport News, Va. We expected Hady Brown-Macis, of the light brown hair, but she did not arrive in time for the banquet because of illness enroute from Central America. Held following the 30th reunion of the Class of 1919, was an echo reunion lunch given to our Hady by the class president, Mercedes Brown Duvall, Westminster, Md. The lunch was given at Hoffman's Inn, Westminster, Md.

Please make every effort to be present next year at commencement. We are planning a house party on the James River near Williamsburg to follow the occasion. Love and best wishes to all of you.
"YOU HAVEN'T CHANGED A BIT"

BERNICE H. FANCHER, '24

1949 meant more than a new year to the class of 1924. To some it meant marriage or college degrees for their children; to others it meant more responsibility and promotion in their work.

It was not until invitations arrived urging them to attend the twenty-fifth class reunion, that they realized the "to-morrow" was already upon them. Presumably, many a cup of coffee was interrupted to sneak a hand under the table to tap off the years before agreeing that it was indeed twenty-five years since they had received the Florence Nightingale Cap. Perhaps a few fled to mirrors to see what the passage of time had done to their identity. Perhaps, having satisfied themselves that it was the same face at which they were gazing, they hurriedly rejected the idea of using any "old numbers" hanging in their closets, and went out on a shopping spree with which to relive a few of the great moments in their lives.

Of course, Janet Bell, who lives in New England, was unaware of all the feverish activity until she received enthusiastic replies to the notes she had written. We owe many thanks to Janet for taking the initiative in drawing us together for this mutual pleasure.

Twenty classmates arrived for the reunion. Margaret McCormick came about half-way, but due to a broken wrist, she was forced to retreat to her beloved Mohawk Trail.

The banquet at the Emerson was the rallying point for the reunion. Everyone was happy to see old friends and reminisce a bit. Since many of the girls had not seen each other since graduation, it was a pretty standard greeting to have one’s hand clasped with the exclamation, "Good Heavens," "Why you’ve hardly changed at all!" In retrospect this seems rather compensating, for one can not live a quarter of a century without a good many personal conflicts, and again, without conflict in life one cannot call it living. To hear that we had not changed very much rather implied that we had met or deals with a certain amount of fortitude, and being on the threshold of "maturity" we had not yet lost the challenge for the "tomorrow" which had arrived.

"Maturity" has a nicer sounding name than middle age, and one can get quite vague about years until some young innocent inquires, "and what year did you graduate?" "1924", one answers, "Oh", exclaims the innocent, with a blank look in her eyes. Alas!

We were most fortunate to have our Class Sponsor, Miss Stella Richetts, as the guest of honor. Time had been very kind to her, and it can be truthfully said that she has not changed a bit. She was the same gentle and understanding friend we had known during our student days.

The next day, Jane Scott Lloyd entertained the class at a most delightful luncheon. Again, the "girls" had a chance to chat of the things that had happened during the years, and exchange pictures of their families. Telegrams and letters were read from those not present. Bessie Lee Arnurius, Julia Smith Dione, and Harriet Schroeder joined us for lunch, and some of us agreed that time was a fickle thing, for it seemed like only yesterday when we rushed up and down on Ward H.

Being so pleasantly entertained in Jane's beautiful garden, and later hearing Joan Wilson, Marie Davis Wilson's daughter, sing lovely ballads, the afternoon quickly slipped by. It was with much reluctance that we separated from Jane's good food and attractive home.

On Sunday the "girls" who stayed on continued visiting friends and old familiar places.

As we parted we wished one another good health and much happiness until we meet again.

OUR CLASS REUNION — 1929

Freda Fazenbaker Gill

Eighteen members of the Class of 1929 celebrated their 20th Reunion at the Annual Banquet held at the Emerson Hotel, June 3rd. Friday morning, we visited with our classmates and renewed acquaintances with members of the faculty and staff at the University Hospital. Milbrey Neikirk entertained at a cocktail party at her apartment preceding the banquet.

Hilda Willis Every invited the class to her home near Annapolis, "Pines on Severn" for a luncheon, Saturday, June 4th. Guests of honor were; Miss Annie Creighton, Miss Isabella Zimmerman, and Mrs. Tillie Mohan, Director of Nurses, Instructor and Class Adviser, and house Mother respectively, during nursing school days.

Many thanks to Betty Roth Hipp, for making the final arrangements of our two days celebration such a success.

We hope that all of the graduates of our school enjoy their reunions every five years as much as we of the 1929 Class.

THE 15th REUNION OF THE CLASS OF 1934

Lois S. Kaiserski, '34

We had a wonderful time the night of our fifteenth reunion. Some of us had not seen each other since graduation, and we really had a lot to talk about. There were a few gray hairs among us, but otherwise we were the same group of happy, energetic, chattering "girls"; most of us were wives and mothers, but still all nurses at heart. A real nurse always remains a nurse:—training gives you something—a way of life, of meeting situations, of helping others,—and it stays.

Two of our classmates have died since graduation—Margaret Gosnell and Gertrude Tantarri. They contracted tuberculosis in training and this caused their untimely death later. They were with us in our hearts, for they were always in our plans and we miss them. Our group present included: Myra Lewis, Ada Conklin, Pauline Deans, Elizabeth Koontz, Kathryn Matzen, Elizabeth Rhode, Elizabeth Rice, June Roth, Lois Steinwedel, Esther Uber, Willie Warner, Hazel Wright, and our class sponsor—Miss Elizabeth Aikenhead.

We presented Miss Aikenhead with a silver pin in appreciation of her work with us, and we were very happy to have her join our celebration. We were all pleased about having such a large class reunion.

Louise Gufstafson wrote a letter wishing that she could be with us and giving us news about herself. Isabel Seipt is living in Hawaii with her husband and children; we missed her, as well as others, in distant places.

We were glad to meet the new people who manage our University of Maryland Hospital and Nursing School, and those who have taken our places, along with the new graduates, who were very lovely that night. We know just how proud and happy they felt.
The same spirit is there among our nurses—service and progress. We were the last class of nurses to finish our training in the old hospital, the first to move into, and work, in the new modern hospital. We felt that we had come a long way when we graduated, and we know we have come a still longer way since June, 1934.

REUNION OF CLASS OF 1939

Nancy Craven Sheppard, '39

The place was the same—the Emerson Ballroom—the time was much later—some ten years later—when a small group of the class of '39 again enjoyed the annual Alumnae banquet and dance and celebrated its tenth year reunion. We remembered and relieved the good times, laughed about the more difficult ones, and regretted that all the members of our class couldn’t be with us for the evening. Margaret Wilson Webster, Margaret Culler Zell, Dorothy Danforth Hope, Lola Marshall Mihm, Marguerite Foster, Thelma Doyle Inskeep, and Nancy Craven Sheppard were those present.

Everyone enjoyed notes and letters from some of the other members of the class who were unable to be with us. Margaret Beall Johnston wrote that the distance from California was too great for her to be with us. Mary Clark Harris sent best wishes from East Hartford, Connecticut, where she is busy with her family of three nice youngsters. Dorothy Shaff Walker remembered us from Boston and sent her hopes that we have a happy evening. Margaret Bennington Megenhardt was unable to leave her ill mother. All wished to be remembered to the Alumnae and hope to be with us for our next reunion.

Louise Hollister was there in the hearts of every member of the class. Her place of honor will never be filled.

To the Alumnae Association we owe our thanks for a most enjoyable evening—one we shall remember for a long time.

MISS MARYLAND — 1949
Jean Crow, R.N., '47

Being selected "Miss Maryland 1949" has been the greatest thrill I've received since that day I became Jean Crow, Registered Nurse. It was indeed an honor to represent the State of Maryland at the "Miss America Beauty Pageant" in Atlantic City.

Life has been a great whirlwind for me since that day in Hagerstown—August 5 to be exact—when I was crowned "Miss Maryland 1949". There have been radio and television appearances; Cancer Drives; Polio Drives; fashion shows; interviews; banquets; parades; photographic modeling; indorsing products; appearances all over Maryland and neighboring states.

Then that week at Atlantic City, one which will long be remembered. Of course, there was much preparation to be made beforehand and so little time in which to accomplish those vitally important necessities. Believe me, this life isn't as glamorous as it may seem on the cover. Everything that could possibly happen to upset ones "applecart", I can assure you happened to me. But those unpleasant incidents are soon forgotten and lost in the whirlwind of excitement.

After four weeks of festivities which could well fill a schedule for a year in normal life, I ventured forth to Atlantic City in the Governor's private plane, completely exhausted. Accompanied by my Mother, who was my official chaperone for the week, and my Dad who soon parted from our company since men weren't permitted in the presence of any contestant, we made our landing in Atlantic City on September 5. Then, the fireworks began.

From that point on, my life was not my own. Besides our official chaperone, there were other chaperones, police escorts for wherever we went, rules, regulations, badges, banners, etc., assigned to each girl. There were newspaper reporters, camera lights shooting in every direction; more radio and television interviews; meetings and rehearsals.

Then came, what I thought, the most exciting activity of the week—the All American Beauty Parade. It was without a doubt the most outstanding parade I've ever had the honor to participate in. After being assigned to my individual float, which was beautifully decorated, I felt rightly proud representing the fair State of Maryland as I made my way down the boardwalk of Atlantic City. The throngs of cheers and applause were encouraging, to say the least. After smiling two hours constantly in that five mile parade, I find it rather difficult to keep a serious expression now.

The three days of competition followed next. The first night, I appeared in the talent division, at which time I presented a fashion show. My hobbies are fashion designing and modeling. I created outfits to suit the individual personality of the four lovely girls who modeled them while I commented.

The following night was really a trying ordeal—bathing suit competition. I found it rather difficult to keep my knees from knocking as I paraded down the 110 foot runway before the judges and an audience of 35,000 people. The rounds of applause and whistles assured me that I met with their approval.

The last night of competition, I appeared in an evening gown. That was the easiest of all. By that time I was accustomed to the bright lights and multitude of people.

On the final night after the crowning of “Miss America”, and I sincerely feel that the judges made a wise selection, we attended the Coronation Ball, which proved to be quite a colorful and festive occasion. This was the first time in the week that we were permitted to be in the presence of the male species. Each girl was escorted to the ball by a handsome young naval officer, who helped to lend to the color.

Sunday afternoon also proved to be quite a gala affair, as all contestants were invited to a garden party at the Hotel Brighton, where we met many celebrities and talent scouts. Numerous offers were made for modeling jobs, screen tests, talent tours, etc. Esquire Magazine selected me from a group of 52 for a special story, with colored pictures which to me seemed to be quite an honor.

With this eventful party, our full and strenuous week at the beauty pageant drew to a close. It was a rather sad farewell as the girls bid adieu and left for their respective states. We all grew so close to each other during that week that we felt more like long friends rather than competitors in a beauty contest. One thing that will always keep us together is the honorary sorority that we all became members of—the Mu Alpha Sigma Sorority, which stands for modesty, ambition, and success. I feel certain that each and everyone of us shall endeavor to uphold the standards of the Miss America Sorority.

I rather looked forward to the peace and relaxation offered at home, after such a thrilling but trying week. The relaxation has yet to come as it has been one appearance after another, Princess of the Tobacco Bowl Festival, Princess of the Mummers Parade; modeling assignments; judging other contests; television and radio shows; Conventions and a merry chase from morning to night, smiling and being gracious to everyone. Now, I know how a mayor must feel, but I love every moment of it. Perhaps I’ll find time for that relaxation next summer when my successor “Miss Maryland 1950” reigns over Maryland.

In spite of all the glamor that this life holds, I wouldn’t trade any of it for my first love—Nursing.

YOUR HEALTH AND ACCIDENT PROTECTION

On June 1, 1947, thru the Nurses’ Alumnae Association of the University of Maryland, a plan was inaugurated to give its members actively engaged in their profession, a monthly income to replace earnings in the event of disability thru accident or illness.

The plan, operated by the MASSACHUSETTS BONDING AND INSURANCE COMPANY, provides income up to $120 monthly, covering all diseases. There are no discriminations regarding female disorders, but pregnancy, miscarriage and abortions are not covered. All operations and accidents are covered. Up to 60 years of age, $80.00 monthly may be had with no reference to prior medical history. Payments begin the first day in event of accident, the seventh day in illness. Hospitalization has been added.

Members, including recent graduates, may join the plan on the anniversary date, June 1, 1950.

For further particulars and application forms, communicate with the State Representative, Ethel M. Troy, 17 Light Street, Baltimore 2, Maryland, or directly with the Dana G. Hall Agency, 123 William Street, New York 7, New York.
I desire to become a member of the Alumnae Association, and enclose herewith three dollars in payment of initiation fee and dues for this year.

Greetings:

To the Members of the Nurses' Alumnae Association

My message to you this year is brief and in the form of a quotation.

"I do not recall that I have ever known a person who has stood high in his business or profession who has not actively affiliated himself with organizations, attended meetings, and read magazines concerned with his affairs. These seem to be the ways in which people keep up to date and alert to the new things which are going on. I should dislike to trust myself or a member of my family to the care of a physician who does not read professional journals, nor go to professional meetings. I would equally dislike that my child is being taught by a teacher who has not sufficient interest in her work to secure information and inspiration that come from such activities."

May I thank each of you for the stimulating and gratifying experiences which have been the outcome of my past four years as your President. I extend to you my very best wishes for the continued growth and success of the Nurses' Alumnae Association.

Sincerely,

Virginia Carolyn Conley
President, Nurses' Alumnae Association.

MILICENT GEARE EDMUNDS — 1905

A graduate of the University of Maryland School of Nursing, who has been an outstanding citizen for over forty years, is Millicent Geare Edmunds of the class of 1905.

For a short while after graduation, she was Superintendent of Emergency Hospital in Annapolis. In 1907, she was married to Dr. Page Edmunds, a graduate of the University of Maryland School of Medicine. Dr. Edmunds retired from the position of Chief Surgeon of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company in 1943, after many years of outstanding service in that post.

Mrs. Edmunds' recognized ability to "get things done" leads many organizations to call on her for help to attain their objectives. Under her guidance as President of the Nurses' Alumnae Association and the Woman's Board of the University Hospital, in their respective roles, made signal contributions to the growth and development of the institution. Thru the Woman's Board she established the service of Red Cross Aides in the clinics and in the wards of the hospital in 1920, a service which was revived in World War II and still continues. A Library for patients and a gift shop have also added to the pleasure of patients and the public in the hospital.

Her wise counsel has benefited the nursing profession in Maryland not only thru the Nurses' Alumnae Association but also thru the professional organizations of the State, particularly the State Nurses' Association.

It was during World War I that Millicent Edmunds' unusual abilities began to be recognized throughout the City of Baltimore. The Baltimore Chapter of the American Red Cross placed her in charge of its Home Nursing Department, and in World War II she was appointed supervisor of Civilian Mobilization for the War Service Centre.

Mrs. Edmunds has been First Vice-President of the Federated Garden Clubs of Maryland, a Director of the Baltimore League of Women Voters, and for five years was President of the Women's Civic League of Baltimore engendering a lively interest in neighborhood garden contests, clean-up campaigns and the annual Flower Mart at the Washington Monument.

She is a charter member of the Mt. Vernon Club, a member of the Hamilton Street Club and the Gibson Island Club. She is a member of the Executive Committee of the Gibson Island Corporation and of the Gibson Island Garden Club.

Because of her achievements in these varied fields, Mrs. Edmunds has been much in demand as a speaker on the platform and over the radio.*

The Nurses' Alumnae Association has often appealed to this member for advice, and is proud to acknowledge the unfailing support given thru the years by this small, blonde "dynamo" who received her Diploma in Nursing in 1905—forty-five years ago.

* The oft-spoken comment that "a nurse's life leads into a rut" is effectively refuted by a survey of her accomplishments and contributions.
Mrs. Pace Edmunds
THE PSYCHIATRIC UNIT OF THE UNIVERSITY HOSPITAL

JACOB E. FINESINGER, M.D.
Psychiatrist-in-Chief, University Hospital

The new Psychiatric Unit was planned to serve the psychiatric needs of a University Department of Psychiatry in a large city. The first consideration was that of service to the University Hospital and to the community at large. The upper three floors of the building have facilities for the treatment and care of 102 patients. It is hoped that this number of beds will adequately care for the psychiatric needs of the University Hospital and for the acutely disturbed patients that come to the attention of psychiatrists and other physicians. The Out-Patient Department, which will occupy the three lower floors, will allow for the expansion of the present psychiatric and child guidance clinics and for the development of new clinics. Ample facilities are available for the undergraduates and graduate teaching needs of the University and for research.

Each of the upper floors is arranged in two wards with dining rooms next to a central kitchen for each ward. The nurses' station is in the center of each floor allowing ready visibility and access to the rooms along the corridors. The third and fourth floors will be used for disturbed white and negro patients. One-half of the fifth floor is designed for patients with milder disturbances—psychoneuroses and psychosomatic disorders; the other half for a children's In-Patient psychiatric unit. In designing and furnishing the room, attention has been paid to the patients' safety and comfort. We have tried to achieve a simplicity of design and function in pleasant home-like surroundings.

For the treatment and care of adult patients there are 10 wards for four patients each. The rest of the space is used for single rooms. The children's unit is arranged in four large wards each accommodating four patients.

Facilities have been planned to treat patients in every phase of psychiatric illness and rehabilitation. Six rooms are available for the care of patients in the acutely disturbed phase of their illness. There are two small units for various types of shock treatments and one unit for hydrotherapy situated on and adjacent to the disturbed wards. For patients not so acutely disturbed, occupational therapy is planned in each of the six large day rooms, two of which are on each floor. In addition, there is a large central unit for occupational therapy in the terrace or ground floor of the building for more active occupational and vocational rehabilitation, for both in-patients and those treated.
in the out-patient department. The day rooms serve several functions. They can be used for group therapy, occupational therapy and for recreation. In addition, recreational facilities are available for both adults and children in a large auditorium and gymnasium on the sixth floor which leads on to an enclosed roof. On the north side of the building there is a large playground available to in-patients as well as to out-patients. An additional outdoor play area for children is planned leading directly into a large indoor play area on the terrace floor. This is to be used both for children in the child guidance clinic and in the in-patient department. Facilities are available in the indoor play area for supervised play and for group therapy.

The lower three floors of the building are to be used for the child guidance clinic and for out-patients. In all there are 63 offices available for the use of physicians, nurses, psychologists and social workers. There are five large waiting rooms and three conference rooms. Two of these offices are set up for individual play therapy in the child guidance department. Much of modern psychiatric treatment is interpersonal treatment in which patients are treated individually through interviews or in groups. It is essentially office practice whether the patients are in-patients or out-patients. Eleven offices are available adjacent to the wards. On the second floor, 14 offices can be used for both in-patients and clinic patients.

A major function of the department is that of teaching medical students, graduate physicians, nurses, attendants, social workers, psychologists, recreational workers and technicians of various trends. For this, two conference rooms are available on the terrace floor, three conference rooms are on the first floor, one large conference room on the second floor and one conference room in each of the wards of the building. A large lecture hall with 100 seats, equipped with a projection room for sound films is on the second floor. A large study library is on the same floor with indented cubicles for undergraduate and more advanced students. The large recreational area on the sixth floor can be used for lectures and movies for various groups of patients, patients' relatives and students.

In psychiatric teaching great stress is laid on the teaching of various therapeutic techniques, interviewing and the development of special skills and techniques of behavior. For this purpose a unit has been developed that consists of an observation room located between two treatment rooms. Each of these rooms has a one way mirror permitting students to observe interviews and treatment. Each treatment room has a microphone through which interviews can be broadcast directly into the observation room, and recordings can be made of interviews, group treatment and conferences. One of these units is on the terrace floor for the observation and recording of play therapy; there is one on the first floor and two on the second floor. Each of sixteen offices has microphone outlets currented to a central receiving station on the first floor so that any physician or student can make recordings for purpose of study. There is a library for recordings on the second floor near the larger library where students can listen to recorded interviews. These facilities make available ample material for teaching and research.

Space has been provided for clinical and research laboratories. The EEG laboratory is on the second floor of the connecting wing. It consists of three rooms facing a central recording room. EEG connections are available to several other laboratories. Three clinical laboratories, a psychological laboratory and a neuropsychiological laboratory are located in the connecting wing between the psychiatric unit and the general hospital. These are available to the general hospital for purposes of diagnosis, treatment and research.

A major area for research is that of personal, interaction and group dynamics. A laboratory on the first floor is especially built for this type of clinical observation and research. This laboratory is wired directly to all the recording rooms, and to the EEG laboratory—so that various functions can be studied simultaneously.

In planning these various facilities great care has been taken to have the patients' rooms, the conference rooms, offices and laboratories so arranged that they can be used for many purposes. Ample facilities are available for modern psychiatric treatment, various types of teaching and research. The plans represent the painstaking efforts of experienced architects, the medical school and hospital administration and innumerable consultants. It is our desire that the facilities provided be of utmost use to the various departments of the medical school, the University and the community at large.
"Health—A Unifying World Influence—Nursing Accepts Its Role" was the theme of the Biennial Convention of three national nursing organizations, the American Nurses' Association, the National League of Nursing Education and the National Organization for Public Health Nursing. Dr. Stafford L. Warren, dean, School of Medicine, University of California, spoke on this topic at the opening program meeting. He stressed the stabilizing effect that nursing has on the health of the world.

The meetings were held in San Francisco from May 7-12th. Between five and six thousand nurses from every state in the union, and from Hawaii, Puerto Rico, Alaska, and the District of Columbia attended. There were also present representatives from France, England, Argentina, Austria, Japan, Denmark, Sweden, Canada, Liberia and Greece. More than 600 students attended, the largest number ever to attend a Biennial Nursing Convention. Their keen interest and awareness of the problems of the nursing organizations was indeed stimulating.

The opening business meeting of the National League of Nursing Education was called to order by the president, Miss Agnes Gelinas. In her address she defined nursing as "a social and economic need." She stressed that more teamwork is needed among nurses and nursing personnel. Also she emphasized that more cooperation is needed between universities and schools of nursing in the education of nurses. Miss Gelinas outlined the trends in nursing education as the strengthening of the hospital school of nursing by pooling resources and purchasing university teaching; placing practical nurse education under adult education of the state; and the continuance of advanced nursing education with special emphasis on clinical specialization. However, she warned that much research needs to be done before any drastic changes are made in nursing education, teaching and service. She urged that Federal and State aid be sought to help schools better their programs in nursing education; but recommended that schools which are too small to be educationally or economically sound be closed.
Miss Gelinas outlined the responsibilities of the League as follows:
1. establish principles of nursing education
2. establish a design in curriculum
3. creation of state and regional councils for the improvement of nursing services
4. support of schools of nursing of the local, state and regional councils
5. need for national study groups
6. cooperation between schools, nursing service agencies and boards of examiners
7. government subsidies made available
8. support given to the National Nursing Accrediting Service by schools of nursing
9. need for a scientific journal
10. need for a department of publications
11. need for new headquarters

As a later meeting had been allocated to discussion of Classification and Accreditation of Schools of Nursing, Miss Gelinas briefly stated that the recent Interim Classification was not to be confused with Accreditation as it grouped schools according to the measurable items in nursing education and reported practices in the basic professional programs.

The second business meeting of the National League of Nursing Education was devoted to the discussion of the report on the structure of the national nursing organizations. The results of the mail opinion poll of the membership were announced as 1,017 favoring a one-organization plan; 2,252 favoring a two-organization plan; and 711 desiring no change in organization. Recommendations were made reallocating the present functions of the League to the Division of Nursing Education of the Nursing League of America under the structure of the two-organization plan should it be adopted. At this time the By-Laws were revised to permit voting by mail on changes in organizational structure and the dissolution of the National League of Nursing Education if necessary. This ballot will be submitted to the membership for vote in the near future.

At the general meeting of the League on Wednesday, Dr. Baldwin M. Woods, vice president, University Extension, University of California, spoke on the integration of general and professional education in nursing. He compared the nursing profession to that of engineering in that three types of nurses are needed with distinct duties and educational preparation. He stressed that each group is tremendously important and dependent on the other groups. He outlined the issues in professional education as follows:
1. need for strong social science foundation
2. need for continued study
3. need for character building

Three new state leagues were accepted into the National League of Nursing Education, those of Arizona, Oregon and Idaho.

The closing business meeting was held on Friday, May 12th. The Principles Relating to Organization, Control and Administration of Nursing Education were presented for discussion and vote. Miss Gelinas explained that these principles were goals to be achieved in future years as the schools became prepared. There was considerable discussion as to the proper time and place for practical nurse education. However, the League supported the program of practical nurse education on the adult education level. The principles were adopted.

The following officers were elected:

President: Agnes Gelinas, Skidmore College School of Nursing, New York, N. Y.

Treasurer: Henrietta Doltz, University of Oregon School of Nursing, Portland, Ore.

Nurse: Mrs. R. Louise McManus, Teachers College, Columbia

Directors: University, New York, N. Y.

Ruth Sleeper, Massachusetts General Hospital School of Nursing, Boston, Mass.

Mrs. Eugenia K. Spalding, Indiana University Division of Nursing Education, Bloomington, Ind.

Lay Director: Mrs. Mae O. Spiegel, Chicago, Ill.

Mildred E. Newton, University of California School of Nursing, Berkeley, Cal.

Dorothy V. Wheeler, Veterans Administration, Washington, D. C.

It was announced that the next meeting of the National League of Nursing Education will be held in Boston, May 7-11, 1951.

On Thursday morning a League program meeting was held. Genevieve K. Bixler, retiring lay director of the League, spoke on "How can research in nursing assist in the clarification of issues now before the nursing profession?" Mrs. Bixler regards research as an essential step, for there is need for planning of a more scientific attack on issues of nursing. Decisions should be made only on complete and reliable data. She itemized the issues before the profession as:

1. What shall be the structure of national nursing organizations —what shall be the function and what structure will carry out that function?
2. What shall be the program of the nursing students? The profession must be more certain of its own objectives.

3. What part shall the lay people play in nursing organizations? No profession can exist for itself alone. The interest of the consumers is a vital concern.

4. What shall be the duties of the personnel of the function of nursing. Experimental research should be performed in the team concept in nursing.

Miss Julia M. Miller, acting director of the National Nursing Accrediting Service, spoke on Accreditation and Classification in nursing. She gave a brief history of accreditation of schools of nursing beginning 30 years ago when the National Organization for Public Health Nursing published a list of accredited programs in public health. In 1932 the Association of Collegiate Schools of Nursing was organized, and a list of accredited schools was published. In 1938 the Catholic Schools published a list of accredited programs. In 1939 the National League of Nursing Education published their list of nationally approved programs; and in 1940 a list of accredited schools for practical nursing was released.

The National Nursing Accrediting Service was created in January, 1949, by action of the Joint Board of the Six National Nursing Organizations, and the past year has been spent in laying the foundations for a sound unified accrediting service. During the year the Service published the Manual of Accrediting Programs in Nursing Education.

Miss Miller outlined the purposes of accreditation as follows:

1. to describe the characteristics of a worthy program
2. to guide prospective nursing students
3. to further interinstitutional relationships
4. to assist colleges and universities in choice of nursing schools
5. to stimulate continued improvement in nursing education

The survey of schools by the National Nursing Accrediting Service began in February 1950, and by May 1st 26 schools had been visited. Over 100 schools have applied since January. The review is based on the vitality and effectiveness of the total program, and as to how well it is achieving its objectives. Practical nurse schools are not yet included in the National Nursing Accrediting Service.

The accrediting procedure includes a letter of application, application blanks returned with a fee for each program to be accredited, schedule of visit and payment of visitation fee. After the school is approved an annual report must be submitted also an annual fee. The next list of accredited programs will be published in 1951.

Miss Marion Sheahan, Director of the National Committee for the Improvement of Nursing Services, explained that the Interim
Classification included a large bulk of the schools, and the schools were notified as to where they stood in various areas in comparison with other schools.

A meeting was held for the presentation and discussion of reports of the joint committees of the Joint Board of Directors of the Six National Nursing Organizations. Miss Elizabeth Bixler of the Committee on the Unification of Accrediting Activities gave a history of the formation of the National Nursing Accrediting Service. She stated that a study is being made of the accrediting of other professional institutions, and of how the costs are met. At the present time the six national nursing organizations are financing the accrediting program, and the funds are limited. Miss Bixler announced another classification of schools of nursing will be made. However, it seems impractical to repeat the same type of survey. It is more desirable that the next survey should be undertaken by the National Nursing Accrediting Service and should include a brief visit to the schools in addition to the questionnaire. The schools which are approved by this method would be given a Temporary Accreditation. There would be no grouping of schools as in the previous method of classification. The temporary accredited schools would be expected to apply for full accreditation within a period of probably five years. If they do not apply, they would be dropped from the list of Temporary Accreditation. The costs of this survey would be within the limits of every school of nursing. This will in no way interfere with the accreditation program now in progress.

Miss Marion Sheahan reported on the Committee for the Improvement of Nursing Services. This committee was organized in September, 1948, to analyze the problems in nursing. The committee approved the study made by Dr. Esther Lucille Brown, Nursing for the Future, and their first step was to assess the facilities in nursing education. Questionnaires were sent to all state accredited schools of nursing for the purpose of collecting and analyzing school data. Although participation in this survey was voluntary, 97% of the schools responded. The findings of this School Data Analysis resulted in the publication of the Interim Classification of Schools of Nursing Offering Basic Programs. Reports from various geographic regions of the country indicate that this classification has already stimulated constructive action towards the improvement of basic nursing education programs. A report of the practices in schools of nursing in 1949 based on this survey will be published by the National Committee for the Improvement of Nursing Services during 1950 under the title Nursing Schools at the Mid-Century. A sub-committee has been appointed to investigate educational resources for graduate nurses. Appropriations have been received from the six national nursing organizations, also the Kellogg and Rockefeller Foundations for the study.
Miss Elizabeth Phillips reported on the Committee on Practical Nurse and Auxiliary Workers. She stated that there were nine distinct titles being used to designate this type of worker. The average training program was from nine to twelve months; the longest, fifteen months; and the shortest, thirty weeks. At the present time, there are 100 approved schools of practical nursing in the U.S. The committee has been active working out a suggested curriculum which is now on the press. Another publication Nursing Aides and Other Auxiliary Workers in Nursing Service has recently been released. The committee made the following recommendations:

1. support of the term "practical nurse"
2. proper identification of practical nurse by use of distinguishing insignia on uniform
3. encouragement of practical nurses to organize to review personnel policies

Miss Theresa Lynch, reporting for the Committee on Careers in Nursing, stated that the goal of the committee was 50,000 new students during 1950. She also announced that the number of students admitted to schools of nursing in 1949 reached a peace time level. It is the duty of the committee to supply materials and inform local groups of the best recruitment methods. However, there is a need for continued intensified recruitment effort in the communities not only in high schools but in colleges and universities.

AMERICAN NURSES' ASSOCIATION

HOUSE OF DELEGATES

The opening session of the A.N.A. House of Delegates was called to order by the President of the American Nurses' Association, Miss Pearl McIver. All states and territories were represented. In her address Miss McIver itemized the questions which were before the House of Delegates as follows:

1. the structure of the National Nursing Organizations
2. the Professional Code of Nurses
3. the Platform of the American Nurses' Association
4. the types and functions of nursing personnel
5. the headquarters of the A.N.A.
6. provision for Associate Membership in the A.N.A.

The proposed platform of the American Nurses' Association was presented for discussion. The points in the platform were listed under three categories.
1. Providing Health Protection for the American People
2. Aiding Nurses to Become More Secure and More Effective Members of their Profession
3. Achieving Better Health Care for the People of the World

A motion was made to insert the word "voluntary" in designating the type of health and medical care plans. This motion was lost as the delegates indicated that they wanted to promote inclusion of nursing care in all prepaid plans of medical care. However, the delegates adopted a resolution asking the American Medical Association and other recognized national professional and health organizations to work with the A.N.A. for inclusion of adequate nursing care in voluntary plans.

Also a motion was made to strike out the term "collective bargaining" in the item dealing with labor relations. This motion was lost too, as the majority of the delegates felt that this term was one which was well understood in labor relations and could be used effectively. The Platform of the A.N.A. was adopted.

The proposed Professional Code for Nurses was read by Sister M. Berenice Beck. A motion was made to delete the sentence "A professional worker does not accept tips or bribes." The motion was lost. The only change made was the reversal of the order of Item Number 9 to read, "The nurse has an obligation to make in service, and is entitled to a just remuneration for services rendered." The code was adopted.

The Committee on the Employment Conditions of Registered Nurses reported the progress made in the development of basic policies for the evaluation and guidance of the economic security program on state and national levels. They presented these and the "No-Strike Policy" to the House of Delegates. Their recommendations were adopted.

Miss Elnora Thomson reported on the American Nurses Memorial, the Florence Nightingale School of Nursing in Bordeaux, France. Although the school has been rehabilitated by the American Nurses since World War II, $10,000 is still sorely needed.

The House of Delegates asked that personal liability insurance be provided for nurses on a nationwide basis. California and Wisconsin nurses already have such insurance available at the rate of $10.00 per year. The A.N.A. will continue investigation and plans for liability insurance for members of the American Nurses' Association.

The Committee on Retirement Plans for the Membership of the A.N.A. reported its activities. As requested by the House of Delegates in June 1948, it began a study of the Lennox Hill Hospital School of Nursing Alumnae Association Pension Plan. After detailed study it was found impractical to apply such a plan to the membership of the A.N.A. because

1. it would require a tremendous increase in A.N.A. dues,
2. it would require substantial support of the public,
3. the benefits would not be guaranteed, but would fluctuate from year to year,
4. the fund would pay no benefits for 10 years,
5. there would be no death benefits or any refund in case of withdrawal from the A.N.A.

The House voted to discontinue investigation of the Lennox Hill retirement plan, but directed study of other plans.

The primary question before the membership has undergone much discussion and study for several years was the type of nursing organization that would be most effective for nurses and consumers of nursing services. From November, 1946, through 1949 a study was made by the Committee on the Structure of National Nursing Organizations, made up of representatives from the six national nursing organizations. Their objective was an organization formula under which nurses could work together with the maximum cooperation from the public for the welfare of nurses and the best possible nursing care for the community.

Three of the nursing organizations already admitted into their membership non-nurses and were profiting by their cooperation. The Boards of Directors of the six organizations voted to support a two-organization plan. The membership of the various groups were asked to vote for one of the following:

1. a one-organization plan for reorganization of the six organizations
2. a two-organization plan for reorganization, or
3. no change at present in the structure of the organization.

The A.N.A. House of Delegates ended an 11 years’ debate when on May 11 they voted in favor of a two-organization structure. The two-organization plan proposed: one to which only nurses would belong and would represent American Nurses in the International Council of Nurses—American Nurses’ Association; another to which nurses, non-nurses, schools of nursing and nursing services would belong—the Nursing League of America.

A communication was read from the secretary of the American Medical Association asking the A.N.A. to adopt a resolution condemning compulsory health insurance. A motion was made to this effect, however it was tabled by the House of Delegates.

The A.N.A. voted to keep its headquarters in New York, and instructed the Board of Directors to consider buying or leasing property there for permanent headquarters. The House of Delegates also voted to complete the liquidation of the A.N.A. Relief Fund which was started in 1932. The securities will be sold and the $19,992.00 will be distributed to the state nurses' associations.

The proposed revisions of the A.N.A. By-Laws to provide for Associate Membership were presented. This would enable a registered nurse who is no longer active in nursing to belong to the A.N.A. as an Associate Member. The By-Laws were amended to set forth the rights and restrictions of such membership.

The Board of Directors of the A.N.A. presented to the House of Delegates an outline for a Proposed Study of Nursing Functions. The study was approved by the House with the amendment that each state association work out its own method of securing funds. Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, California and Massachusetts already have such studies in progress.

Resolutions adopted by the House of Delegates at the closing meeting are as follows:

1. Curriculum in schools of nursing for men nurses to include both theory and clinical experience in pediatrics and obstetrics
2. Men nurse sections be set up in states where sufficient number exists
3. Channel be made available through which student nurses may bring suggestions to the House of Delegates
4. A.N.A. urged to promote organization of student nurse groups in states where there is none without regard to race, creed or color.
5. A.N.A. assume responsibility for publication of student nurse activities in the American Journal of Nursing and other publications
6. A.N.A. urged to continue recruitment of desirable nursing students
7. National Association of Colored Graduate Nurses urged the A.N.A. to set a committee to study liaison between colored and white nurses in states where Negro nurses are not accepted.

NURSING SCHOOLS AT THE MID-CENTURY

National Committee for the Improvement of Nursing Services, 1790 Broadway, New York, New York, xv + 88 p. $1.50

Now at the mid-century, America's nursing profession has paused to take stock of itself. This pause was highly necessary following World War II when the cry everywhere was directed against America's quantitative and qualitative nursing responsibility. Without good schools of nursing the National Committee for the Improvement of Nursing Services realized the hope for better nursing service was futile.

Early in 1948 the National Committee for the Improvement of Nursing Services following certain reports such as the Brown Study1 and the Ginzberg Study2 decided upon a course of action. They proceeded to gather certain data about Nursing Schools. To the committee's surprise, 97 percent of the schools offering Basic Programs answered the questionnaire in relation to: (a) organization, (b) student nurse health service, (c) curriculum, (d) library, (e) clinical experience, (f) measurement of students' ability and achievement (intelligence and aptitude tests in selecting students), (g) performance on State Board Examinations. While much of this report can be considered as paper work there is also a certain amount of objectivity attached to it. As an example, budgets were photostated; faculty qualifications were checked either in the State Board of Examiners Office or with the American Council of Education; organization charts were submitted; cost analysis reports of Schools of Nursing were studied if available. All things being equal the procedure of gathering data was sound, but the data gathering was not meant to take the place of an objective personal survey of all teaching facilities connected with the nursing school and the hospital. Every public school administrator knows the value that grows out of an over all school survey, if it is carried on by specialists in their field. The same growth will be experienced within schools of nursing following field surveys. As an outcome the patient will be benefited by an improved quantitative and an improved qualitative nursing service.

In September, 1949, those schools of nursing which participated in the interim study received a report wherein a certain classification was given either in Group I, Group II or Group III. In the February 1950 issue of the American Journal of Nursing the names and classification of the schools were given state by state. Considerable dissatisfaction since has arisen in relation to the validity of the data given by some of the schools so that in 1951 the National Committee has ordered a field inspection of all schools participating in the interim classification. The present study of nursing schools, however, does not mark the first attempt of the profession to examine nursing education. The first study came in 1923 with the publication of the Goldmark Study. In 1934 another study was published known as Nursing Schools Today and Tomorrow. Both studies confirmed the weaknesses of nursing education, and recommended specific improvements.

In the spring of 1950 the whole report of the school data analysis was reviewed closely by professional nurses and allied professional groups. The report was accepted. The improvement of nursing education was agreed upon to be an essential for improving nursing services. The publication of this report is sponsored by the Joint Board of six national nursing organizations and is known as Nursing Schools at the Mid-Century. The contents of this unique report consists of twelve chapters under the following headings:

Included also are three appendices, thirty-four tables and thirteen supplementary tables. The report is very informative, easy to follow and exceptionally well organized. It contains a great deal of history in regard to the enrollment of students in schools of nursing and traces their development and growth to the present day. Many readers of this report will be surprised to know that out of a total of 1193 schools of nursing in the United States studied, there are still 118 that have less than 25 students.

- 351 range from 25 to 49 students
- 452 schools have 50 to 99 students
- 163 schools have an enrollment of 100 to 149 students
- 61 schools have an enrollment of 150 to 199 students
- 42 schools have an enrollment of 200 and over.
Most nursing school libraries have less than 100 books and that ninety percent of the schools in group III give less than 200 hours of planned clinical instruction. Out of 1193 state approved schools of nursing only 365 offered tuberculosis nursing experience; 551 communicable disease nursing experience; 770 offered no nursing experience in public health; 485 offered no nursing experience in Out-Patient Department.

From this most unusual report which the writer urges every alumnae of this school of nursing to read, one soon realizes that a wide range of practices among schools of nursing, as well as specific nursing education patterns, exists in different parts of the country. The active interest of all groups of citizens must be solicited to improve nursing education in order to improve better nursing service to the people of the country.

THE NURSING EDUCATION PROGRAM FOR GRADUATE NURSES AT THE UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND

The College of Education of the University of Maryland is offering courses in nursing education on the Baltimore campus in the afternoons and evenings. These are planned for registered nurses who are working for bachelors degrees in nursing education and masters degrees in education. Candidates in nursing education are also eligible for registration in regular education and arts and science courses.

One hundred and twenty-eight (128) semester hours are required for the degree of B. S. in nursing education. The last 30 hours of work must be taken at the University of Maryland. However, creditable work completed at other institutions is acceptable as found applicable, unless within the last 30 hours.

For graduates of the University of Maryland School of Nursing, 42 semester hours may be credited towards the degree for their work in the school of nursing.

Also, this year, the University of Maryland is offering a basic certificate program in Industrial Nursing on the Baltimore campus. These courses are given in the evening and consist of Industrial Hygiene Education and Industrial Nursing. Credits from these courses can be applied towards the B.S. degree in nursing education.

This semester over 150 nurses from all sections of the state of Maryland are enrolled in the nursing education program for graduate nurses.

WORKSHOP CONDUCTED AT UNIVERSITY

A “Workshop Institute in the Social and Health Components in Nursing” was conducted by the College of Special and Continuation Studies of the University of Maryland in Baltimore from June 27, to July 25, 1950.
Miss Lulu K. Wolf, Dean of the School of Nursing at the University of California in Los Angeles, was coordinator and was here this summer to help conduct the Workshop.

The group found Miss Wolf to be an extremely dynamic and thought provoking person. Those in the course felt that they had learned a great deal from their contact with her and that they had been made more aware of the place and future of Nursing. She made the group conscious of the extreme importance both of social components and positive health in the functions of the nurse both of the present and for the foreseeable time to come.

The entire program was very interesting and consisted of lectures, group and panel discussions, and Field Observations. The following agencies were visited:

1. Maryland State Health Department, Division of Public Health Nursing
2. Baltimore County Health Department
3. The Social Service Exchange
4. Baltimore City Health Department
5. Montrose Training School for Girls
6. The Instructive Visiting Nurse Association
7. The Medical Care Clinic, University Hospital
8. The Union Memorial Hospital
9. The Social Service Department, Johns Hopkins Hospital
10. The Juvenile Court
11. The Family and Children’s Society

In addition to Miss Wolf, outstanding people in Maryland participated on panels and entered into some of the group discussions.

Miss Mary Carl, Assistant Director, College of Special and Continuation Studies, University of Maryland, talked on Group Dynamics including the means of developing a common viewpoint. She helped the class decide on effective grouping of its members for valuable group thinking. Each group was interested in studying inter-agency relationships and conducted their discussions toward that objective.

Miss Helen Fisk, Director, Division of Public Health Nursing, Maryland State Health Department, and Miss Ethel Turner, Director, Instructive Visiting Nurse Association in Baltimore City, were co-chairmen of the committee both in planning and executing the program.

Nurses, physicians, hospital administrators and educators cooperated in the program. The Institute was divided into two parts. Twenty-three nurses completed the first part only, and eighteen completed both parts. It was agreed by students and planners that this was a highly successful undertaking.
WORLD HEALTH ASSEMBLY

By SARA A. WHITEHURST
U.S.A. Delegate to the Assembly

The third World Health Assembly met in Geneva from May 8 to May 27 against a background of high international tensions and in the midst of attempts, as yet unsuccessful, to secure international harmony.

The World Health Assembly is the supreme organ of the World Health Organization, a specialized agency of the United Nations. It is not a political organization.

Its main objective is to raise the standards of health throughout the world, particularly in the under-developed areas.

The Secretary-General of the United Nations, Trygve Lie, addressed the delegates on May 8 and his words indicated that economic and political implications are unavoidable in this work.

Mr. Lie told the Assembly that the interdependence of the work of the United Nations and its specialized agencies necessarily relates political issues with economic development and trade, food and health.

The newly elected president of the World Health Assembly, Rajkumari Amrit Kaur, said in her inaugural address, "The strained relations that exist between the Eastern and Western democracies have a deleterious effect on all the humanitarian endeavor of the specialized agencies of the United Nations. Though we live in different countries, speak different languages, and belong to different races, the language of the heart is one, and human nature is the same the world over. That kinship must be made to rise above all the barriers that today divide us."

The Assembly studied the danger of the spread of cholera from endemic areas in India and Pakistan.

A number of research programs were also approved, including further study of virus diseases, such as rabies, influenza, poliomyelitis and other diseases such as rheumatism and hepatitis.

New impetus was given to programs against certain communicable diseases, of which the most important are malaria, tuberculosis and venereal diseases.

The most acute problem in every country was the shortage of physicians, nurses, laboratory technicians, sanitary engineers and public health workers of all categories.
Provisions were made for fellowships for medical personnel; aid to training institutes, exchange of technicians, supply of medical literature and teaching material; and the development of efficient public health teams. Over 800 fellowships have already been granted.

Daily broadcasts from 30 radio transmitters warn governments, port health authorities, ships and aircraft of the detection of epidemic diseases in all parts of the world.

The Assembly adopted 39 new international standards for biological products such as vaccines, vitamins, antibiotics and other health agents.

The Technical Assistance Program adopted by the Assembly follows the lines of aid in environmental sanitation, nutrition and public health, research on antibiotics, special epidemiological studies and mental health.

The budget for the important work of the Assembly's program is inadequate. It is only $6,100,000.

There were 63 countries represented, with only three countries sending women delegates, Burma, India and the U. S. A.

The contacts made with delegates from all parts of the world and the discussions on various subjects, made this assignment of a month in Geneva one of the great experiences of my rather varied career.
A crisp October day, feelings of warm comradeship, an air of festivity and good sportsmanship—these ingredients composed Homecoming Day for the 24,502 people who returned to College Park on October 21, 1950.

The main festivities began at 10:00 A.M. with a parade of 22 floats and bands. Between the floats, in open cars, were the 24 candidates for Homecoming Queen. The bands were from surrounding communities as well as from the University. The I.S.U., each sorority and fraternity was represented with a float. One of the floats which everyone seemed to enjoy especially was a simulation of Dr. Harry Byrd distributing diplomas by handfuls from an abundant supply. We were somewhat disappointed, however, to find that the diploma given us conferred no degree but contained only the words, “Beat North Carolina State.”

After the parade we withdrew to the dining room where we had a delicious crab cake lunch. Here we were also welcomed to the University by the president, Dr. Byrd. We were introduced to international delegations from Egypt, Germany and Japan, who came to the University to see just what an American university “homecoming” is like.

The 1,600 alumni then emerged from the cafeteria and pressed onward to the new Byrd Stadium for the crowning of the Homecoming Queen and the football game with North Carolina State. As the 75 piece university band played, Judge Cole was escorted to the center of the field where the 24 queen candidates and an honor guard of 48 cadets stood. The regent chairman placed the crown of red carnations on Miss Janice North’s blonde tresses and kissed her to complete the crowning.

Although University of Maryland entered the game as a 19 point favorite, they were defeated 16 to 13. The game was a display of excellent sportsmanship and we felt that the important factor was not only who won the game but how the game was played.

An Alumni Mixer was scheduled for 5:30 P.M. to be followed by the big all-university dance where prizes for sorority house decorations and floats were to be awarded.

JEAN LOUISE BLOOM, M.Ed., R.N. — CLASS 1946

Dear Virginia,

It is quite nice to hear from someone from my old Alma Mater. I really don’t know exactly what information you would like for the Bulletin, so I shall rattle on, and you may feel free to rewrite, delete or add to my raving.

I was born in Baltimore, Maryland and until recently spent my life there, except for traveling which was enlightening to say the least. At the tender age of six or seven I decided that I wanted to go into nursing; probably the fact that my mother was a nurse greatly stimulated my interest.

I’ve always enjoyed going to school so what I did eventually certainly does not seem strange. When I was in high school, I was fascinated by the sciences and felt that I should like to continue my education. I realized that attending college would be somewhat of a drain on family finances so—I obtained a job at Montgomery Ward and Co. in the summer of 1941. This enabled me to pay my tuition the first year in college. I commuted from Baltimore to College Park every day. But a commuter’s life was not the life for me—I was much too fatigued.

The following summer, I worked at the Gas and Electric Co. and again earned my tuition and, yes, even had some left over to buy my books. The second year I lived in Anne Arundel Hall (University of Maryland) and worked in the dorm for my room.

This may sound as though work consumed my entire day, however, there were still enough hours to have loads and loads of fun. The people with whom I worked were quite interesting, and I certainly gained much from my work experience.

While I was attending college, I had thought that I might possibly like to go into the field of Bacteriology; however, looking at bugs all day did not impress me as much as working with people. Consequently, I combined my interest in people with my love of the sciences and entered Nursing School.

I would hardly say that I was a model student for I loved all sorts of mischief. (Ask Anne Lutz or Clara McGovern about some of my escapades.) I did, however, want to be a good nurse so—I tried and cried, and tore and swore through three years. Seriously, I don’t believe that I ever once thought of leaving, even though going got pretty rough at times.

When I finished nursing school in 1946, I truly never thought that I would be interested in teaching. However, Miss Gipe gave me the opportunity, and now I would not want to do anything else. My face still burns when I think of some of the faux pas I made those first years.

If anyone had told me that I would attend school again, I would have laughed in his face. Here I was in '47 back in Night School at the Baltimore Division. I realized that if I were to remain in Nursing Education, I certainly needed a huge supplement to my store of knowledge. When I had nearly completed work on my Master of Education degree, I resigned my position as Clinical Instructor and went to College Park full time. In August 1949, I finally received my degree plus a teacher's certificate and a counselor's certificate in the State of Maryland.

At present, I am employed at the Englewood Hospital School of Nursing as the Educational Director; I also teach the social sciences.

I am enjoying my work here primarily because my faculty are all about my age. We do most of the policy-making for the school and lastly because, the school of nursing is quite progressive and certainly one of the better schools in the State of New Jersey.

MARGARET ROELKE — CLASS 1943
Surat Mission Hospital, Surat, India

Dearest Idona,

"I cannot do it alone,
The waves dash fast and high,
And the fogs close chill around,
And the light goes out in the sky,
But I know that two shall win in the end—
God and I."

Just a bit of verse a friend gave me long ago that I thought I'd like to share with you. There are many times that we feel so inadequate for the task we have here but God supplies our needs from day to day and blesses what we feel are feeble efforts. As I look back over the last year it seems that I have done nothing and yet God may see results that I cannot see. It surely has been encouraging to have the pictures, flannelgraph materials, etc. that many have sent. You would feel well rewarded if you could attend some of my meetings and see the interest in these faces shading from light tan to jet black. I have meetings at the hospital twice a week and patients come on crutches, stretchers, in wheel chairs, and in their parents' arms. It really is a gathering of the halt, maimed and blind; relatives, friends and our neighbors attend also. The flannelgraph pictures hold their attention and impress the stories on their hearts and minds. How happy I will be when I can do without a translator, for I know just enough Gujarati now that it is quite annoying when my interpreter fails to get my particular point across and yet I cannot explain in Gujarati.

When we go to the village for our branch Sabbath School the children come running down the road to meet us with broad smiles and quickly crowd around when I set up my flannelboard. There are about 69 from this one small village who are learning that Jesus died for them too. My Gujarati pandit and I have worked together to prepare a collection of children’s songs and finger plays in Gujarati for they practically had nothing along this line. I wish you could hear them sing “Yes, He is coming, the Bible tells me so.” We go out every Sabbath afternoon and hope, pray and trust that in this fertile soil these seeds of truth will not be lost.

I had been holding a children’s service in the park by the river every morning. The children had learned many songs, enjoyed the stories and I felt happy about their enthusiasm. When I came within a block or two of the park on my cycle they ran after me Pied Piper fashion calling—“the picture lady has come.” Many adults used to gather around to listen to the stories about Jesus, too, and seemed quite interested. Then one evening a fellow (I later found out is a communist) interrupted me quite emphatically told the children he would kill them if they said another word, and gave me a verbal thrashing, saying there is no place in India for anyone except Hindus and that I should go back to America where I came from. I didn’t answer him at all, but gathered up my materials and walked away leaving him in a hot argument with someone who was taking my side. I tried to fight back the tears but they brimmed over the edge, and the little Indian nurse who had been translating for me slipped her hand into mine and said, “Don’t cry, Miss Roelke, think about what Jesus suffered and He is coming back again.” The fellow is a refugee from Sind and many of these Sindies are radically communistic—there is no room in India for any foreigner. He has threatened to kill me but the local Hindus are quite indignant and offer to come as body guards any time I want to hold more meetings. I have been back and although there was no trouble, the children did not respond very well. He was probably just trying to be impressive, but since India’s independence, there is a very strong feeling against the white skin and all it stands for. I feel our days are numbered as India wants to run herself without any outside interference. Of course the more educated realize the good work that the Christian schools and hospitals have done for their country, but the radical, uneducated element far outnumber those. Communism is rapidly taking its toll in the East.

The heat is taking its toll, too—these days at 110 leave me pretty limp by 5 p.m. The nights are glorious though as I pitch my tent out under the stars—my tent is my most faithful friend—the mosquito net. The mornings are lovely too, as I can lie in bed and watch the colorful birds flying overhead or listen to their morning songs in a nearby tree. We have beautiful green parrots and robin sized yellow orioles. Really need a teacher, but I bought an Indian bird book and have been able to identify many from the good pictures and descriptions. Next time I just must have binoculars, for it would be so much more interesting to see the birds at close range. In a few weeks I'll be going to the hills again for language school, and I will be able to hear the loveliest song bird I have ever heard—the Malabai Whistling Thrush—it sounds just like a happy brook rippling thru the hillside. I would love to have just a week at home now to see the spring arriving in all its glory—I miss the changing seasons and Spring most of all.

We had a letter from a 14 year old Mohammedan boy saying he wants to become a Christian because he doesn't particularly care to be a Moslem. But he will become a Christian only if the mission promises two things, "1-Payment of rupees 500 monthly, and 2-That you marry me to one American or English girl." Too bad I'm not wealthy enough to pay the monthly dowry or I might have a husband.

The monkeys and dogs continue to be a major problem at the hospital—they've ruined a nice banana grove we had behind the women's ward. The Hindus have so much regard for animal life and yet seem to count human life so carelessly it makes your blood pressure rise. We had a woman admitted late one Friday night with extensive burns 8 days old. We worked over her a long time cleaning her up, giving her fluids intravenously but lost her before morning. Her life could probably have been saved if they had brought her in the beginning. The same night we admitted a 23 year old Mohammedan girl with a severe hemorrhage from the nose; she also died within a few hours of internal hemorrhage. I have a lovely red silk handkerchief she gave me six months ago when her baby boy arrived at our hospital. Dr. Richli Buxton calls the Moslem town near us "The Woman's Graveyard." They have no chance to be healthy shut up in their homes or covered from head to toe in their burkhas when they go out. I think a hundred times a day how God has blessed those of us who have been born in American Christian homes. With a new force these lines come to me, "Breathes there a man with soul so dead who never to himself hath said, 'This is my own, my native land' . . ."

Speaking of home—Miss Burnett, our world counselor, visited us at Christmas time. It made me homesick at first as I had known her in Takoma Park. Much as I appreciated having her here in a professional capacity I think I enjoyed her stay here personally much more for it was so good to talk to someone from home. We've all had to lengthen our dresses for her "11 inches from the floor" made us look quite scandalous. We visited many of the local hospitals and spent a day together in Bombay gathering information regarding requirements for an accredited nursing education program in this district. We are not training students now but we hope to in the near future. Especially is this important if and when Europeans are requested to leave India.

There’s always an extra ray of sunshine in the day when I have a letter from home, so do write for all the “unexciting everyday details” are just the things that bring home close to India.

May God be ever near you,

HANAN SIGNAL DEPOT.

October 1950

Dear Girls;

Are you in for a surprise or have you heard we have been stationed in Germany since July 28th? Oh yes, we toured several days before reporting here. We really did relax the three days the ship plowed through the blue waters of the Aegean Sea for Trieste.

Early on the third day someone called out “see Trieste.” It is known as the white city. From every which way one comes one is attracted by the prominent features of Saint Guesto towering above the city with its ancient Venetian Castle built at the beginning of the 16th century. Someone commented that the history and soul of the city are there. From the castle one has a glorious view of the green hills and blue sea. In the distance the hills form into a chain of mountains and on a clear day one can distinguish farther away the outline of the Alps. Not far from the castle is the art museum rich in precious collections. In the center of old Trieste is the Roman Theater; the punic circular flight of steps, the ruins, the stone basement make a perfect specimen of Roman architecture. Another interesting discovery is the Grand Canal which penetrates right into the city. We were told it was dug in 1750 for the sail boats to unload into the city, right in front of the warehouses.

We were amazed at the beautiful farming sections between Trieste and Venice. Farmers were working knee deep in the hay fields. Acres of sunflowers made a beautiful display along the road. The roads through this large area were good, auto traffic was at a minimum. However, both old and young ride bicycles and the roads were usually crowded. Beautiful canals with velvety green banks stretched for miles along the highways. Soon we reached Venice.

At the end of the city (Venice) we parked our car in a garage and proceeded to our hotel in a gondola. Can you imagine a city without street cars, buses and autos. One can hardly conceive an entire city built in the water with over a hundred canals and that many tiny bridges. Water traffic is regulated by signals in the same manner as our city streets.

Driving toward Florence we got on our left a wide view of the country through which we had passed. Below the green valley. Further on is the hill of Frisoli; its steep slope broken by narrow terraces where stand villas and groups of cypress trees, and the Franciscan Monastery crowning the summit. At this point one can see Florence nestling among the hills. We made our way to Cathedral Square in the center of the city containing several religious edifices. First, we saw the Baptistery dedicated to Saint John the Baptist. Since early days children have been stamped with the Sacrament of Baptism in the church. Someone explained that no member of the republic was elected without some special ceremony that took place in this shrine. Next we made our way to the Cathedral, it was hard to realize the structure, as it is today, is the result of centuries of work. A guard informed us that it was started in 1296 and completed in 1887. On a hill near Florence we visited the bronze monument erected to Michaelangelo. In the museums and art galleries it took hours to view the marvelous works of the great artists.

Switzerland is a beautiful garden to look at. One finds a variety of scenery. A country of mountains and lakes. In one section we saw many tiny villages situated between hills crowned by a graceful church, and in the background the Alps.

I suspect you are curious about our new quarters—we have been told the distance from Frankfurt is only twelve miles. The gardener is quite proud of his flowers. The administration building and officers' club are surrounded by old-fashioned flower beds.

Wish we had time to reminisce about some of our experiences in Greece. One particular trip was very enjoyable. Taylor came home on Tuesday with the comment, "we will be away for a few days." Come Wednesday morning the party got off to a good start in a government station wagon. Mayor Koukoutsas' supply officer for the Greek army managed to get away from his office at the same time to make inspection of supply branches in Larisa and Salonika. George, Taylor's interpreter, was needed throughout the inspection tour. A niece of the mayor's went the half way mark to Larisa for a visit with her grandparents.

The Mayor is quite versed on Greek history and we got a lot of it on the trip which we enjoyed very much—he had such funny sayings, too. Driving along the sea for a short distance he saw fish jumping above the water, presently he called "see the fish hop and skip on the water." When he felt hungry, his expression would be "I must be getting something to eat because I have troubles in my stomach."
We notice the villagers built their homes close together against the mountains, and we asked why. The Mayor replied that farm land is scarce in Greece and the people build where land cannot be cultivated. I was interested to learn that in ancient times each village had its own government and was actually isolated because the mountains were impassable. Larisa was reached in mid-afternoon, shelter was found at the American Mission and a good place to eat across the street. The Mayor explained most people consider it an honor if a stork builds on the roof of their home. He told me to look down the street and I counted eight houses with nests on the roofs. Of course, I dashed for the camera.

Before the day was over I met a Greek Col. then a General and a Brigadier General, but you may say what you please this was not as exciting as meeting the King of Trans-Jordan. King Abdullah. Honestly, we did! We met the King in Animen, Trans-Jordan.

You perhaps have guessed we had a nice trip. We got hot and tired; the mountain climbing seemed endless, and a hard storm checked our speed returning home. And, believe me, the little white house on a side street in Philothei looked good to us. However, it was a thrill to get about four hundred miles beyond the Athens mountains.

I would like to sit and chat about some more interesting discoveries in Greece but you must all be bogged out now. I like to think of those pleasant experiences to Corinth, Tatoi and to Sounion which is on a tip of land extending into the Aegean Sea. I’ll write soon again and tell you about the trip to Garmish and Oberammergau in southern Germany to see the Passion Play.

Good luck and good wishes to all.

(Hurry Lenora we are waiting for the next installment.)

Col. and Mrs. Wm. Taylor Medford were recently transferred from Greece to Germany. Above are some excerpts from a most interesting letter telling of their travels through Italy, Switzerland and Greece.

ROWENA G. ROACH, MAJOR, A.N.C.

98th General Hospital
APO 407 c/o P.M. New York, N. Y.

Dear Alumnae,

Extensions have added up to eighteen months, making my tour of duty in Germany, three and one half years. My rotation date is June 13th, 1951—too late to celebrate my twentieth anniversary at the 1951 banquet, but the bulletin always comes through and reaches everyone—a sure contact.

In retrospect, my eleven years in the Army have been most interesting, varied, and educational—a veritable travelogue. I've been very fortunate in my assignments; Operating Room Supervisor has been my MOS, but unfortunately with age and promotions, I will have to be schooled in administration and take on Chief Nurse's duties, (a future thought). It has been fun and a challenge to take on each new assignment; establishing routines and standards and supplies, compromising on techniques—the Army is made up of a heterogeneous group, so there are many "schools of thought."

Enough of work; now for the advantages of Army Nursing and I'm afraid I'll sound like a recruiting sergeant. I will be able to retire in nine years (20 years service) and "see America Last." For a brief resumé, my army assignments have been mostly in foreign parts, except for my initial entrance at Walter Reed General Hospital in 1940 and two "hitches" (1944 and 1947) at Ft. Meade. I served three delightful years in Puerto Rico. In 1945 I sailed in convoy from New York with the 305th General Hospital and arrived at Le Havre, the day of President Roosevelt's death. V-E Day shortened our stay at Metz, France. We were redeployed to Marseille on through the Panama Canal to Manila (37 days on the former and now renovated "Monterey," Matson Line). Our trip was punctuated by V-J Day. That tour of duty ended with eighteen months in Japan; a most different country. Flew home, stopping in Guam, Kwajalein, Johnson and Hickam Field, (I had a two Sunday week-end) a total of four days to California. I also flew to Frankfurt in 1948, which brings me up to my present position—Germany.

I've been very fortunate in these years, my curiosity and wanderlust have been stimulated, but not satiated. More and more I realize, that there is so much to see in this world and not enough time (off duty) to accomplish this feat. I feel as though I haven't laid the cornerstone of my education, yet. It is heartrending to see the havoc of war. I suppose if you can look backwards and forwards and around the obvious destruction, it adds up to History and The Rise and Fall of Cultures, but it's hard to keep one's perspective.

I served fourteen months in Bremerhaven, the seaport for the American Zone. If you trace the parallel through to the North American continent, you would find yourself in the Hudson Bay Country, but fortunately, the currents keep the flat, sometimes below sea level land on an even keel of fog, copious rain and livable cold. The summers are pleasant, no heat waves and cotton dresses are a poor investment. From that station I had a two-weeks' vacation through Norway, Denmark and Sweden; each country has its own special charm. I think I would like to live in Copenhagen.
I transferred from the Enclave to the Zone and have been in Heidelberg, the home of "The Student Prince" for the past eighteen months. This has been a focal point from which to ride off and see the diversity of country and village. Colored pictures are the only medium to capture the beauty, but I've not acquired that hobby and my few black and white prints will be used to restore my memories. Being of "Pennsylvania Dutch" extraction, I can see many of the original habits and customs that were transplanted. (By the way, I've become quite a linguist with my hands.)

During this period I've had leave in England and Scotland and I'm the conventional tourist, dashing around and seeing all the high spots and then, like a cow chewing its cud, return home and start checking my history, geography and related subject books. This past summer we drove to Paris, Belgium, Holland and Luxemburg. I'm sorry I don't have some preferred stock in the bicycle industry, as the ratio is about one to three people. They become quite a traffic hazard and most American drivers feel as though they are a mild form of sabotage.

Switzerland is a country to visit in order to hold onto a "way of Life"—sensible, practical, industrious people. I expect to spend another winter vacation there, going to Zermatt and St. Moritz. Then, in the Spring the Italian tour, and except for local excursions that will wind up my tour in Europe.

Berlin and Vienna have special mention because I feel as though I've been literally behind the "Iron Curtain." A safari doesn't require any more preparation: uniform, papers consisting of permits, translations, accommodations and a prayer that the train won't be held up at the borders. During my leave to Vienna, Dr. Yeager came through Heidelberg. I was sorry to have missed him, although Della Riley managed a hello and a handshake, when he was in Munich.

Having come of age this year, the "leaves" shouldered two new responsibilities; a member of the evaluation board, interviewing applicants for the regular army and chief nurse of the 5th Mobile Surgical Hospital. With the first duty, I was on TDY to Munich and at this writing, I have permanent orders to return to Munich effective as of the 3rd of November—the second duty, we went on maneuvers in September, as a G.I. nomadic caravan. But in all seriousness, if world conditions warrant a conflict, I prefer to be in such an outfit. It is an improvement over the auxiliary surgical teams.

The Mobile Surgical Hospital is an independent, self-contained, highly specialized, mobile unit. It is assigned in the near vicinity of a clearing station to give definitive, surgical treatment to the non-transportable wounded.
This brings my army career up to date, I hope eventually to have duty on the West Coast and Hawaii, but one might say the future is in the red.

My regards to all and continued success with the bulletin.
P.S. Enclosed are a few negatives of the conventional photogenic scenes of Europe.

FROM NORTH BRAZIL

Pacintins, October 26

Dear Mrs. Arnurius,

As you see I am moving rather fast these days. The last time you wrote me I was in Michigan. After that I went home in South Brazil, and now I am living in a rather hot place in the north of Brazil with the Amazon River flowing swiftly at my front door.

This letter is not to tell you about my movements, but to ask you to send me the Alumnae yearly booklet to this address:

Mrs. Arnold Boscardin, R.N.
c/o S. E. S. P.
Caixa Postal 621
Belém Pará, Brasil

Since I am writing to you I might as well tell you what I have been doing. You probably know that I am married to a doctor.
(By the way, we have a little son called Fernando, born on the 11th of August.) My husband works for what is called here Special Service of Public Health for which the United States contributes yearly with a large sum of money. I believe there was an article about it in the Saturday Evening Post in 1948.

This organization is trying to educate the people and bring about the sanitation of the Amazon Valley. This is not an easy proposition because the valley covers about one million square miles, and it is difficult to find doctors and nurses to work in these rather dismal places.

At the moment we are living in a town called Pacintins which has 5,000 inhabitants. It is very hot because we are pretty close to the Equator. The people are ignorant and full of superstitions. It is very difficult to teach them sanitation, but maybe in a few years there will be something accomplished. In the meantime, while teaching, the doctor examines the sick and tries as best as he can with such limited facilities to bring them back to health.
Transportation is very difficult. There are only two seaplanes which stop here weekly. One goes east to the mouth of the river, and the other goes west to Peru. A boat would take about two weeks to get to the mouth.

Well, I think I have written too much already, but one gets lonely sometimes, and maybe a little homesick for the old University Hospital.

I certainly hope that you are well. Forgive me for taking so much of your time.

Yours sincerely,

Mrs. Arnold Boscardin
(Maria C. Nogueira, Class 1948)

MILDRED CRAMER CRUZ, CLASS 1937

General Delivery, Anchorage, Alaska

Dear Friends:

First, let me thank you for the Bulletin. I truly enjoy it to the fullest. We had a second daughter born November 10, 1949.

In May, 1950, Miss Given, an American Nurse Association representative, came to Anchorage and helped to form a territorial Nurses Association. Our by-laws have been accepted and in May, 1951, there will be a second territorial meeting of the nurses. Four districts have been formed within Alaska. We have urged the nurses to register in the territories, and we are progressing very well.

I was, of course, thrilled upon several occasions when someone would come up and say, I know where you are from—somehow it made Maryland seem less far away. At the last Nurses' Meeting, I met a Miss Conner, from Baltimore. She had trained at Maryland General Hospital and graduated in 1939.

We have planned programs with wonderful material to draw upon. The Army is most cooperative with lectures and films, as are also the drug companies. Our Nursing Association has volunteered in the Civilian Defense Program, as well as the usual civic projects.

The most of my day is quite interesting; another nurse and I have opened a Children's Day Nursery.

Alaska has been besieged by epidemics most of the year. Early spring brought typhoid fever, early fall brought poliomyelitis. The population has doubled since we came to live here. There are numerous transients including nurses who rotate spring and fall. The airplane is, of course, Alaska's main source of transportation.

Sincerely,

Mildred Cruz.
ANNUAL BANQUET AND DANCE

Martha Curtiss—Class 1948—Chairman Banquet Committee

The annual banquet and dance held by the Nurses' Alumnae Association for the graduating class took place on June 9, 1950. A group of 250 graduates of the School of Nursing was present at the Emerson Hotel to honor the 47 graduating nurses who received their diplomas the following day at College Park.

Among the group were several distinguished guests. Miss Virginia C. Conley, president of the Nurses' Alumnae Association, extended greetings to the graduating class. Rev. Paul C. Warren, minister of the Second Presbyterian Church, offered the invocation. Mrs. John L. Whitehurst, an honorary member of the alumnae, was guest speaker. She encouraged the graduates to keep abreast of national and international affairs as well as to realize their responsibility to their profession. She remarked that her abilities as an organizer were greatly developed during the years of her nurse's training. Mrs. Whitehurst was recently returned from Geneva, Switzerland, where she attended the meeting of the World Health Organization by personal appointment of the President of the United States. She related many of the problems discussed at the meeting and her observations concerning them.

We were very sorry to learn of Elva Boor VanGassbeck’s automobile accident. We are all wishing her a speedy recovery. Messages arrived from Betty White, Corinne Bogart Starford, Elizabeth Nordt Bridgers, and Elva Boor VanGassbeck. They all wished to be remembered to the Alumnae and expressed their wishes to be with us at our next Reunion.

It is with deepest regret that we list the following deceased members of the Class of 1915. They are:

Martha Coppersmith Kays
Mabel Lea Oehler
Norma Frothingham Chapman
Alpharetta Myers
Florence Skinner Caldwell

REUNION OF THE 1920 CLASS

By Mrs. Emma Y. Albert

The class held its reunion at The Emerson Hotel June 9, 1950; with twelve members present. Howell (Mrs. C. L. Buddin) from Rock Hill, N. C. and Little (Mrs. Wm. Lueders) from Staunton, Va. joined their classmates from Baltimore and vicinity. The honor guests were Mrs. Margaret Massey Winslow class 1903 and Miss Ida Beuchler, from Leesburg, Va., class instructor during our training days.

Louise Barnett (Mrs. Chas. Reifschneider) entertained at dinner at her home the following evening; and Bessie Lee Maston (Mrs. Harold Arnarius) entertained at breakfast at the Belvedere Hotel on Sunday June 11. Each member present told of her interests and occupation and there was much joy and merriment in sharing their present interests. We all are proud of the record of our classmates and their contribution to their profession. We are proud of Clara McGovern for pursuing her studies and receiving a B.S. degree from the University of Maryland at College Park on June 10. Emily Biddlecomb is Assistant Director of Nursing at Union Memorial Hospital and Ruth Clements is Director of Nursing Education at Women's Hospital. Each member of the class has made a worthy contribution to our own way of life and contributed to the advancement of nursing by engaging in some phase of nursing such as Public Health, Industrial, Hospital Staff and Nursing Education and Private Duty. Last but not least the Art of being homemaker and Mother.

On October 8 the class motored to Leesburg, Va. and were entertained at dinner by Miss Beuchler at her charming Colonial home. This has been an annual treat to which we all look forward and enjoy.

We are looking forward to another reunion in five more years and the changes that will take place in that time will be as eagerly discussed as the ones in the past.

OUR CLASS REUNION — 1930

Our class, though not numerically well represented at our 20th anniversary in June, 1950, can at least happily remember the occasion. Those present were Mrs. Dora Baker Dunn, Miss Bernice Brittain, Miss Mabel Bulman, Mrs. Eva Laigneil Bankert, and Miss Ruth C. Frothingham. We had greetings and regrets from Mrs. Helen Walsh Thompson, Mrs. Elizabeth Trice Hart, and Mrs. Gladys Adkins Eaton, as well as from our class sponsor, Mrs. Alice Bennett Varney whom we had invited to be with us.

We had a pleasant time chatting and reminiscing, and parted on Saturday, after lunch at Miller's, with the promise to make every effort to keep in touch with each other and certainly to attend the next reunion.

REUNION OF THE CLASS OF 1940

Edna Nester Gareis

On June 9, 1950 the Class of 1940 held its 10th reunion at the Emerson Hotel. A good time was had by all. There were twelve girls present for this gala affair which began at the banquet given for the graduating class of 1950.

Here, the members of 1940 were distinguished by having one of its members, Miss Virginia Conley, as being President of the Nurses' Alumnae Association, and we were justly proud.

At the dance following the banquet we held a table ringside and enjoyed ourselves immensely. Those present were:
Mr. and Mrs. Paul Beach (Albright)
Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kyne (Bussard)
Miss Virginia Conley
Mr. and Mrs. William Stumf (Duffee)
Mr. and Mrs. Donald Kimlin (Gardner)
Dr. and Mrs. Calvin Gareis (Nester)
Capt. and Mrs. Elmer Graves (Provance)
Mr. and Mrs. James Snyder (Rothhaupt)
Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Noell (Sinnott)
Miss Estelle Thompson
Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schnitker (Woerner)
We received many grand letters from some of the members who could not attend.

Mrs. Walter Larsen (Sherwood) who had just become a mother of a baby girl
Mrs. Robert Kalbaugh (Vivod) who sent her regrets and best wishes
Mrs. Patsy Perry (Broadnax) who was about to be married
Mrs. Dorcas Ballew (Ward) who lives in Arizona
Mrs. Grace Miller (Pember) who sent her good wishes
Mrs. George Nehls (Teeple) who lives in Minneapolis
Mrs. William Fisher (Scarff) who had just become a mother
Miss Elizabeth Granofsky who sent her regrets from California
Mrs. Alvin Uhlfelder (MacIntosh) who was vacationing in North Carolina.

Last on the program was an informal Buffet Supper held at the home of Miss Virginia Conley. We had two more members attending, Mrs. Edward Jerome (Akers) and Mrs. Robert Little (Starford).

We sincerely hope at our next reunion we can have all our classmates present, as we truly missed the girls who could not attend.

REUNION OF CLASS 1945

By Rebecca Lillard

With interest and anticipation 24 members of the class of 1945 returned for their first reunion to the Emerson Hotel June 9. After the initial greetings, we were the same gang who spent three memorable years together. Although the evening passed too quickly we managed to exchange many interesting tales of what each had been doing since graduation. The majority are now wives and mothers and thus carrying on new responsibilities to their families and communities.
The excellent jobs being done by each whether it be in the home or hospital are a tribute to the training we experienced together.

Many traveled great distances for this one evening and we especially commend them for their spirit and loyalty.

Helen Bodiford Hobbs came from Pensacola, Fla., Vivian McIlvaine Brannan from Atlanta, Ga., V. V. Paradis from Albany, New York, Helen Mac White Murray from Hertford, North Carolina, Mary Kirk Randolph from Clarksburg, W. Va., and Anna Wright Macek from Manchester, N. H.

In answer to "reminder" notes many interesting letters were received. Doris Wahle Taylor and Pauline Snyder Gregg were in Iowa. Henrietta Benton Williams in Texas, Virginia Burbage Keister in Pa., Barbara Ardis in Mass. and Mary Graves Walkup in North Carolina. All sent regrets and best wishes, for a gala evening. Many plan on being with us in future years.

THE NIGHTINGALE CAP

By Virginia Carolyn Conley, Class 1940
President of the Nurses' Alumnae Association

No doubt, at some time or other many persons have wondered why nurses wear caps. The size of the cap and the fashion of wearing it would certainly indicate that they were not meant to serve any utilitarian purpose. The answer lies in the deep shadows of the past, as no one has ever discovered the true origin of the nurse's cap.

It has been suggested that the cap originated in the habit worn by the Sisters of Charity of St. Vincent de Paul who established the first modern school of nursing in Paris in 1864. Florence Nightingale frequently visited the hospitals conducted by the sisters before she began to study nursing.

Another opinion is that the influence was exerted by the stiff white caps worn by the women who trained as nurses at the Institute of Protestant Deaconesses, which was founded by Pastor Theodore Fleidner at Kaiserwerth in Germany in 1836. Florence Nightingale took a course of training there.

But, every lady in Florence Nightingale's day wore a cap indoors. This, probably, is the real reason why we as nurses wear caps today.

The cap of the University of Maryland School of Nursing carries with it a colorful history which every graduate of the school is proud to relate. Our school was founded in 1889 by Miss Louisa Parsons, who was a student of Florence Nightingale at St. Thomas' Hospital in London, England. She was an outstanding nurse having been twice decorated by Queen Victoria for nursing service in the British campaigns. When Miss Parsons was preparing to come to this country, Miss Nightingale gave her a pattern of a cap and some point d'esprit lace; and the privilege of bestowing it upon the nurses of the first school of nursing of which she was to become its Superintendent of Nurses. By that fortunate privilege, the University of Maryland School of Nursing inherited the Nightingale cap.

During Miss Parsons' administration this cap was worn by both students and graduates. Each nurse was required to make, launder and flute her own cap. In 1900 Mrs. Kathryn Taylor became Superintendent of Nurses, and she, considering the long hours and arduous work the nurses were required to do, designed a simpler and less elaborate cap for the student nurses.
Although not entirely similar, the Nightingale cap was patterned after the cap of St. Thomas' Hospital, and the point d'esprit lace is still procured from England. There have been little changes made in the pattern; however the style of wearing has been altered, no doubt due to the changes in the hair styles. The first caps were worn two inches from the hairline of the forehead, but at the present time they are worn further back upon the head. The caps are made with the crown and the double rows of fluting threaded to adjust to the individual head.

Today four graduates of the school undertake to make, launder and flute the caps for the other nurses. The graduates of the University of Maryland School of Nursing respect and honor the tradition of their beautiful and unique, fluted point d'esprit cap.

UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND
SCHOOL OF NURSING LIBRARY

Annual Report 1949-50

To the Director of the School of Nursing
University of Maryland

Miss Gipe:

Herewith is presented a report on the School of Nursing Library for the period from July 1, 1949 through June 30, 1950.

There was no change of personnel during the year. The library was fortunate in having Mrs. Simone C. Hurst continue as librarian in charge, with Miss Edith Mutch as assistant in the evening. With two staff members it is possible to maintain the hours of 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., Monday through Friday.

The library and the librarian continued membership in the Maryland Library Association, the Medical Library Association, Special Libraries Association, and the American Library Association. Mrs. Hurst again served on the Survey Committee of the Medical Library Association which reported at the annual meeting in Boston. The Director of the School of Nursing, in the interests of the library, sent Mrs. Hurst to this meeting in Boston where she attended the general sessions and represented her library at the divisional meeting of hospital and nursing school libraries.

During the year, 254 bound volumes were added, bringing the total library collection to 2040. Of this number 1607 volumes are in the scientific collection, 433 in the recreational. Subscriptions to the New York Times and to five more scientific journals were valuable additions. Circulation of books increased again over the preceding year to a gratifying extent, with an impressive total circulation figure of 5072.

The Women's Board of the University Hospital again kindly renewed subscriptions to a number of recreational journals and added a new one. Alumnae, faculty, and other friends gave most of the recreational books that were added to the library, over a hundred volumes. For this interest and generosity, the library is grateful.

Some equipment to improve the library was purchased in the spring. A magazine rack for displaying current scientific journals added to the convenience of library users, besides releasing a needed table for study purposes. A light aluminum ladder replaced a cumbersome wooden one, thus facilitating placing of material on high shelves.
Mrs. Hurst gave instruction to a new class of students, teaching them the use of the library and bibliographic methods; such training is of lasting value to student nurses. She also provided answers to nearly one hundred reference questions involving searching of material.

As medical librarian in supervisory relationship to the School of Nursing Library, I wish to express my appreciation to the faculty and alumnae for their interest in the library; to the library staff for their loyal and efficient service; to the Director of Libraries for his counsel; and to Miss Gipe, Director of the School of Nursing, for her never-failing understanding, support, and forward-looking attitude.

Respectfully submitted,

Ida Marian Robinson (signed)
Librarian

Compliments of a Friend

The Nurses' Alumnae Association purchased a supply of Wedgewood plates with a print of our Medical School. These were sold for $2.50 per plate. The demand was so great, that we have ordered two more gross—one a print of the Medical School, the other a print of the new University Hospital (since so many wanted a pair). Anyone interested in purchasing one, or both scenes, please contact Mrs. Bessie Lee Arnurius, University Hospital, Baltimore 1, Md., c/o B.&O. Office.

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE NURSES’ ALUMNAE ASSOCIATION

I wish to take this opportunity to thank each and every member of the Nurses’ Alumnae Association for her loyalty and support to me during my first year as your president. It has been an honor and a privilege to serve you.

The following is a brief resumé of a few of our accomplishments during the year.

Your Alumnae sent 3 boxes of books and magazines to the boys overseas as well as influencing a few people outside of the association to send subscriptions of paper back magazines such as Time and the Reader’s Digest to the hospitals.

The change in the policy of the Scholarship and Loan Fund has made it possible for more nurses to further their education.

A picture was presented to the Alumnae by Mrs. Jessie Reifsneider of her sister Mrs. Emma Mergardt Stow, Class 1894, for the Alumnae Room. The picture was taken on one of the wards of the old hospital.

Mrs. William L. Hampshire, President of the Nurses’ Alumnae Association, Section 37 of the Needlework Guild of America, was given 79 garments and a check for $2.00 by the members of the Alumnae Association. The number of articles necessary to keep our membership in the Guild is 272. I hope everyone will consider it a responsibility of hers to donate two articles to this needy cause next year so we can maintain our membership.

Thank you again for your support.

Flora M. Streett,
President, Nurses’ Alumnae Association.
FLORA M. STREETT—1938

Our President, Flora M. Streett, brings to the Nurses' Alumnae Association an executive ability developed largely during four years' overseas service with the Army Nurse Corps.

Following graduation from our school she did general staff nursing at the University Hospital until 1942, when she was commissioned a Second Lieutenant in the U. S. Army General Hospital No. 42, one of the two hospitals sent to the Pacific area from the University of Maryland. Her travels took her from San Francisco to Australia, where she saw Melbourne, Canberra and Brisbane, where General Hospital No. 42 operated. "Canberra, the capital of Australia, is a beautiful city," Miss Streett recalls. "It reminded me greatly of the beauty of our own capital city, Washington." After three years in Australia she returned on leave and early in 1946 was discharged with the rank of Captain, Army Nurse Corps.

Since leaving the Army Miss Streett has been identified with the Obstetrical Department of the University Hospital, first in the Delivery Room and for the past five years as Supervisor on the Obstetrical Floor.
BARBARA STOUFFER—1911

By Mary Klevisher

Miss Barbara Stouffer was born on September 17, 1892 in Washington County, Md. She received her elementary and high school education in the public schools and later studied at Teachers College, Johns Hopkins University.

In 1908 Miss Stouffer entered the School of Nursing of the University of Maryland and was graduated in 1911. She remained in Baltimore and engaged in private duty nursing for a short time. Later she accepted a position in Public Health Nursing in the Tuberculosis Division of the Baltimore City Health Department. In 1914, she accepted a position with the Social Service Department of Johns Hopkins Hospital.

In 1917, the United States entered World War I and Miss Stouffer was called by the American Red Cross for duty with the U. S. Base Hospital No. 5 (Harvard Unit) and sailed for England on May 11, 1917. On May 21, 1917 she landed in Falmouth, England. Miss Stouffer spent a week in London. On May 30 she sailed for France, landing in Boulogne. She was transferred by Char-a-bancs to Dannes-Camiers, U. S. Base Hospital No. 5 which became No. 11 General Hospital, attached to the British Expeditionary Forces. On September 4, 1917, the hospital had the first American casualties of World War I which resulted after a German air raid.

On November, 1917, the Base Hospital was transferred to Boulogne-sur-Mer and it became No. 13 General Hospital—British Expeditionary Forces. These were trying days for Miss Stouffer. The operations in Flanders filled the base hospital with wounded. One good example was on August 1, 1918 when nine-hundred and sixty-four wounded men were admitted in twenty-four hours. Nocturnal bombing raids made all the work more difficult. The chief surgeon in this unit was Dr. Harvey Cushing from Boston. Dr. Robert Patterson, past superintendent of the University Hospital was the commander. Queen Mary and King George V visited the wounded in the hospital.

Miss Stouffer received her army discharge in February, 1919 in Paris and joined the American Red Cross Commission to Poland. Her work was primarily taking care of the Polish refugees returning from Russia in the rural districts of Ukrania.

In September, 1919, she returned to the United States and in 1921 took a position on the social service staff, American Red Cross at Fort McHenry Veterans Hospital.
In 1920, Miss Stouffer received the Royal Red Cross from the British Government. This British decoration for nurses was presented to her by the Prince of Wales at the British Embassy in Washington for her outstanding work.

The Fort McHenry Veterans Hospital was closed in 1923 and Miss Stouffer returned to the Social Service Department, Johns Hopkins Hospital and was later transferred to the admitting office, Out Patient Department.
"GET OUT AND DIG!"

By Ethel Monroe Troy, Class 1917

Visitors to the home of Doctor and Mrs. William A. Bridges at the Eudowood Sanatorium in Towson are enchanted by the springtime march of daffodils through the woodland beyond their garden. These thousands of blooms have been set out by Mrs. Bridges, a garden enthusiast if ever there was one.

Known to the alumnae of the School of Nursing originally as Serena Selfe, R.N. '16, in 1918 she was married to Doctor Bridges, who has been Director of Eudowood since 1919. Her early nursing was at Willard Parker Hospital, New York, and at the Thomas Wilson Sanatorium, in Public Health nursing in West Virginia, and as Assistant Director of the Bureau of Nursing of the Baltimore City Health Department.

Through the years, however, Serena Bridges' chief and continuing interest has been growing plant material. Many demands are made on her time and her knowledge of gardening subjects, resulting in organization work throughout the United States and Canada, in lectures, papers, demonstrations and the many other activities gardening leads to.

She is a member of the Garden Clubs of America, her local affiliation being the Halten Garden Club, in which she has held every office. She has twice been elected first vice-president of the Federated Garden Clubs of Maryland.

In her recently completed two-year term as Chairman of Flower Show Schools for the National Council of State Garden Clubs, Inc., Mrs. Bridges traveled more than 50,000 miles and visited 44 states. "The Flower Show Schools," Mrs. Bridges tells us, "are the great educational enterprise of the garden clubs. Not only are proper methods of handling of plant material for growth demonstrated, but also the most successful plans for flower shows and exhibitions are taught, with one great goal—the appeal to and instruction of the general public." Maryland's schools have been signally developed under Serena's direction for the past ten years.

One cannot be around this "green thumb" lady long without gleaning many unusual items of interest to even the most casual gardener, even one whose "garden" may be only of pocket-handkerchief size. It was rather interesting, for instance, to learn that the first book of "Points and Rules for Flower Shows" was one published by the Federated Garden Clubs of Maryland in 1932, the income from the sale of which helps maintain the Hammond-Harwood House in Annapolis. Mrs. Bridges assisted with the original book and with its later revision.

A qualified teacher in Flower Show Schools, a nationally accredited amateur judge, considered an expert in many fields of horticulture, the “Eudowood Garden Lady” judged 150 shows last year while directing the Flower Show Schools throughout the nation.

Mrs. Bridges is properly proud of her numerous certificates and medals. She has the Outdoor Life medal for The Woodland Trail, a conservation picture and she staged the Williamsburg garden in the new Baltimore Federal Savings Bank in Baltimore for its opening in December, 1950.

Canada has called upon her to help organize a garden club in the Province of Ontario.

It is of particular interest to the large group of people who are helping recruit students for our Schools of Nursing to see how, no matter how far afield from nursing one’s hobbies may lead, inevitably the paths finally merge. For many years, Serena Bridges gave volunteer service to the Allergy Clinic of the University Hospital Dispensary and served as botanist for that department. She was active with the Red Cross during World War II and as a volunteer for the Ration Board “dished out sugar for canning by the tons,” she says.

It is not surprising to find this versatile person lecturing at the Rural Women’s Short Course at the University of Maryland.

Serena says, “I have grown plant material from my childhood and would rather grow a plant than eat!” Her enthusiasm has persuaded many others to “get out and dig!”

Editor’s Note: Dr. Bridges resigned as Superintendent of Eudowood Hospital on July 15, 1951, Dr. and Mrs. Bridges are now living in a new home at OTHORIDGE, Towson 4, Md.
OUR DEGREE PROGRAM—WHAT SHALL WE DO WITH IT?

By Florence M. Gipe,
Director, Division of Nursing, University of Maryland

In 1925 the official Publication of the University of Maryland made the following announcement:

In addition to the regular three-year course of training the University offers a combined Academic and Nursing Program leading to the degree of Bachelor of Science and a diploma in Nursing.

The first two years of the course (or pre-hospital period), consisting of 70 semester hours, are spent in the College of Arts and Sciences of the University, during which period the student has an introduction to the general cultural subjects which are considered fundamental in any college training. At least the first of these two years must be spent in residence at College Park in order that the student may have her share in the social and cultural activities of college life. The last three years are spent in the School of Nursing in Baltimore.

While there are still some nursing educators who doubt the validity of a degree program in basic nursing in the University of Maryland, or in fact, any University, it must be remembered that the program at Maryland was a product of its time and from the beginning was encouraged by the nurses. As early as 1931 the National League of Nursing Education reported enthusiastically sixty-seven schools of nursing in the United States with some kind of college or university connection, twelve of these being affiliated with Junior Colleges. It was evident from the report that even if the last group were omitted many of the remaining fifty-five could not be considered as true University Schools since the relationship was, in many cases, very slight. Some of these nursing schools did not enter in any real way into the corporate life of the University. Many of them did not give any evidence that they recognized and applied the fundamental standards of higher education. In 1931 the late Dr. Richard Olding Beard, who helped to launch the first University School of Nursing, The University of Minnesota in 1909, had this to say:

There is one thing essential in such a union. It should be educationally complete. The university or college should assume the ownership and control of the school, whether it owns or does not own the hospital which serves as the laboratory of the school. It must determine and direct the educational policy of the school. It must guarantee the fitness of its graduates and the degree or diploma is the best public seal it can set upon their work. That loose order of affiliation which sometimes obtains, under which the university lends its name and reserves its responsibility for the school of nursing is a mischievous mistake. It is a mere pretense of university relationship which is not worth while.

From the viewpoint of a critical observer it may safely be said that the University of Maryland did not, until recently, assume the ownership nor the control of the School of Nursing. Unfortunately, this had been placed under the direction of a service agency—the hospital which serves as a teaching laboratory for its medical school.

One strong feature of the degree program of the University of Maryland was and is the fact that sixty-eight to seventy semester hour credits in the College of Arts and Sciences are required for the degree and only those student nurses affiliated with University or Mercy Hospitals are considered as graduates of the University proper. When University or College nursing schools were studied several years ago it was found that a comparative low percent had an arrangement of this type which by the National League of Nursing Education was considered to be very desirable.

But in spite of the negative side of the college program at the University of Maryland, the number of graduates receiving degrees has increased. From five in 1934 to fifteen in 1948 or a grand total of one hundred and fifty-one, the school seemed to be meeting a definite need all along and the graduates of the degree program are admitted to practically any program of graduate study in Nursing Education in the United States. From other institutions and health agencies come many requests for our graduates holding college degrees. Many of them have accepted and carried positions as executives and teachers with a high degree of success. The call has been and still is "more and more nurses with college degrees" for Public Health and for executive positions in hospitals and teachers in schools of nursing.

Even though the demand is greater, recent statistics throughout the United States have shown that the so-called five year college and calendar year degree program is being eliminated in favor of a four year degree program. This is because young women are not willing to spend five years in basic nursing preparation and because the National League of Nursing Education, through national studies, is advocating a four year program and has widely publicized the four year program under University control. Out of the total number of Nursing School applications received at the University of Maryland last year (1950-1951) fifty percent requested the four year degree course.

In view of the changed conditions the President of the University of Maryland appointed a special committee to study the situation. The members of the committee are:

DR. LEON P. SMITH, College of Arts and Sciences.

DR. CHARLES SYLVESTER, Assistant Superintendent, Baltimore City Schools.

DR. GLADYS WIGGIN, Professor, Education, College of Education, University of Maryland.

MISS VIRGINIA CONLEY, University of Maryland, School of Nursing Alumnae Association.

MISS FLORENCE M. GIBE, Director, School of Nursing.

MISS FRANCES ORGAIN, Representing the Faculty of the School of Nursing.

On September 10, 1951, this committee visited the headquarters of the National League of Nursing Education in New York. In a conference with Dr. Helen Nahm, who ably defended the four year program leading to a B.S. degree in Nursing, it was learned that there are currently some one hundred thousand students enrolled in nursing schools, and of this number, only nine thousand are in collegiate programs. To meet present needs one third of the students, or approximately thirty-three thousand, ought to be working in degree programs, according to League officials. This estimate does not take into account the fact that in future years if health needs of the nation are to be adequately met there will have to be increasing numbers of collegiate graduates.

And so it would seem that the School of Nursing of the State University in the future, as in the past, must plan to meet the needs of its citizens. In the end the chief aim of any University is to train youth in the habit and practice of thinking. This particular thinking in nursing must be scientifically organized so that the end result "of doing" will be safe and efficient as well as practical.
KATHERINE VERONICA SHEA—1913

Miss Katherine V. Shea, R.N., superintendent of the North Adams Hospital, has been made a fellow of the American College of Hospital Administrators. She received the formal honor at a convocation held at St. Louis on September 16, 1950.

The advancement was not conferred lightly. It was awarded on the basis of three case histories submitted by Miss Shea. Compiled in what time she could spare from her hospital duties, those reports represent a vast amount of work. They were read and accepted by the committee on fellowships.

The titles of the case histories are: "Reorganization and Reactivation of a Hospital," based on her work at the local hospital; "Selection of Cases to be Admitted to a General Hospital which is Understaffed and which has Inadequate Bed Facilities to Accommodate the Demand for Service"; ("You see, I'm plugging for a new hospital"); and "Integration of Women's Auxiliaries and Hospital Activities."

Most of Miss Shea's professional life before coming to Massachusetts was spent in Baltimore and Annapolis, Md., and Indianapolis, Ind. For 10 years, she was superintendent of the Emergency Hospital at Annapolis, from 1933 to 1942. Before that, she was closely associated with two large hospitals and schools of nursing maintained by the University of Maryland and the University of Indiana. She was Supervisor of private halls University Hospital from 1913 to 1917. She was superintendent of nurses at the 566-bed University of Indiana Hospital for nine years.

Miss Shea retired from the superintendency of the Annapolis Hospital in 1942, and was called back to the University of Maryland Hospital at Baltimore, of which she is an alumna, as Assistant Superintendent of Nurses at the University Hospital from August 1, 1942 until January 1, 1944.
Miss Katherine Veronica Shea
MISS ELIZABETH AITKENHEAD

By Rita Malek

On July 31, Miss Elizabeth Aitkenhead retired as Supervisor of the Operating Room Department at the University Hospital, thus concluding nearly thirty years of service in this institution.

Although a native of Glasgow, Scotland, Miss Aitkenhead came to the United States as a young girl and began her nursing career at the Wooster City Hospital in Wooster, Ohio. After her graduation in 1910, she held several positions of official capacity in the Midwest.

On February 1, 1922, she assumed the duties of a surgical supervisor at the University Hospital; a position which has constituted her life's work. Despite many obstacles that confronted her, Miss Aitkenhead carried out her work through the years with persistent enthusiasm. She gained repute for her diligent and continual concern in the educating of young operating room nurses. Her keen judgment, sound advice, and disciplinary views have made her popular in solving many problems. She has been an inspiration to many of the nurses who carry on.

To honor Miss Aitkenhead, Miss Gipe, with Mr. Buck’s cooperation, planned a dinner in the nurses’ dining room of the hospital. This dinner was held on July 26. The Rev. Roland Renkel of the Second Lutheran Church gave a short and very appropriate talk. Dr. and Mrs. Arthur M. Shipley, Dr. George Yeager, and Dr. Gladys Sellew were among those present to add further tribute to Miss Aitkenhead. Miss Virginia Conley read many letters of remembrance from friends who were unable to attend.

Miss Aitkenhead was presented with a U. S. Defense bond in remembrance of her years of service to the hospital. We all wish for Miss Aitkenhead the many years of rest, health, and happiness she so well deserves.
WOMAN'S AUXILIARY BOARD PROVIDES NEW VOLUNTEER SERVICE AT UNIVERSITY HOSPITAL

In October, the Woman’s Auxiliary Board opened an Information Desk at the University Hospital in Baltimore. Enthusiastically acclaimed by hospital personnel and visitors alike, this new service entirely eliminates the former procedure of disseminating information at the switchboard.

In a sense, the inaugural of the Information Desk is a fitting climax to a long list of notable achievements by the Woman’s Board. Organized in 1891 by a small group who recognized the urgent need for volunteer work at the hospital, this unique organization has steadily amplified its activities, until today, its 142 members spend more than 1000 hours each month at the University Hospital.

The identities of those few who pioneered the Woman’s Auxiliary Board of the University Hospital have been lost through the years. But it is reasonable to assume, that like its present-day counterparts, this small group was not interested in individual glory and preferred to remain anonymous. Accomplishment and the personal satisfaction which comes from voluntary contribution are the keynotes of the organization.

In 1916, at the beginning of World War I, the University Hospital was affected by personnel shortages. Through efforts of the Woman's Auxiliary Board, Red Cross Aides were established in the Children's Department. Thus began the first trained and organized group of volunteers. With the growth of the hospital, new demands were made for voluntary personnel and the Woman’s Board answered the call by sponsoring such projects as: volunteers in the clinics, the Patients' Library, the Gift Shop and in two cafeterias for the benefit of medical students and clinical patients.

By action of the Board in February, 1951, a standing committee was established, thus bringing all volunteer projects into one organization. This group is known as the Volunteer Service Committee. Its chief function is to recruit, place, train and supervise Volunteer Aides who work with the professional groups in the hospital. The aides do not replace paid workers, but provide services to patients and visitors which the hospital is unable to furnish.

Established in 1919, the Patients’ Library was one of the Woman’s Auxiliary Board’s earliest volunteer projects. Since that time it has brought literally thousands of books and magazines to the patients of the hospital. Particularly popular is the book cart which is brought each day by a cheerful aide to the patients' rooms. It is felt that this service is extremely important in keeping the patients happy and in helping them regain health. The aides in the Patients' Library are cheerful and kind and thoroughly enjoy visiting people.

The Woman's Auxiliary Board sponsors two cafeterias; one in the Gray Laboratory Building for use of medical students, and the second in the Out Patient Department for clinic patients. Both are service projects and are not maintained for fund-raising purposes. Prices are scaled to cover cost of operation.

The Medical School Cafeteria is staffed by one paid worker; the Out Patient Department Cafeteria, by one paid worker and two volunteers daily. Approximately four hundred and sixty-five (465) people are served every working day by these two projects.

The Gift Shop at the University Hospital was founded by the Woman's Auxiliary Board for the convenience and pleasure of the hospital staff, personnel, patients and their friends. Through the years it has grown to be a well-paying project and has contributed financially to the Woman’s Board in amounts that have greatly aided in the services given to the hospital’s free patients.

The management of the Gift Shop is under the direction of a committee appointed by the Woman's Board. It is staffed with two full-time employees and one part time employee, assisted by volunteer workers.

The Out Patient Department of the University Hospital is dedicated to caring for the sick, teaching doctors and nurses, and carrying on medical research. This department has expanded its facilities to where it has progressed from a single small "Dispensary" for the treatment of children only, to a center where nearly all clinical specialties of modern medicine have been made available. The Volunteer Aides of the Woman’s Board contribute many hours in helping this department operate efficiently and effectively.

Volunteer service is now recognized as an essential function in the up-to-date hospital. To augment the activities already underway, University Hospital plans to develop additional volunteer services, all designed to improve the quality of patient service. This goal can be reached, of course, only with the growth of Volunteer Aide membership.

From an unpretentious beginning over sixty years ago, the Woman's Auxiliary Board has become an integral and important part in the daily operation of the University Hospital. Its volunteers give their time and efforts unselfishly, and without any thought of material gain. It is sufficient to say that wherever the need occurs the members of the Woman's Auxiliary Board can be counted on to render what they feel is a duty and service to humankind.
GUIDANCE AND COUNSELING AT THE SCHOOL OF NURSING, UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND

By Elizabeth Singleton, Counselor

Jane Jordan, an attractive and charming girl, entered the School of Nursing in September. She was enthusiastic about the new experiences which were before her. Jane had come from a small suburban community in upper New York State. She chose the University of Maryland because of the enthusiasm of an alumna who told her about the school and because the school was controlled by the University.

During orientation week, the Counseling Service was explained to the students. Each new student was interviewed by the counselor during the first month the student was in school. Jane came in for her initial interview shortly after arriving at school. In the excitement of those first few weeks, she felt that she was making a satisfactory adjustment to her new life.

Although Jane had very high mental ability, her academic work during the first part of her pre-clinical period was below average. She began to miss classes in an effort to devote more time to her studies.

As Jane became more aware of the academic demands of her program, she realized that her work was not satisfactory. Because of this she began to withdraw from school activities and finally came in to talk with the counselor concerning her decision.

Jane appeared fatigued and worried when she came to the counselor's office. She was at first ill at ease and stated that she did not know just why she had come to see the counselor. With help, Jane told of her repeated poor grades, her absences from class, and her loss of appetite. Jane stated that she studied many, many hours, usually until midnight, and was too tired the next day to concentrate on her studies or to eat her meals.

An investigation of Jane's study habits revealed that she was spending much time at her desk but little time absorbing and assimilating factual material. There were many interruptions for a "Coke," or a letter home, or the "mystery show that comes on at eight thirty."

Jane was helped to recognize her problem and to plan a program of study which was effective for her.

Jane Jordan is a fictitious character who presents one of the problems with which a student nurse may be faced—a problem which can be corrected or improved through an effective Guidance and Counseling Service.
Several years ago a Department of Guidance was added to the University of Maryland School of Nursing to meet the needs of student nurses.

The reasons for a Counseling Service in a school of nursing are many. As the curriculum in the school becomes more complex, greater demands are placed upon the student nurse. For many students the personal problem solving of education is difficult and disturbing. Poor study habits often become apparent and some disabilities, such as reading problems, may be revealed which require guidance in order that the problem may be overcome.

Other duties of the counselor take her into many areas. As a member of the committee on admissions, the counselor assists in the selection of students who apply to the school. She helps to plan orientation programs which assist the student in making a satisfactory adjustment to her new life and environment. As the yearly enrollment in the school increases, the classes become larger and the student becomes conscious of the need for a person to whom she can turn for help and guidance. For education of the student to be most meaningful the whole individual must be prepared for the responsibility of leadership expected of graduates of Professional Schools of Nursing. The Department of Guidance is responsible for a cooperative working relationship between the School of Nursing and the Department of Nursing Service so that there exists a close correlation between the student's academic achievement and her clinical experience. An important function of the Guidance Department is to assist in the placement of the new graduate and of the student who resigns from the school before completing her course. Through proper guidance and placement, we recognize the foundation of a more satisfactory employer-employee relationship.

The benefits of Counseling Service reach many individuals—the student nurse, the patient, the family of the student, the faculty, and ultimately the employer of the graduate nurse who has graduated from a school in which she made a satisfactory social—personal—academic adjustment, and is ready to serve her fellow man with the effective tools with which she became equipped in the University of Maryland School of Nursing.
NURSING IN A U. S. PUBLIC HEALTH SERVICE HOSPITAL

By Margaret T. DeLawter, Nurse Officer
Director of Nursing

A distinctive feature of the Seattle skyline is our hospital. Rising to sixteen stories, towered on a hilltop, this building commands a fine view of the bay, lakes, and the city. On a clear day the surrounding scenery is awe-inspiring! There is the enterprising metropolis, with its waterfront activity, and in the distance can be seen the snow-covered ridge of the Olympic and Cascade ranges. Ninety miles away, in majestic grandeur, stands that looming snowy cone of Mt. Rainier, the third highest peak in the United States. In this “Queen City of the Northwest,” one does not permit a day to pass without looking to see if the mountain is “out” or still there.

The United States Public Health Service Hospital in Seattle is one of twenty-three operated by the Service. They are located along the coasts, beside great waterways, and at certain inland points. The origin of these institutions began one hundred and fifty-three years ago, and in the early days care was provided for sick and disabled seamen. Today these hospitals minister to American seamen, foreign seamen, veterans, Coast Guard officers and enlisted men, and other beneficiaries assigned to the Service by Congress. They are staffed by civil service nurses and reserve and regular commissioned nurses.

Nursing in the Public Health Service hospitals is inviting and offers full and challenging careers. The variety of patients enables the nurse to have a broadening experience and an interesting assignment. The nurse has the opportunity to understand health problems, and to see, know, and care for patients as individuals. In providing nursing care, she also contributes her share, as a member of a team, to the teaching of healthful living. In addition to that, the nurse so frequently finds herself in a position where she has the chance to bring peoples of the world closer together in harmony. Nursing in this Service is self-satisfying and very attractive to the nurse who desires to enlarge her own experience and to contribute, as a member of a team, to the improvement of health and disease prevention.
CIVIL DEFENSE NURSING

By LaRue Schwallenberg
Clinical Instructor

A course in Civil Defense Nursing for all nurses, graduates and students, has been started by the School of Nursing. In response to the felt need to prepare nurses for their role in disaster nursing, early this fall Dean Florence M. Gipe appointed a committee to plan such a course.

Dr. E. R. Shipley as the chairman of the committee and members of a medical committee planned lectures on various aspects of disaster medical problems with emphasis upon atomic, bacteriological, and chemical warfare. The Nursing Committee approved of an experimental course of twelve hours to be composed of medical and nursing lectures to be supplemented by films. The trial course was completed the first week in November. Approximately one hundred and ten nurses attended each session. There was representation from hospitals in our area such as South Baltimore, Lutheran, Maryland General and Provident. Data collected from a questionnaire at the end of the course reveal a feeling of interest and an expression of value in such an experience by those attending.

The material will be repeated several times to enable all nurses at University Hospital, regardless of place or time of duty, to attend the classes. Each nurse, staff or private duty, graduate or student, should feel it her responsibility as a professional person and as a citizen to avail herself of this opportunity to obtain the information prepared and given by the physicians, nurses, and others participating in the program.
LIBRARY, SCHOOL OF NURSING
UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND

By Simone C. Hurst

A Progress Report

The University of Maryland, School of Nursing Library has almost completed five years of service to the School. Since its beginning with a nucleus of approximately seven hundred scientific volumes, it has expanded to a collection of eighteen hundred volumes covering all fields of interest of the nursing profession.

A number of journals are received regularly in the Library to provide current information; these journals cover many subjects and are an indispensable part of library service.

Through the kind generosity of the Alumnae and friends the Library now has a fine collection of fiction and popular magazines for recreational reading. Best-sellers are eagerly awaited and widely read.

Statistics on the use of the Library show that over thirty-one hundred scientific books were circulated during the past year; a great number of books used in the Library are not included in this number. Seven hundred volumes of fiction were circulated during this same period.

Library hours have been extended to provide maximum service to students and faculty. The Library now has Saturday hours from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. In consideration of those who must study during evening hours the Library is now open from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

The aim of the Library has been to render good library service to the School; in this direction it plans for the future.
THE OUT PATIENT DEPARTMENT CONTRIBUTES TO NURSING EDUCATION

Frances Orgain, Associate Director
School of Nursing

The knowledge in preventive medicine as well as control of diseases brings a new emphasis on the use of the Out Patient Department in Nursing Education. It is one experience offering contact with ambulatory patients. A nurse who knows scientific nursing care of the sick has only part of her education. Every nurse must be equipped to take her part on the team which has the responsibility of keeping well people well and getting the sick well so that each citizen may produce maximum labor that will in turn make possible a community we can enjoy and love to live in.

The Out Patient Department of University Hospital is operated as an integral part of the hospital. It occupies the old hospital building located on Lombard and Greene Streets. The stained glass windows and marble stairs are memories for many physicians and nurses who obtained their clinical experience in the old University Hospital. For the patients it serves as a substitute for a family physician when it is not possible to afford his services. For many years it has introduced medical students to their first experience in medical care of patients. Recently the department has offered student nurses experience in clinic service. Though the building and services have been in operation for many years the recent accomplishments in medicine and preventive medicine have brought the necessity of intensifying experience with the ambulatory patient in the nursing education curriculum.

The plan of the nursing education is not in full operation, however, but there is a plan and a hope that the total program can become reality in the near future.

To the beginning nurse it is an opportunity to observe people from a variety of economic and social levels. To many it is the first insight into "how the other half lives." Under the guidance of the nursing arts instructor she observes and practices her first nursing procedures. Conferences with selected patients offer the opportunity for teaching individuals the scientific knowledges essential for conservation and promotion of health. It is the time for full realization for the necessity of social agencies and their cooperative efforts in making possible a community program that will serve the needs of its citizens. The Social Service Department gives guidance and assistance in introducing the student to the basic principles of social work and the cooperative working relationship of the social worker and nurse in order to make possible good care for many patients. The nursing arts instructor is responsible for planning with the nursing service the desired experiences for the students. The supervisor and clinical instructor assist by selecting the situation in the Out Patient Department that will give the student the best type of experience. The supervision of the student experience is done by the supervisors and clinical instructors under the direction of the nursing arts instructor. The experience with patients from the community gives reason for knowing the city and the opportunities that it offers its citizens. These experiences will be offered the students as an integral part of the course, "Introduction to Nursing," given to the nursing students during their first year at the hospital. Thus the beginning student obtains actual insight and experience in the community organization and plan for promotion of health, prevention of disease, and planned care of the sick.

The clinical experience in the School of Nursing is given on the unit block plan. Students are assigned to a service and under the direction of the clinical instructor are taught the content of the course in the classroom, at the bedside, on field trips, in the Out Patient Department or wherever the chosen method of teaching can be made the most meaningful to the student. For many years the student nurse has given the major portion of nursing service in the hospital. It has not been possible to plan the time of the student in terms of education for too much of the time she has been needed for care of the patient in the hospital. The recent separation of the School of Nursing into an independent school with a Dean of the School of Nursing responsible for the education of the nursing students as individuals and citizens has given light on possibilities of making nursing education take precedence over nursing service. The School of Nursing must pass on to its students knowledge of nursing accumulated through the years of service and effort; it must prepare them to nurse the sick and the well; it must give them an introduction to methods of meeting the usual situations in nursing practice; it must develop in each student the capacity to enrich her professional heritage. Thus, the clinical instructors in the areas of work have the responsibility of so planning and selecting student experience so that each is an integral part of the educational program. Students will produce nursing service for it is impossible to separate nursing education and nursing service; however, educational opportunities for the students can become the prime objective. The Out Patient Department clinics offer the opportunity for seeing disease conditions of people in their early as well as late stages, the methods used to prevent some diseases, and the treatment of conditions that are not hospitalized. In planning the total work in the clinical experience the clinical instructor plans with the nursing service in the Out Patient Department the desired observation and nursing practice for each student. In pediatrics each student participates in the Well Baby, Seizure, Cardiac, Sick Baby, Immunization, and Tuberculosis Clinics. The students in the obstetrical area come to the pre-natal clinical for actual participation in the clinic, mothers' classes, and individual teaching of pre-natal patients. The work in the medical and surgical area has not been fully developed though it is planned that each student will participate in the medical and surgical clinics including their allied clinics such as allergy, neurology, oncology, dermatology, etc. The length of service in the clinics will vary. At the present time students are spending two weeks in pediatrics, one in the pre-natal clinic and a plan is for two weeks' experience in the medical and surgical clinics. The actual time cannot really be stated as students making case studies on patients frequently return for conferences, observations, and participation in treatment of their patients.

In part, these experiences are plans, though it is fully recognized by the School of Nursing Administration and Faculty. No nurse has attained the necessary knowledge for good nursing practice in our community until she is equipped to care for her patient at home, in the community agencies, in the clinic, the industry, the school, or in the hospital. The health of citizens will be improved when each nurse makes her contribution to getting her patient well and at the same time helps that individual to know how to keep well. The Out Patient Department is one of the services that offers complementary experiences to the hospital experience. It is an opportunity to see more patients with a greater variety of diagnosis in different stages of illness and health.

Last year the Out Patient Department of University Hospital had 110,773 visits to patients in 34 clinics. In an effort to improve the quality of service a new director of the Out Patient Department was employed and an Associate Dean of the School of Nursing was assigned to direct the nursing service. Other personnel have been added to the staff. Efforts are being made to employ qualified personnel cognizant of the part the Out Patient Department does and must play in the University's educational programs for dentists, doctors, and nurses as well as the quality of service needed by the patient. As the quality of patient service is improved, the educational experience is enriched and the professional nurse graduate from the University of Maryland will have better experience to guide her in making her potential contributions to the health team and to the people of the state and world.
THE NEEDLEWORK GUILD OF AMERICA

"The Charity that helps other Charities," this phrase expresses in a few words the aim and purpose of The Needlework Guild of America, Inc.

The function of the Guild is to collect new garments, which are donated to orphanages, missions, hospitals, or any welfare agency. Two identical new garments, linen, or any amount of money will qualify YOU to be a member.

These garments are collected once a year, by local Branches at Ingatherings. At this time the garments are sorted in preparation for distribution to the various charities. The ones selected have previously sent in requests for articles according to their needs. The money, which is contributed by sustaining members, is used by the local Branches to maintain their activities during the year. Both sustaining members and members who donate garments are urgently needed. All types of clothing are gratefully accepted, but there is a greater demand for warm underwear, nightgowns, pajamas, sweaters, shoes, coats and blankets.

The Needlework Guild supplements the work of many hospitals by supplying them with the proper type of clothing for their charity patients. It assists the homes for children, the aged, and the friendless, child-welfare agencies, orphanages, and many other institutions and homes by answering their crying need for garments. Many of these organizations depend upon the Needlework Guild for the greatest portion of the clothing that they require.

The University of Maryland Nurses' Alumnae Association and the Woman's Auxiliary Board have for ten years been most interested and active in this fine work. In 1939 these two organizations formed a division in the Needlework Guild of America. This group was organized at the request of Mrs. Charles Reid Edwards, who is a member of the Nurses' Alumnae Association and also a member of the Woman's Auxiliary Board. Mrs. Edwards' request came to us direct from the Secretary of the Maryland Branch of the Needlework Guild. The Secretary explained to us that the University Hospital Social Service Department needed so much help that they were calling upon us to help them. Our Section known as Section 37 was organized under the capable leadership of Miss Mary C. Shaffer who held the office as President of the Section until 1949.

The present President of the University Hospital Branch is Mrs. Sarah Headley Hampshire, 2430 Ellamont Street, Baltimore 16, Maryland. Will you please make your donations each year to her before October 1. This is a worthy cause, and a great many of our donations are in turn given to our own hospital for its use.
PRIVATE DUTY POLICY CHANGES

By Hortense Bunting Tegler

The Private Duty nurses of the State of Maryland received an increase in fees for all types of private duty nursing on April 1, 1951.

At the annual meeting of the private duty section of the Maryland State Nurses' Association on November 7, 1950, on the advice of the Chairman of the Economic Security Board, the question was raised as to whether our fees were sufficient to maintain our economic security.

It was not until January 1951 that an executive's meeting was held to discuss the problem. The rates were decided upon and were to be presented at a meeting of the entire private duty section in January.

It was then presented to the Board of Directors of the Maryland State Nurses' Association and they recommended that the matter be presented to the group as a whole.

Due to inclement weather, only 23 were present at this January meeting, but all were in agreement that the fee should be increased to $12 for eight-hour duty instead of the $10 that the nurses were receiving at that time and that it should go into effect March 1. It was again brought before the Board of Directors and passed, the effective date, March 1.

However, when the Board of Directors met with the Hospital Conference, the superintendent of the hospitals thoroughly disagreed on the grounds that hospitalization was too expensive and declared if the nurses still insisted on asking for a 20% increase, the hospitals must charge a fee for collecting, possibly 5% or the nurses must collect their own fees. They recommended that we have another meeting for further discussion.

At the March meeting of the private duty section, sixty nurses were present representing fourteen hospitals. Only three were opposed to asking $12 for eight-hour duty—one solely because she would have to pay more income tax. Because of the overwhelming majority, it was again passed by the Board of Directors and the Hospital Conference notified that on April 11 the fees collected by the private duty nurses would be as follows:

1. $12 for 8-hour duty
2. $18 for 12-hour duty
3. $18 for 2 patients (in emergency only)
4. $25 for 20-hour duty
5. No discrimination against any type of nursing.
As of April 20, all Baltimore nurses were collecting the increased fee.

However, since Sinai, Union Memorial, and Johns Hopkins guarantee the private duty nurses' fees, immediate action was taken to charge a collection fee. A charge of 1½% is now made at these hospitals for the collection and guarantee of fees.

It was not until July that further action was taken by the University Hospital. At this time, Mr. Buck met with our group to discuss the situation here. He stated that since our pay cafeteria had been installed and we were now being paid our entire fee, he would be unable to continue collecting our fees. Since we are a state institution, the budget system made it impossible to charge for collecting, so as of August 1, 1951, the private duty section must collect its own fees unless someone else is paid to do it for them.

All agreed to collect their own fees. The plan seems to be working quite well to the satisfaction of everyone concerned.

ANNUAL BANQUET AND DANCE

By Katherine Williams, '45
Chairman, Banquet Committee

On the evening of June 8, 1951, the Ballroom of the Emerson Hotel was the scene of the Annual Banquet and Dance of the Nurses' Alumnae Association of the University of Maryland. About 175 graduates of the school were present to honor the 52 members of the 1951 graduating class.

The Reverend Roland Renkel, minister of the Second English Lutheran Church, offered the invocation. Miss Flora Streett, President of the Nurses' Alumnae Association, welcomed the members of the Alumnae. She called special attention to those alumnae members who were celebrating anniversaries, from the 5th to the 40th.

Dr. John Krantz, Professor of Pharmacology of the University of Maryland, was the guest speaker. His message was an inspiration for both old and new graduates. He stressed the need of a constant and everlasting will to work and improve, mentioning Madame Curie and Florence Nightingale as examples of women who would not give up.

Other honored guests were Miss Florence Gipe, Director of the School of Nursing; Miss Frances Orgain, Associate Director of the School of Nursing; Mrs. Eva Darley, Associate Director of Nursing Service; Mr. George Buck, Director of the University Hospital, and Mrs. Buck; Mrs. John Krantz, wife of the guest speaker; Mrs. John Whitehurst, Member of the Board of Regents of the University of Maryland; Mr. David Brigham, Executive Secretary of the University of Maryland Alumni Association, and Mrs. Brigham.

Miss Gipe presented awards to those graduates who had done outstanding work in their three years in the School of Nursing. She asked Miss Elizabeth Aitkenhead, who retired on July 30, 1951, after nearly 30 years as Supervisor of the Operating Room, to present the Operating Room Awards.

Dancing followed the banquet.
REUNION OF THE CLASS OF 1911

By Stella Ricketts

The reunion of the Class of 1911 was a dismal failure! Only two were present. It must be said though that many of the class are now living far from Baltimore—doubtless that is the reason they did not come.

Three did reply. Fay Kinney Hagood regretted it was impossible for her to come, but she would be thinking of the old school. Naomi Helland Strong was making plans to come, but wasn't able to come. Mary Gertrude Brady wrote that it would be impossible for her to come. She enclosed her check, hoping someone would go in her place. This was turned over to the Alumnae.

The night of the banquet, it looked as though I might be the only member of 1911 present. I went into the Emerson with a sad heart. But luck was with me. I soon found Barbara Stouffer. Barbara and her sister Lena (Class of 1912) have a very lovely home, I am told, in Riderwood, Maryland.

From then on pleasant surprises came thick and fast. There were so many nurses present, whom I had known through their student days. It was a real joy, you may be sure, to greet them and to visit with them.

REUNION OF THE CLASS OF 1936

By Hazel Miller Wells

The Class of 1936 celebrated its fifteenth anniversary at the annual banquet in June with the following members present:

Betty Dodson Blondell
Angela Dooley Clarke
Marguerite Odom Highman
Frances Tayloe Jannarone
Ruby Thompson Lubinski
Ann Lubinski
Mary Knoeller Browning
Mary Fowble Long
Hazel Miller Wells

Doris Lloyd joined the group for cocktails at this writer's home before proceeding to the Emerson. Quite a few notes from absent members were read and enjoyed as were snapshots and a scrapbook.
Especially interesting was a long letter from Germany from Della Riley, and we are very proud of Grace Lindsay, who is now in Medical School in Ohio. Good luck, Grace!

We are looking forward to another meeting in 1956 and we hope we can make it a real reunion with all members present.

OUR CLASS REUNION—1941

By Lorraine Neel

Eight members of the Class of 1941 gathered at the Annual Banquet to celebrate our tenth reunion on June 8, 1951 at the Emerson Hotel. We laughed over incidents that had occurred ten years ago, discussed activities since graduation, and missed those classmates who were not present. Nice letters from several members who could not attend were read. Ruth Chesson Boatner wrote from Florida; Elizabeth Clark Truxton was in South America. Margaret Reynolds Menees from Texas regretted that she could not be with us. Margaret Edmundson Cuddington wrote from North Carolina, and Sue Wilson Gilmer was in Virginia.

Those present included:
Ruth Almony Dixon
Charlotte Barkdoll Franz
Flora Evan Hickman
Nell Hammer Giauque
Lorraine Neel
Etta Shaver Robertson
Martha Wilson Davis
Mary Yates Cruikshank

It was so nice for those who attended to be together again and we sincerely hope that our next class reunion will be a larger one.

FEBRUARY, 1946—CLASS REUNION

By Mary E. Klevisher, 1946

A small group of the class of the February division, 1946, for the first time celebrated a reunion. Six of the fourteen in our class attended the banquet. Members present were:
Anna Lee DeHaven
Marion Ramsey Daue
Dorothy Reachard Funk
Sarah Weimer
Ann Brien Pierpont
Mary E. Klevisher
Everyone enjoyed notes from some of the other members of the class who were unable to be with us. Albena Jannovitch had just received a ribbon from the Trans-World Airlines for completing one-half million miles of air travel as a stewardess. Ruth Jordan Metta was journeying to London, England to join her husband. Margaret Stoner Hunter sent best wishes from Rochester, Minnesota. All wished to be remembered and regretted that they couldn't be with the class.

We had a most enjoyable evening—one which we shall remember for a long time—and now we are looking forward to our tenth reunion.

REUNION OF CLASS OF 1946

By Ellen D. Foster

Eleven members of the Class of 1946 were present at the Emerson, June 8, for our first reunion. It was an occasion to which all of us had looked forward for some time.

After the usual exchange of greetings, we reminisced—recalling some of our experiences of those three never-to-be-forgotten years. All too soon, another alumnae banquet had come to an end. We had hoped that more members of our class could have been present to share this good time with us.

Among those present were:

- Amber Arnold Zimmerman
- Mary Catherine Byrnes
- Mary Cormany Clubb
- Mary Catherine Green Heininger
- Grace Anne Knowles
- Betty Roop Guerrieri
- Isabelle Schellhammer Chairs
- June Scruggs Mohler
- Ellen Sirman LiPira
- Elinor Wilson Wells

Interesting notes were received from Anna Logan Gerken, Phyllis Sliney, Margaret Harshman Longnecker, Audree Bennett Lucas and Edna Coger Conner who were unable to attend.

Let us try to have every one present at our next reunion.
JANET HALE MEMORIAL SCHOLARSHIP

The Janet Hale Memorial Scholarship which has been awarded in the past by the Alumnae Association to the member of the graduating class having the highest average in scholarship is being discontinued, due to the fact that so few of those awarded the scholarship took advantage of it. Instead, each year the Alumnae Association is making an award of $50 to the student maintaining the highest average in scholarship, in addition to making available $200 for scholarship purposes to those who wish to continue their education.

Those interested in applying for use of this fund should apply to Mrs. Nancy Craven Sheppard, secretary of the Education Committee. Recommendations for the granting of the funds are made by the Education Committee to the Executive Committee, which in turn grants the scholarship.

REGULATIONS FOR THE NURSES' DIRECTORY OF THE
UNIVERSITY HOSPITAL

Under the Auspices of the Nurses' Alumnae Association of the University of Maryland

The Directory is open for calls by telephone any hour—day or night
Telephone LAfayette 0467

MANAGEMENT—This Directory shall be managed by a Directory Committee composed of a Chairman and four members of the Alumnae Association, to be elected every year at the Annual Meeting. This Committee must give a monthly report to the Alumnae Association.

REGISTRAR—The Registrar shall be appointed by the Alumnae Association.

Requirements for Membership of the Directory—Members of the Directory must be Registered Nurses of Maryland and members of the Nurses’ Alumnae Association of the University of Maryland.

DUES—Shall be $20.00 annually, to be paid within sixty days to the Treasurer of Alumnae Association, or to the Registrar; $10.00 for nurses registering after September 1. Recent graduates may join the Directory after April 1 at rate of $1.67 per month until first of fiscal year. Fiscal year begins January 1. Members to be taken off Directory for non-payment of dues at end of sixty days, and to be notified of this by Chairman of Committee. Members are reinstated upon payment of dues.

In case of sickness or other unusual circumstances, time of payment may be extended at discretion of Directory Committee.

Rules

1. Graduates of more than two years standing are permitted to register for or against any kind of case or hospital or duty desired.
2. Graduates of less than two years are allowed to register against contagious, mental or obstetrical cases only.
3. Members “when on the list” and given call for case not registered against, are expected to respond, or go to the bottom of the list.
4. Nurses when on call are expected to keep in close touch with Registrar.
5. If a member wishes to resign from the Directory she should do so in writing to the Chairman of Committee. She may then be reinstated at any time. Any nurse who does not send in written resignation can be reinstated only on payment of all back dues.

6. In cases of contagion the nurse shall be governed by the rules of the Health Department.

7. Any complaints, either from Directory members or concerning them, may be made to Chairman of Committee or to Alumnae Association at regular meeting.

8. Nurses' fees regulated by the Alumnae Association:
   - $12.00 per day for 8 hour duty.
   - $18.00 for 12 hour duty.
   - $25.00 for 20 hour duty

At the University Hospital a nurse may be called, for her first day on a case, to report for duty not more than four hours preceding a regular period and asked to remain through the regular period, for which she receives one dollar ($1.00) per hour up to time of regular period and nine dollars ($9.00) for regular period. The nurses receive $1.00 a day for for each extra patient.

When nursing in hospitals, a nurse's fee is regulated by rules of the hospital in which she is working.

9. Members may be denied the use of the Directory at any time for not observing rules of same.

YOUR HEALTH AND ACCIDENT PROTECTION

On June 1, 1947, through the Nurses' Alumnae Association of the University of Maryland, a plan was inaugurated to give its members actively engaged in their profession, a monthly income to replace earnings in the event of disability through accident or illness.

The plan, operated by the MASSACHUSETTS BONDING AND INSURANCE COMPANY, provides income up to $120 monthly, covering all diseases. There are no discriminations regarding female disorders, but pregnancy, miscarriage and abortions are not covered. All operations and accidents are covered. Up to 60 years of age, $80.00 monthly may be had with no reference to prior medical history. Payments begin the first day in event of accident, the seventh day in illness. Hospitalization has been added.

Members, including recent graduates, may join the plan on the anniversary date, June 1, 1952.

For further particulars and application forms, communicate with the State Representative, Ethel M. Troy, 17 Light Street, Baltimore 2, Maryland, or directly with the Dana G. Hall Agency, 123 William Street, New York 7, New York.

Compliments of a Friend

The Nurses' Alumnae Association purchased a supply of Wedgewood plates with a print of our Medical School. These were sold for $2.50 per plate. The demand was so great, that we have ordered two more gross—one a print of the Medical School, the other a print of the new University Hospital (since so many wanted a pair). Anyone interested in purchasing one, or both scenes, please contact Mrs. Bessie Lee Arnurius, University Hospital, Baltimore 1, Md., c/o B.&O. Office.

Rev. Dr. Leander M. Zimmerman
IN MEMORIAM

By Rita Malek, '49

Those of us that have been recipients of the Edwin and Leander M. Zimmerman Prize at graduation from the School of Nursing will be saddened to hear that the Rev. Dr. Leander M. Zimmerman died on March 10, 1952 at the age of ninety-one.

He and his brother, Edwin, a graduate of the University of Maryland School of Medicine, had a very deep appreciation of the invaluable service rendered by the capable nurses of our school. To honor them, they established a fund to provide an annual prize of fifty dollars to be given to a deserving nurse for practical nursing and displaying the greatest interest and sympathy toward the patients. A one thousand dollar bond was given to the School of Nursing for this purpose starting in June, 1926.

Dr. Zimmerman founded the Christ English Lutheran Church at Charles and Hill Sts. in Baltimore, where he remained as pastor from 1887 until 1925, when he was made pastor emeritus. He was also widely known as the author of "A Preacher's Doorknob," "Mellow Fruits of Experience," and other books, including several volumes of prayers and poetry.
I wish to thank each member of the Nurses' Alumnae Association for your support and cooperation during the past year. Our meetings have been held every other month in hope that we would have a better attendance and I think as a whole we had a very good representation. The program committee obtained very good speakers for us and I hope everyone benefited from their talks.

A series of Civilian Defense lectures were sponsored by the Alumnae Association to enable the Alumnae members to become informed of self and family preservation in case of disaster.

The annual banquet and dance was well attended and very much enjoyed by all. The ballroom was beautifully decorated and the banquet committee deserves much praise for all the time and effort expended by them to make the banquet a success.

The Alumnae Association went over their quota of articles to the Needlework Guild of America this year. Your cooperation was greatly appreciated by all concerned and I hope you keep up the good work in the coming year.

On May 13, 1952, I represented the Alumnae Association in the television show presented by the hospital. It was a show celebrating Hospital Day and tying all the departments and associations into a group that one needed to form a hospital family.

Mr. George H. Buck, Director of the Hospital, presented the hospital family in a movie by showing how each department shares in the admission, confinement, treatment, and discharge of a patient.

Judge William Cole, Chairman of the Board of Regents of the University of Maryland, represented the public in the hospital organization. He pointed out how the hospital is considered one of the main divisions of the University of Maryland. It provides clinical experience for the medical students and student nurses as well as renders service to the citizens throughout the state.

Mrs. Thomas O'Rourk, President of the University Hospital Woman's Auxiliary, told of the service the auxiliary gave to the hospital in the form of volunteer service and fund raising.
Dr. Edward F. Cotter, President of the Medical Staff, represented the physicians' association with the patient.

I presented a short history of the School of Nursing, the Florence Nightingale cap, uniform, and Nurses' Alumnae Association. The old cap and uniform were modeled by Miss Thelma Grove, '49 and our present cap and uniform by Miss Eugenia Crow, '47.

Being on television was a new and exciting experience for me and I am glad to have had the opportunity to represent you. When you are in front of those big cameras with the bright lights in your eyes and technicians making signs with their hands you begin to realize what the people go through that appear every day. It is quite an experience and very different from viewing it from a comfortable armchair in your home.

Thank you again for your support and cooperation during the past year.
MRS. GAYLORD BROOKS, SR.

By Rita Malek, '49

The charming little silvery-haired woman usually seen bustling about behind the counter in the hospital's Gift Shop is "Our Mrs. Brooks," Mrs. Gaylord Brooks, Sr.

This year she is celebrating her 32nd year as a member of the Woman's Board Auxiliary of the University Hospital, an organization which generously contributes, renders service to, and supports various functions for the benefit of the hospital.

The gift shop idea was inaugurated eighteen years ago. Under the capable management of Mrs. Brooks, it has embraced from a small candy and cigarette counter to its present surroundings as an attractive, convenient addition to our hospital. Lovely gifts for patients of all ages, books and magazines, candy and cigarettes, plants, toiletries, and many other sundries are featured for sale with the proceeds being committed to the Woman's Board Auxiliary. Mrs. Brooks proudly comments, "We started with only $50 but our inventory is now estimated at $2000." She has been particularly interested in the progress of the gift shop. No doubt because an ever increasing number of people have come to her, but almost certainly because she has enjoyed seeing them and satisfying them.

Aside from her function in the gift shop, Mrs. Brooks had charge of the Patients' Library for many years. She used to catalog the countless number of books some of which were donated but the majority of them secured with funds obtained from the Woman's Board Auxiliary. Many a day she could also be seen persistently pushing the book cart loaded down with books and magazines to be distributed to patients on the wards and the private floors. Since the responsibilities of the gift shop and the number of volunteers have increased, others are now assisting with the library project.

Her many friends and co-workers gave a small dinner party in her honor in the nurses' dining room in May, 1952 on occasion of her 75th birthday.

UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND

PSYCHIATRIC INSTITUTE OF THE UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND

A three-day dedication and scientific meeting, beginning November 17, formally opened the new Psychiatric Institute of the University of Maryland School of Medicine. Eminent psychiatrists from other states and abroad joined in the ceremonies.

The building, located on Redwood Street and connected by a wing to Wing "D" of the University Hospital, is a six-story structure with facilities to care for 106 inpatients in all categories of mental illness or emotional disturbance. Most of the patients, including White and Negro adults as well as children, will be cared for in individual rooms to give them every possible sense of being treated as individuals and not as inmates of an institution. Some will be admitted as private patients, but most of them will enter on the usual ward basis. They will pay ward rates or if their financial situation does not permit this, they will be admitted free.

The building provides for all types of treatment, including hydrotherapy, electro-shock, insulin, occupational therapy and physiotherapy.

The top floor of the building contains an auditorium with a stage and gymnasium facilities. Adjoining it is an open-air roof enclosed with protective fencing, so designed that it disguises its chief function—the protection of those who use it.

The next three floors are for the inpatients. There are facilities for the patients to wash and iron their own clothes, if they are able to do so, and kitchens where they can prepare snacks. All walls are papered in attractive colors with modern designs. None of the windows have bars, but a special protective screening.

The first floor consists of staffrooms, classrooms, and a library containing several thousand volumes.

The main floor houses the out-patient department. The terrace floor provides for the child guidance clinic and occupational therapy.

Dr. Jacob E. Finesinger, Professor of Psychiatry at the School of Medicine, is in charge of the institute. One of his chief aims will be to get patients in the beginning stages of their illness, when there is greater opportunity for early effectiveness of treatment.
1952 BIENNIAL NURSING CONVENTION, ATLANTIC CITY

By L. SCHWALLENBERG, R.N. and B.S.
Instructor of Medical and Surgical Nursing

June 16 through June 20 found many of the nurses from University Hospital and the School of Nursing attending one of the most thrilling conventions in nursing history. It was exciting to be present for the "ayes" which brought about the two-organization structure. As a result of the voting at the convention, the N. L. N. E., N. O. P. H. N., and A. C. S. N. have merged to form the new National League for Nursing. Mrs. Elizabeth Porter conducted the many meetings of the House of Delegates of the A. N. A. It was no small chore to preside over meetings of such import and where the attendance was in such large numbers and where the members were mostly of the female species. As a reward for a job well done she is the president of the A. N. A. for another term. Ruth Sleeper of Massachusetts General has the honor of being first president of the "baby" of the convention, the National League for Nursing.

Is it boring to attend conventions? Ask Flora Streett and Lorraine Neel. They mapped out a new route to Convention Hall by way of Hackney's Seafood Restaurant. It was amazing to discover so many unscheduled meetings being held at various eating places. A quick trip up the beach and other representatives from University of Maryland were noted: Ethel Troy, Carol Hosfeld, and this reporter; needless to say, they were not robed for Convention Hall. Clara McGovern, Mary Saulsbury, along with Miss Gipe, Eva Darley, Jane Laib, and others could be located absorbing the ocean breeze from the Marborough sun deck. Then there was the meeting place of the "idea gatherers" and "collectors of samples," the exhibits; here Ella Gooch and Marguerite Hydorn could be located. The book stands seemed to be attractive to Mrs. Grotefend. Elizabeth Singleton and Mary Carl were observed at places other than meetings for counselors. Students representing the school were encountered hurrying to or from meetings. A breakfast for Maryland was a pleasant gathering for those fortunate enough to be at the convention. Miss Brown, student representative, told of her glowing experiences with the student organization.

Conventions are fun; conventions can be tiring, and conventions are exhilarating. Here leaders in nursing are heard, decisions concerning nursing are made, and plans for nursing are formulated. The 1952 Biennial was big, exciting, and it accomplished the frame work for unity in nursing endeavors.

A complete report of the activities of the convention is in the August, 1952, "American Journal of Nursing."
THE AUXILIARY AND NURSE RECRUITMENT*

By Mrs. Harry M. Robinson, Jr.
(Class of 1932)

The Woman’s Auxiliary to the Medical and Chirurgical Faculty has made a real beginning on its Nurse Recruitment Program. For instance, the Auxiliary to the Baltimore County Medical Association has not only established one student nurse in training, but is now starting a second. The Prince George’s County Auxiliary has also successfully raised funds to educate a nurse. Auxiliaries to the Montgomery and Washington County Medical Societies are at the moment in the process of establishing scholarship funds.

On the state level, the Nursing Committee of the Woman’s Auxiliary to the Medical and Chirurgical Faculty has been at work. A “Nurses’ Day” Tea was given by the Nursing Committee on Florence Nightingale’s birthday, May 12, at the Medical and Chirurgical Faculty Building, in Baltimore, in honor of the nursing profession. The Presidents of the four Auxiliaries which already have, or are establishing, nursing scholarships, Baltimore County, Prince George’s, Montgomery, and Washington, acted as hostesses. Our honored guests were the President of the Maryland State Nurses’ Association, the Presidents of the Nursing Alumnae Associations and the Deans and Directors of the Nursing Schools. Student government Presidents from the Nursing Schools were asked to pour. The movie, “Girls in White” was shown as a Nurse Recruitment aid.

In initiating a Nurse Recruitment Program it is important for your Auxiliary to first obtain the support of your Medical Society and to check with them on nursing needs. They will welcome any help, however small, in meeting the nationwide shortage of nurses.

Auxiliary members who are active in this endeavor should become familiar with the various schools of nursing in the state. The directors of these schools should be interviewed and their cooperation sought. Auxiliary Nursing Committees should be familiar with the courses of training offered by the various schools in their locality and the number of students that can be accommodated in each of them. Some of the schools in this state have an educational program whereby a nurse can obtain a diploma after three years of training, whereas other schools offer a Bachelor of Science in Nursing after a four- or five-year course.

*From the Woman’s Auxiliary to the Medical and Chirurgical Faculty division of the Maryland State Medical Journal, Vol. 1, No. 5, May, 1952.
The best time to create interest in nursing is during a student's first and second year in high school before her final curriculum is chosen and while an opportunity exists to elect the necessary pre-nursing courses. The career of nursing should be presented as an attractive one and the desire to serve one's fellow man stimulated. We suggest that the principal of your high school be interested in this program and that he give your Auxiliary permission to have suitable speakers address the student body on nursing as a career. The speakers whom we select should be of high standing in the community, capable of presenting the subject in an interesting manner, and dedicated to the ideal of service to humanity. Outstanding physicians and older graduate nurses serve well in this capacity. They should be thoroughly briefed on our Auxiliary program before addressing the student, however.

The excellent moving picture "Girls in White" is available from the American Hospital Association, 18 East Division Street, Chicago 10, Ill. It is available in the 16mm version (black and white sound, RKO Pathe) for the average school showing or in 35mm version for theater showing. The cost for this film is $4.00 for the first 3 days plus return postage. This film has been reviewed by our Auxiliary Nursing Committee and is highly recommended by them.

Good newspaper publicity will help your nurse recruitment efforts. The editor of your paper can best cooperate by writing up your scholarship and program events, and by running a series of articles on nursing as a career. He could print stories of famous women, who have contributed so much to humanity by adopting this branch of medical science as a profession, on Florence Nightingale's birthday.

If it is not possible for your Auxiliary to establish a scholarship fund perhaps you might consider a long term loan to be repaid without interest after graduation. These are matters which must be handled by the component Auxiliaries, as their finances dictate.

There is an effective radio program on nursing as a career in operation at the present time and students in your high school should be encouraged to listen to it. Again, the editor of your local newspaper can help by publishing the name of the station and the time when these programs can be heard. This should be done in a separate place in the paper where it will attract attention.

On or about May 12, which is Florence Nightingale's birthday, your local society could give a tea and invite all of the nurses in your locality to attend in uniform. Also invite the girls in the senior high school to attend this function. Some simple program should be arranged featuring the highlights of Miss Nightingale's life.

Encourage the formation of Future Nurses' Clubs in the senior high schools of your community. The club could meet twice each month during the school year and offer a program calculated to arouse interest in nursing as a profession. Local physicians, nurses, public health officers, and teachers from some of the training schools may serve as speakers. The girls, aided by a graduate nurse, may act out skits on some of the phases of nursing life. This would also be an excellent chance for the girls to learn personal hygiene and some of the simple rules basic to good health.

An essay contest on “Why I Want To Be a Nurse” with a prize of some small amount of money would be an excellent way to stimulate interest among the girls in the senior high school class. This could be done with the cooperation of the principal, having as judges one of the local physicians and a nurse. Ask the editor of your local paper to publish the best one in a prominent place in his paper.

The State Auxiliary believes that the local Auxiliaries should initiate their own programs and consult the State Nurses’ Association only in an advisory capacity.

Our National Auxiliary, the Woman’s Auxiliary to the A.M.A., is a member of the Committee on Careers in Nursing sponsored by the American Nurses’ Association. This organization has published a series of pamphlets which should be placed in physicians’ offices, schools, public libraries, and churches.

This is an Auxiliary responsibility, and the success or failure of the program depends on the effort we apply to it. The attempt to undermine our entire structure of free enterprise by the forces which advocate socialized medicine is constant. We do not want government subsidy, but must stand on our own feet. Let us endeavor to make a success of this task, and thereby improve the health of the community at large. It can be done!
ALUMNAE MEMBERS PLAY THEIR PART

Members of the Nurses' Alumnae Association of the University of Maryland are continuing their time-honored tradition of keen interest in the School of Nursing, some of them taking active part in the program of the school, while others are filling posts in the services of the University Hospital, where the student nurses receive their clinical experience. At a luncheon given by the Dean of the School and the Faculty in June, 1952, Florence Nightingale caps were much in evidence.

Dr. Harry C. Byrd, President of the University, was the guest of honor, the gathering having been planned in appreciation of his support and encouragement and of his having shortly before made public announcement of the newly established Basic Professional Nursing Program leading to the Degree of Bachelor of Science in Nursing. Miss Flora M. Streett, President of the Alumnae Association, represented our group at the speakers' table, as did Mrs. Page Edmunds, always a helpful member especially through difficult times, and Mrs. John Paul Troy, chairman of arrangements for the luncheon.

Dr. Harry Lee Doll, Rector of St. Paul's Protestant Episcopal Church, Baltimore, gave the invocation. Others at the guest table were Mr. George H. Buck, Director of the Hospital; Dr. Frank C. Marino, donor of an annual scholarship for student nurses at College Park; Mrs. Angela Shipley of the State Board of Examiners of Nurses; Miss Anna D. Wolf, Director of the School of Nursing at Johns Hopkins Hospital and President of the State League for Nursing Education; Dr. Cotterman, Dean of the Faculty at College Park, whose sturdy guidance helped develop the Collegiate Course for the School of Nursing; Dr. John C. Krantz, whose lecture periods the medical students refer to as the Hour of Charm; Dr. Thomas Pullen, Dr. Charles Sylvester, Dean H. Boyd Wylie, Dr. Gladys Wiggins, Miss Alma Preinkert, Dr. Maurice Greenhill and Mr. George Fogg, all loyal friends of the school.

Members of the School Faculty were hostesses at tables for six in the Dining Room of the Hospital and each introduced the guests at her table. Roses in profusion decorated the tables and window ledges.

Well may the Dean be pleased at the success of the luncheon, it having brought together the friends of the school with a deep sense of unity and harmony. The College Park group got to know the Baltimore staff better. Members of the community were welcomed for their interest and encouragement. The faculty shared its merited pride in accomplishment with the nurses engaged in the hospital service.
Graduates of the school now on the Faculty are:

Virginia Conley, Assistant to the Dean and Instructor, Fundamentals of Nursing Eva Darley, Associate Professor, Nursing Services
Carol Hosfeld, Assistant Instructor, Clinical Division
Elizabeth Singleton, Instructor and Advisor of Student Affairs
Kathryn Williams, Associate Professor, Operating Room Nursing
Clara McGovern, Instructor, Medical and Surgical Nursing

Included on the staff are Margaret Bagley, Ellen Chrissinger, Matilda Galton, Jean Cohn, and Ethel Troy.

That the School of Nursing of the University of Maryland enjoys its present favorable position in the profession is due to the years of leadership given by the Dean, Florence M. Gipe. Great have been the problems; far-reaching her plans; and now the fruit of her labors can be seen.

As announced in the Nursing School Catalogue, "The University of Maryland, which incorporates the School of Nursing with all the other schools of the University, is a member of the Association of American Colleges and is accredited by the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

"Both programs in Nursing, the three- and five- (now four) year programs are approved by the Maryland State Board of Examiners of Nurses and by the National Nursing Accrediting Service for the five-year interim period."

Dr. Gipe has been well prepared to attain this goal. A graduate of the York, Pa., Hospital, she early was active in various fields—first as an anaesthetist, later in hospital administration. She received her Bachelor's degree at the University of Pennsylvania, her Master's at Catholic University, Washington. Last year the University of Maryland conferred the degree of Doctor of Education upon her, her dissertation having been a History of Nursing Education in Maryland. Shortly after, she was appointed Dean of the School of Nursing, and the school was accorded academic status with the other University schools. Dean Gipe's associates know her as a person of penetrating intellect, warm sympathy and understanding, wise in the ways of administration. She is competent, persevering and courageous in the realm of Nursing Education.

It is predicted that the School of Nursing of the University of Maryland is entering upon a career of professional leadership destined to court state, regional, and national appreciation. "SAWDUST SOLVED OUR PROBLEM"*

A very stubborn decubitus ulcer succumbed to sawdust therapy

By Barbara M. Ardis, R.N. (Class '45)

A sixty-two-year-old, emaciated man was admitted to our hospital with a comminuted fracture of his right hip. He weighed about 90 pounds and reminded me of a concentration camp victim. The day after his admission he was put in a well-leg traction cast to which weights were applied. Five days later there was a small broken area in the skin over the base of his spine. In spite of the usual treatments to prevent it, the dreaded decubitus ulcer appeared.

Since the patient would be in a cast for several weeks, we had to solve the problem of caring for the ulcer. It was no use to hope that when the cast was removed the ulcer would heal. Every day for two hours in the morning and again in the evening, we turned the patient on his abdomen. We applied zinc oxide to the area but, instead of healing, it grew larger. Then we tried thymol iodide, also with no improvement. The ulcer kept getting deeper and larger in circumference. It had a pungent odor and drained a yellowish exudate quite freely. Nothing seemed to help, and the patient begged and pleaded with us to stop turning him on his abdomen, because it hurt him so much.

I had read a Journal article about sawdust therapy in the prevention and care of decubitus ulcers.1 It was interesting, the results of the treatment sounded wonderful, and, when I told the other members of the staff about it, they were eager to try it for our patient.

Instead of using a complete sawdust bed, we improvised a modification of it. First, we placed an absorbent abdominal pad over the center of a covered rubber ring. We then poured finely sifted sawdust on the pad to a depth of approximately two inches. We placed the ring under the patient so that his ulcer would be directly in the center of the sawdust. Four days later the ulcer seemed to be improving. Granulation tissue began to appear on the sixth day.

Twice a day we washed the ulcer with soap and water, followed by hydrogen peroxide. We continued to turn the patient on his abdomen twice daily. While he was turned the ulcer was left exposed to the air, and heat from an ordinary light bulb was directed to it for its drying effect. At this time, we rubbed his back with a mixture of alcohol and mineral oil.

We changed the sawdust as often as necessary to keep the wound clean and free from discharge. At first, it needed changing three times a day; later a daily change was adequate.

After just a few days of this treatment, the ulcer no longer gave off that offensive odor that made us want to hurry the job and leave the bedside.

Sawdust is not sterile, but it apparently contains sufficient anti-septic resins to promote healing of decubitus ulcers. Two months have elapsed since we began our experiment. The ulcer is now clean and small enough to permit excision of the surrounding hardened tissue and suturing of the wound.

One case is not definite proof of any treatment, of course, and while sawdust therapy did solve our problem in this instance, it may not help another patient. However, we think it is worth trying.

TRAVEL ON A CARGO BOAT
By Bernice Conner (Class of 1912)

Being given a one-term sabbatical leave by the New York City Board of Education, I had the time to travel around the world on a slow boat commonly called a "freighter." My passage was on the Cingalese Prince of the Prince Lines, a new 8,800 gross ton oil burning ship which had accommodation for twelve passengers and with a crew of 82.

We were required to be vaccinated against smallpox, typhoid, typhus and cholera and to have visas for Philippines and the Malay States. The cabins were located on the promenade deck, and I spent a great deal of time on deck in a steamer chair under the awning which we appreciated more as we sailed towards the equator. There was a swimming pool on the lower deck knocked down when it interfered with the loading of cargo and then put up again. We took on food and water when necessary at our different stops.

We sailed from Brooklyn, N. Y., on July 28 with five passengers and, strange to relate, all of us were from Maryland. On August 3 we had reached Panama Canal. This was my second trip through the Canal and this time I sailed west and saw the Canal at night lighted by electricity.

Our first stop was at Wilmington, the port for Los Angeles. I visited friends in Pasadena while they took on the ship's oil for the trip and bundles of old newspapers for Bangkok. A mother with her two children came on as passengers going to Formosa, where her husband works with General Chenault.

Our next stop was in San Francisco and we were happy to be able to see the Golden Gate Bridge outlined with electric lights as we sailed under it at 1:30 A.M. on August 12. Two passengers joined us here, one woman with whom I did much shopping and sightseeing on the trip, and a Swedish missionary going to Japan. Fog prevented us from seeing the Bridge when we sailed under it two days later.

Through field glasses we were able to see Pearl Harbor when we were passing Hawaii. A U. S. destroyer sailed near us and an observation plane flew overhead as we sailed near the Islands. During the month since we left New York, we had read books, played deck games, had boat drills, taken sun baths, had a masked birthday party, set our watches back anywhere from 24 minutes to an hour a day and once really did lose a whole day. At 3 P.M., Thursday, August 24, we crossed the International Dateline and went to 3 P.M., August 25. One passenger at our table realized the fact after she had eaten veal and not fish for Friday night dinner.

Entering Manila harbor, we saw many sunken warships. I visited an English professor there who was working for our State Department. One afternoon we drove out to the University of Philippines, where she lectured. Several large and solid looking buildings are completed and in use, and their plan for the University is very ambitious. Manila suffered great destruction from war bombs. Some rebuilding has been done but prices are high and there is much yet to be done. We unloaded rolls of paper there and took on hemp.

Our next stop was in Kobe, Japan, on September 10. Japanese flags were flying in the harbor as the result of the meeting in San Francisco the day before. Four of us left the ship and with a 7-day visa from the Army travelled inland and met the ship at Kawasaki. I saw rickshaws for the first time in Kobe.

In Kyoto, we spent two nights in Japanese inns. Our shoes were kept at the front door and we got them back when we left. Slippers were provided but these we had to leave outside the bedroom door. Matting covered the floor, and there was a low table with pillows on the floor in the center of the room. The room opened up on a balcony overlooking a garden. The bed was made on the floor with two thin mattresses, a sheet, a comfort, and a bean pillow. The kimona-dressed maids were interested in our clothing, especially in our nylon underwear. We visited the Emperor’s Palace when Kyoto was the capital city. We went also to many shrines and temples, a lacquer and a porcelain factory and a department store. The second night in Kyoto we had “sukiyaki” cooked on a brazier in our bedroom while we sat kimona-clad on pillows around the table and watched, then ate the food with chop sticks and enjoyed it.

We rode through rice fields, vegetable gardens and tea groves most of one day on our way to Tokyo. There was a haze in the direction of Mt. Fuji so we couldn’t be sure which mountain it was.

In Tokyo we saw the Diet, the Imperial Hotel, the Emperor’s Palace grounds and more temples and shrines. The Japanese appear to be a busy and a happy people. We were glad to have the time to visit the noted statue of Buddha, “Daibitsu,” on our way to Kawasaki. They had taken off coal in Kawasaki so our ship was covered with coal dust but the Captain was not long in putting his crew to cleaning it.

There were rumors of a typhoon over the radio as we neared Hong Kong. We had rough seas, rolling ship, chairs chained to the floor in the dining room, rims of the table raised and table silver wrapped in napkins. As we sailed in the harbor, we saw the city spread out over the mountain side and back of it a glow in the sky covering half of the heavens. It was a glorious sight, which the first mate called “a typhoon sky.” The city was beautiful too at night when the lights were turned on. We went up the funicular to the Peak. The business part of the city has narrow streets with large advertisements which project out over the street. We went to Kowloon by ferry. Rickshaws were plentiful but we were told not to take one as they might take us intentionally out of our way.

Our first stop in Thailand was at Gohischang from where we travelled to Bangkok passing caribous and boats on the canal on the way. The street markings were in Chinese and Siamese lettering so I could never find my way around without a guide. We visited the Government Building, more temples and shrines and the King’s Palace where Anna taught the children of the King in the story of “Anna and the King of Siam.” I was impressed with all of the beauty, richness and elegance in the Palace. They had used teak wood, lacquer, pearl-inlay, jade, colored porcelain in flower design, and embroidered hangings. We saw also the famous “Emerald Buddha,” 24 inches high and the reclining Buddha 160 feet long covered with gold leaf. We visited the floating markets on our way to see the Royal Navy (boats still propelled by rowers). We made two more stops in Thailand, at Singora and at Bangora. We drove through rubber plantations and took on rubber as cargo from both ports.

Singapore, Malay, where we spent ten days, is five degrees north of the equator. The government buildings were large and well built and similar to those seen in Hong Kong built by the British. We were able to find silk, silver, wood carvings, and linens in both the small and large stores so we had the chance to shop as well as sightsee. The Captain warned us about the wide open sewers in Singapore which they find are essential when they have heavy downpours of rain in that part of the world. We saw monkeys in the trees in the Botanical Garden. A rich Chinese who sells “Tiger Balm,” a patent medicine, has a wonderful collection of rose quartz, crystal, and jade which he keeps in his home and open to the public. We saw the collection, also the garden which he has filled with figures portraying Chinese myths and legends. There are many amusement parks open in the evening. We took on a mother and her three children as passengers who were returning to America to live, also a lady 71 years old, an arthritic who was making her first ocean trip.

Our next stop in Malay was at Port Swettenham. We drove to Kuala Lumpur which has been the center of Communist interference with the rubber workers for some time. We took on latex in Port Swettenham as our ship had a special compartment to carry it.

At Belawan, Sumatra, the immigration officers were too busy to clear our ship so two of us ventured off with the chief engineer. We went by bus to Medina, the capital. The drive was wonderful. We passed Nepal straw huts, banana, palm, and papaya trees. We saw only two white people on Sumatra. I suppose the Dutch have turned over everything to the natives and returned to Holland. We had no trouble getting back to the ship.

Our last stop in Malay was at Penang. We went up the funicular to the Craig Hotel, a beautiful spot. We visited the Temple of a Thousand Steps where there were many lovely shrines, blooming gardens and colorful pagodas.

October 25, 1951—British Election Day! All on board were interested to hear the results. I believe the voting among the officers would have resulted in a tie.

Sailing over the Indian Ocean, we saw flying fish, schools of porpoises, and a whale.

In Columbia, Ceylon, we had to use the launch taxi. Our ship was not allowed to furnish the passengers with launch service. Hard rain one night almost washed the stevedores off the decks of the ship. We saw elephants at work on our drive to Kandy and visited the Temple of Buddha's Tooth in Kandy. Women wear jewels in their noses similar to our earrings. I bought tea and some semi-precious stones in Ceylon.

We had one day in Cochin, India, and travelled in rickshaws. We bought brass, inlaid boxes, and ivory in the native store. We saw women wearing earrings from the upper part of their ears. It is hard to judge India by one day's visit at a port, but the people appeared contented and not hungry.

The question of going through the Suez Canal or sailing around Africa was giving all of us great concern. The Captain posted hours when water would be turned off, not knowing when we would be able to take on more. There was serious conversation those days—Was the Suez situation backed by Stalin? Labor vs. Conservatives in England—High taxes in U.S.A. As we entered the Red Sea the Suez question loomed greater. Oil tankers were sailing south. From where were they coming? Sailing on the Gulf of Suez, we could see Iran on one side and Egypt on the other.

When we reached Suez, the agent soon came on board and we learned we were to pass through the Canal. A passenger had to disembark here for Port Said. At 6:45 A.M. the ships waiting to go through the Canal set sail. We reached Bitter Salt Lake about noon and waited there while the ships going south sailed on, then we proceeded north and arrived at Port Said about 10 P.M. without any interference. We heard over the radio about the three-day demonstration against foreigners in Cairo.

We sailed on in the Mediterranean and passed Gibraltar early one morning and, after a short rough trip across the Atlantic, we stopped at Halifax, at Boston and too soon I was back home in Brooklyn.

I had been away four months and spent only four nights off the ship during that time. I had satisfied an old desire of mine to travel around the world but it has left me with the urge for more travel. Would I choose a cargo ship again? O, yes!
CONTINENTAL FEVER

Dear Friends,

Just imagine the thrill of a honeymoon in Europe, living abroad, and travelling through central Europe. Yes, I am quite sure it has been a rosy dream in most of our lives. I was a very fortunate person to see my dream come true, and thought you might be interested in a few of my European trips.

I left the United States in June 1949, by American Overseas Airlines bound for Frankfurt Am Main, Germany. My flight was a very enjoyable one, with beautiful flying weather and all the luxuries you could ask for. The scheduled flight, leaving from New York, took me to such principal cities as Boston, Mass., Gander, Newfoundland, Glasgow, Scotland, London, England, Amsterdam, Holland, and to Rhein Main Airport in Frankfurt Am Main, Germany.

Due to the large amount of night flying, I was unable to enjoy the scenery in most of these large cities. The superb panorama of the land lights looking like sparkling gems was a very fascinating sight I'll never forget. Most of the daytime flying was over the Atlantic Ocean, but it too was very picturesque with the bright sun beaming down on the white-capped water.

I arrived in Frankfurt in the wee hours of morning after a very enjoyable twenty-six-hour flight, I think I was still up in the clouds even though I was now on the ground in a foreign land. Lt. Van Horn, my fiancé who was stationed in Stuttgart, Germany, came to greet me. After the final stages of processing and going through customs ended, we were on our way to Stuttgart.

Although it was still dark, I could make out very plainly the outlines of bombed-out buildings along the way. The feeling that crept over me is one I still can't describe. As it grew lighter I could make out some of the countryside along the autobahns (German super highways) and began to realize I really was in Europe.

When Stuttgart (large Western Germany industrial city) came into view, you could see where the scars of war were all around you. It was here in this German city that I took my marriage vows in a typical Army wedding, and began my new life as an Army wife.

Our wedding trip took us to picturesque southern Germany, Austria, Switzerland, and Italy; and was really a trip I'll never forget. I would like to take you on that trip step by step, but I'll compromise and include it with the various other European trips we took over three and a half years spent in Europe. I think it would be a wise choice to take each individual nation and see if I can hit the high spots for you. Western Germany will be first and then I'll take each of its neighboring countries.

Although most of its great cities are so devastated by war, Western Germany has large areas where today will be found much of the beauty, interest, and charm that made this country a great travel center.

Germany's four occupational zones are the American, British, and French in the western region; and the Russian zone in the east, where travel is virtually prohibited.

The northern section of Western Germany is located in the British and American zones, and includes the great seaports of Hamburg, Bremen, and Bremerhaven. The customary rainy and foggy weather, and waterfront scenery compares with that of many of our American ports.

Coming down from the coastal area you will see the Rhineland region. Cologne, located on the Rhine River, is very famous for its European cultural background; and you can see it in the beautifully designed churches and buildings. This city had its share of bomb damage, but is rapidly rebuilding like most of the larger German cities. One of the greatest interests in Cologne is the week of gay festivity in February, known as Faschning. Faschning is a week that ends the pre-Lenten season for merry times in the German homes. There are parties, dances, and the famous parade with floats that are simply beautiful. The majority of the floats are made up of life-size figures and facial features that are mechanical. This parade is very famous to Europe, as the Mardi Gras in New Orleans is to the United States.

Along the Rhine River from the Cologne area down is where the famous Rhine vineyards are located. The hillsides are covered with vineyards, ancient ruins of old castles, and towering fortresses.

The famous city of Frankfurt Am Main is noted as the crossroad of air transportation in Europe. Frankfurt was very badly damaged by bombing, but is still known for its remaining works of art. Frankfurt today is the governmental seat of the new Western Germany.

South of Frankfurt we come to one of the most famous cities in Germany, romantic old Heidelberg. Van and I were very fortunate to be able to spend our last two years in Heidelberg. This old city is noted for its castle, the Heidelberg University, and the home of the famous operetta, "The Student Prince." Heidelberg is a very pretty old city, on the Neckar River, that was not touched by war. It still holds that rich European atmosphere with the old castle ruins high on a hill overlooking the city. Most of the buildings are ivy covered, red in color, and there are narrow, quaint little streets, and shops galore. Not too far from the University buildings is the Red Ox. This little cafe is where parts of the "Student Prince" took place and today one can still see the names of all the students that visited the cafe. A note I might add here is the University of Maryland Extension Courses sponsored by the Army are carried on in the new University buildings in the midst of the old ones. From our home in Heidelberg we could look up at the castle ruins and the surrounding countryside. In July there is a festival with fireworks, commemorating the ancient burning of the castle.

Travelling into southwest Germany, we come to the city of Stuttgart. Stuttgart, as I mentioned earlier, is an industrial city and is famous for the many Hummel factories (figures of children at play), brass factories, and porcelain factories. This is also the home of the famous Graf Zeppelin.

We come next to the French zone of Western Germany where the beautiful lake regions are located. The famous Lake Constance, on the Bodensee (German Riviera), is just a short distance from France and across from Switzerland. The shrubs, flowers and lakes are very pretty and it would take days to describe them.

Located in this southwest region is the Black Forest, where the world’s greatest cuckoo clocks and wood carvings come from. The name Black Forest really describes this forest area beautifully. The soil is very black and the trees are so thickly populated that very little sunlight seeps in. The people in this region still wear their beautiful, warm color costumes and lace headgear. The traditional dress of each section of Germany can be seen during the spring and harvest festivals.

Not too far away is the city of Ulm which houses one of Germany’s most interesting churches. The Ulm Cathedral is of gothic design, with colored marble columns, porcelain statues, and a 520-foot spire.

The southeast corner of Germany is known as Bavaria. In Northern Bavaria is the farming country and is interesting mainly for the old picturesque towns. Nuremberg’s charm is centered around its beautiful bronze statues and the old city walls and buildings which are still intact today.

Rothenburg, a few hours west of Nuremberg, was untouched by the war. Its ancient walls, and towers are intact, and its buildings and streets show excellent examples of a medieval German village.

Bayreuth is a town associated with Richard Wagner and today the town serves as a memorial in his honor.

Munich, the capital of Bavaria, is a large, modern, industrial city and has the world-famous porcelain factories located there. South of Munich is a region that is outstanding for its natural beauty, lakes, and colorful villages.

Berchtesgarten is a ski resort made famous during Hitler’s time and is located near the Austrian border. In this village is located the oldest underground salt mine in Europe. We went on a trip through a mine dressed in the traditional salt miner’s outfits and found it a very interesting and thrilling tour. High in the mountains is Hitler’s house and the Eagle’s Nest (Hitler’s tearoom).

Next we came to the twin villages of Garmisch-Partenkirchen, smuggled into a valley with the Bavarian Alps around them. This section of Bavaria is so picturesque, I could talk for days. The Zugspit Mountain, the highest mountain in Germany, is where I had my first try at skiing and really enjoyed it. The towns of Garmisch-Partenkirchen and Berchastgarten were not touched by war and still hold their beauty. The people in these villages wear the Bavarian costume daily. The men have short leather pants with beautiful ornate suspenders, green Bavarian hats, and the white, knee-length hose. The women wear gay colored and highly embroidered skirts and dainty bodices. All of these villages look like winter wonderlands from October to April; and are so delightful in the summer.

A short distance from Garmisch is the famous Linderhof Castle (the summer home of Mad King Ludwig II). The castle is small but ornately decorated and furnished by the king.

Then twelve miles north of Garmisch is Oberammergau, the village known for its production of the Passion Play (Life of Christ). Van and I saw the eight-hour play on a very hot summer day in 1950. We were so fascinated by the performance that the heat and length of the play completely slipped our minds.

Mittenwald, a short distance east of Garmisch, is another charming village near the Austrian border. The small quaint workshops of this village make the world-famous violins.

Last, but not least, we took a trip to Berlin into both the Western and Eastern sectors. Our trip was limited and we tried to catch a glimpse of the most interesting places. Berlin is one city I just can’t begin to describe and only wish I could have seen it before the tragedy of war struck. In the United States sector the progress of rebuilding is amazing compared with that in the Russian sector. The tours we took of the U. S. zone showed the music cultural spots and all its fine art institutes. From the churches which are still standing and from the remaining walls of the damaged ones we could see some beauty and splendor left. We saw the famous Brandenburger Gate which now divides the British and American sectors from the Russian sector. Also the Unter den Linden, a famous Berlin street that compares with New York’s Fifth Avenue in looks and shops. Next is the famous Liberty Peace Bell (gift of the American people) that is housed in the city hall. In the Russian sector we were restricted to our buses, except to see the Russian War Memorial and Cemetery. We also saw the house that Hitler met his death in and the rest of the sights were ones that left bad impressions with all of us.
Entering the small country of Austria from the German border we descend upon the famous town of Salzburg whose Music Festival has made it world renowned. During the month of August, tourists from all over the world flock to hear the various musical programs. Salzburg is also a very ancient picturesque town with its buildings and churches in Italian Renaissance style.

Leaving Salzburg, we head toward the southwest section of Austria, which is made up of several mountain chains. Scattered throughout the Tyrol Alps you will find magnificent mountain scenery and picturesque ski resorts. Again Van and I visited some of these ski resorts and thoroughly enjoyed ourselves. To really appreciate this mountain beauty, one must be present to absorb it.

Innsbruck is a city that acts as a junction for several of these Austrian mountain chains. It is a very famous shopping center and has several museums containing very interesting facts about Austrian history, and a wonderful collection of the Tyrolean costumes, typical dress of the mountain folks.

There are numerous winter resorts throughout Austria that I'd like to mention but it would be too repetitious.

Vienna, I know, is familiar to you all. Vienna today is divided into four occupational zones as Western Germany is. The city is rapidly trying to restore its glorious past by rebuilding its monuments and buildings. I think its art galleries, opera houses, theatres, museums, restaurants and its night life are what remain in most of the tourists' minds. The Rathaus (City Hall), Parliament, Opera House, Brug-theatre, University, the great art galleries, and museums are only a few of the many beautiful sights. The city's leading restaurants, with their beautiful dinner music and exquisite European dishes, really give the visitor some idea of true Viennese atmosphere. The famous Danube River is located on the outskirts of the city, but the Danube Canal acts as a present zonal boundary. As we leave Vienna free in your minds, we will go on for a visit with our Swiss friends.

Switzerland is a country we found to be our second home. As the geography books show you, this country is surrounded by France, Italy, and Germany; and has characteristics of all three in a different manner. Their languages and customs cross the borders of Switzerland, but its people and ways of living are strictly Swiss.

The area bordering France in the southwest corner of Switzerland is the Lake Geneva area. Geneva is the center for international gatherings and conferences and is a very modern city with the influence of its French neighbors. French is the chief language spoken here along with all the other international languages. The League of Nations Palace is located on the outskirts of the city and on the spacious lawn is a beautiful monument symbolizing the world and freedom. Around Lake Geneva are other lake resorts which carry out the French influence also.
Then north of this region we come to the cities of Berne and Basel. In this particular region the French and German influences mingle. Berne, the capital of the country, is noted for its bear pits, and unusual fountains scattered throughout the city’s streets.

Basel is another large city which is the entrance to the Alsace-Lorraine region and is noted for its famous art galleries and art collections.

Northward to Zurich, which is Switzerland’s largest city and chocolate industrial center. Around Lake Zurich are several lake resorts that are so picturesque and give you a marvelous view of the mountains in the northeast. Zurich is also a very famous shopping center for the famous Swiss watches and clocks.

In the northeast section, which is the border near Germany, is located the city of St. Gallen, center of the embroidery and textile industry. Scattered through this northeast section are various farm towns and here the German influence can be noted.

Coming down from the north we come to an area known as the Alpine region which extends to the Italian border. The first region is called the Bernese Oberland where the mountains are very high and snow-capped year round. This mountain range has so many colorful Alpine villages and several sections of glacier beauty. The Swiss mountain folks are so neat in their little villages and their well-ordered farms, homes and everywhere you can see evidences of cleanliness. Their little Swiss chalets are really rare sights of beauty. On Sundays, the Swiss mountain people can be seen on their way to the mountain chapels in their colorful native dress.

South of the Bernese Oberland is the broad valley of the Rhone River, with many attractive resort villages on the mountain slopes adjacent to the valley. This, too, is another Alpine region and includes such famous mountains as the Zermatt and the Matterhorn. In the various villages you will see horse-drawn sleighs and people on foot and skis due to the absence of autos. The sun is so warm that you can dress lightly and still enjoy the snow about you. In the summer, mountain climbing, walking, and swimming are really nice in the beautiful atmosphere. There are many famous passes or mountain roads that can be used only when the snow is gone. The roads are very narrow and in some places are one way. The Swiss buses using these mountain roads have musical horns to let drivers know their whereabouts on the narrow roads. The Grand St. Bernard Pass will take you to the famous monastery where the St. Bernard dogs became famous. Van and I went over the St. Gotthard Pass and, in spite of its magnificent scenery, snow-capped peaks, and glaciers, I was certainly glad to get to a lower altitude. When the avalanches occur in Switzerland most of these little villages are completely cut off by the heavy snows.
Then we journey down to the southeastern section which is another Alpine region that is more fashionable and sophisticated. Here we find such winter and summer resorts as St. Moritz, Arosa, and Davos. Best known of the resorts is St. Moritz, which caters to all types of tourists both young and old. St. Moritz is a quaint little village with its winding streets, interesting buildings, shops, and the beauty of the surrounding mountains. Van and I again enjoyed our skiing trips and soaked up the Swiss hospitality. I might add that the Swiss cheese sandwiches, hot chocolate, and dainty pastries served in the little shops are something we thoroughly enjoyed after skiing. Also Mr. Hanselman, the famous candy maker in this town, surely wins the heart of everyone that enters his shop.

Davos and Arosa are the two other resorts we visited and they, like St. Moritz, were characteristic of the Swiss. Davos and Arosa are located on higher altitudes than St. Moritz and are reached by cog trains.

Leaving the heart of the Swiss resorts, we find ourselves in the Italian section of Switzerland. Here you begin to feel the warm climate and are in the midst of a lake region with mountain peaks all around. Two famous lake resorts we visited were Lugano and Locarno. Resorts are located around tree-lined lakes; and the hills are covered with fruit trees, colorful flowers, and very attractive villas. Each has its own casino, beautiful hotels, cafes, and shops. As we leave Switzerland and head for Italy, our thoughts of Switzerland are a beautiful memory and we long for our next visit.

Everyone's first thoughts of Italy are those of historical, artistical, and cultural interest, but Italy has evidence of being a modern nation along with its ancient past. Since we entered Italy through the Swiss lake region, we must tell you about the beautiful Lake Como region. Lake Como, with the snow-capped Alps in the background, its hilly shores with semi-tropical plants and flowers, and beautiful villas, really sets a picture. The hotels are all old family villas, and their interiors changed only slightly. Imagine having dinner in a candlelit, mirrored-wall dining room, and superb European food. Yes, this is only a small example of what this lake region offers in all its hotels. I really thought I was dreaming, but after three days of it I was convinced.

An hour's drive southward you come to the city of Milan, the large financial and industrial center of Italy. In Milan is the famous white marble gothic Cathedral with its 3,000 statues and innumerable spires. Also in this city is located the famous painting of the "Last Supper" by Leonardo da Vinci. Throughout the city are many churches and art galleries which have famous and valuable art collections.

West of Milan is Venice, one of the greatest attractions in Italy. Venice is built on a group of islands near the Adriatic Sea and is linked by canals and lagoons. The means of transportation throughout these islands are by gondolas and motorboat, especially in the Grand Canal. On the main island is located the famous St. Mark's Square which is entirely lined with mosaics, and is the gathering place for the pigeons. Next to the square is the Doge's Palace, home of the rulers of ancient Venice. The famous Rialto (arched covered bridge) over the Grand Canal is very ancient and is lined on both sides with quaint little shops. Lido is another island and has the world's broad-est and most luxurious beach.

From the western coastal region we come to a chain of mountains known as the Dolomites. In this region, like Switzerland, is the famous winter resort of Cortina d'Ampezzo, Italy's finest.

The famous city of Florence is known for its Italian art and culture. The most outstanding building in Florence is Duomo, the beautiful Cathedral whose exterior is in three different colors of marble. The beautifully designed bronze doors are magnificent works of art. All through Florence, in her churches, art galleries, and mu-seums, are works of Michelangelo.

Travelling southward to the Mediterranean we come to the sea-port of Naples. Naples doesn't have much to offer to the tourist but within a short distance you can visit the famous Isle of Capri, Pompeii, and such picturesque villages as Sorrento and Ravello. Pompeii, through its volcanic eruption in A.D. 79, has preserved intact many evidences of life during that time. Sorrento and Ravello are small resort vilages cut into rocky hills lining the shores of Naples Bay. The Isle of Capri is across the Bay from Naples and has become a world-renowned resort. Most famous about the island is the Blue Grotto. It is a natural, dark, rocky cave where the water reflects a beautiful blue color. You can reach the top of this romantic island by a cable car, footpaths, or by horse-drawn carriages from the shore-line. The island contains beautiful rock formations, narrow winding streets, and gorgeous privately owned villas. Along the streets are outdoor cafes and shops galore. The winding pathway to the shoreline is quite a walk and at the bottom are several beaches with a very white sand. Leaving the island and coming back to the mainland we journey northward to the famous city of Rome.

Rome is a city that has a background of religion, art, and history. There are over 500 churches in Rome, but we could only see a few with all the other interests in the city. The world's largest church is the Basilica of St. Peter and it has a very famous square in the front. To the side of the church is the Vatican City. Vatican City is all enclosed and is a complete city with its own railroad, power plant, radio station, and is the residence of the Pope. Unfortunately, we visited Rome during a holiday season and the Vatican City was closed to the public. From the dome inside St. Peter's you could view the Vatican grounds and all surrounding Rome. St. Peter's houses the Holy Doors which are opened with a celebration held every twenty-five years.
Some of the ancient ruins you can see are the various Roman Forums, the Colosseum, the remains of Nero’s palace, and the Christian catacombs. Also the very beautiful Victor Emmanuel II Monument, and the Palazzo Venezia (Mussolini’s office and the balcony where he made speeches). The Foro Italicu (sports center built by Mussolini) is made up of several stadiums, swimming pools, administration buildings, and numerous statues dedicated to each sport. In addition to these places of interest, there are the famous Tiber ancient bridges, the city gates, numerous triumphal arches, and the very modern section of Rome today.

Leaving Rome we head along the coastline northward and we come to Pisa, one of the seven wonders of the world. The Leaning Tower of Pisa still stands with a more gradual lean to the earth and is continuing to shift each year.

Then upward along the seacoast we come to Genova which is a very large seaport city and not very pleasing to the eye. Extending along the coastline from Genova to the French border is the Italian Riviera. Such resorts as Alassio, San Remo, Rapolla, and Santa Margherita are all very picturesque villages that offer swimming and fishing. In the background of these villages are hillsides with olive groves and orange and lemon trees. Along the shoreline you will find magnolias, roses, and so many different varieties of tropical plants.

The Italian Riviera behind us, we cross the Italian-French border and find ourselves along the famous French Riviera. France, in most of the travellers’ minds, means a nation that is carefree and gay. The Riviera is the semi-tropical playground of France along its Mediterranean coastline. The resorts of Cannes and Nice are the most famous. These resorts are very expensive and are complete with luxurious hotels, casinos, night spots, famous French restaurants, and rocky and sandy beaches. Year-round visitors flock to these resorts to absorb the atmosphere. Not too far away is Monte Carlo, which is a French gambling resort, and it has a few cultural spots of interest.

A short distance from the Riviera region is the center of the perfume industry. Grasse is the main perfume center and all around are located fields of roses, carnations, and in the rocky hillsides are numerous beds of lavender plants.

Again our French trips were limited to southern France, the eastern section, and parts of central France including Paris. When you leave the southern region you can travel inward to the French Alps region and beyond this mountain range we come to the Alsace-Lorraine provinces. This northeast part of France extends northward to Luxemburg and Belgium. One of the most famous cities is Strasburg. Strasburg has a beautiful gothic cathedral with a very interesting astronomical clock whose mechanical figures still work today. Throughout this city you will notice the many roof tops of the houses that have nests for the storks. You will notice the many outdoor cafes, hotels, and restaurants noted for outstanding French menu specialties, and exquisite pastries. Strasbourg will be found in the news today as the meeting place of the United Nations Council in Europe. This Alsace-Lorraine region is noted for some of the famous French wines.

Leaving the eastern section we head toward central France where the famous city of Paris is located. On the way to Paris you can go through the champagne country. Reims is the biggest center and here you can see the champagne caves with millions of aging bottles and the manufacturing process.

Paris is one of the most beautiful cities in the world and you can see it was carefully and artistically planned. Its wide boulevards, open squares, parks, gardens, and elegant buildings are really what makes Paris. Paris has various sections of the city which have individual characteristics as to the type of people who settled there; such as the students of art, music, and business.

We took several tours of the city and took in all the historical landmarks. Most everybody knows that Paris has the Eiffel Tower, the famous Notre Dame Cathedral, Arc de Triomphe (Tomb of the Unknown Soldier), Tomb of Napoleon, Opera House, Palace of Justice (prison where Marie Antoinette was jailed), Luxembourg Gardens (playground for French youngsters), and art galleries and museums.

The many night clubs, and theatres, offering concerts and ballet, help add a touch to the Paris atmosphere. The luxurious and expensive French shops are famous for their styles in women’s fashions, perfume, antiques, porcelain, and liqueurs.

Within a small radius of Paris is the famous French palace known as Versailles. This palace was the residence of the court of Louis XIV. The palace is magnificent and the surrounding grounds, with their terraces, landscape, canals, fountains, and tree-lined pathways, are really a sight.

Fontainebleau is another palace that is associated with Napoleon. This palace is beautifully decorated with luxurious furnishings, tapestries, and works of art in the Renaissance period.

Leaving Paris we travelled through a very small portion of Belgium and Luxemburg. We visited the famous World War II battle-ground and the American cemetery in Bastogne, located near the Belgium, Luxemburg, and French borders.

Luxemburg is a tiny independent Grand Duchy that is all of 1,000 square miles. Luxemburg has a very unusual setting of the remains of an old city, castle, and catacombs below the ground surface of the more modern city of Luxemburg. These old remains are located in a natural river valley in the heart of the city, and are still intact, and beautifully landscaped.
Travelling northward we come to Holland or, as sometimes called, the Netherlands. This country is known to many as the country of "Lowlands" due to the completely flat countryside. Although Holland is flat country, it offers very pleasant scenes with its windmills, canals, its neat villages and immaculate houses, its many fields of flowers, and its main cities with the typical Dutch atmosphere of the early ancestors.

Entering Holland from the eastern region we come to the border town of Arnhem. Arnhem was a former peaceful town till World War II, when it became the scene of the air-borne attempt by the British to capture the Rhine River Bridge leading to Germany. In spite of all the damage done to this quaint little town, the Dutch people have completely removed all touches of bombed buildings and have erected new ones in their place. This town has many old Dutch farmhouses that have been preserved in a large Open Air Museum; and houses the Holy Land Foundation where the region of the Bible has been carefully reproduced.

Not too far west of Arnhem is the city of Utrecht, which is famous for its old university and is the gateway to the capital city of the Netherlands.

Amsterdam, the capital, is a large commercial and industrial center. The city has many artificial canals lined with shady elms, along with its 17th century buildings, and modern apartment and office buildings that add to its beauty. A very unique way to visit the old portion of the city is by the glass-topped launch that goes through the winding canals and harbor. There are many museums that have collections of Rembrandt’s work and that of many 17th century Dutch artists. You can also visit Rembrandt’s home, the diamond cutting workshops, and the exterior of the Royal Palace whose interior is closed to the public.

A short distance from Amsterdam, we took small side trips to the colorful villages of Volendam, Edam, and the Island of Marken. These little villages are located in north Holland along the Zuyderzee and are outstanding for their quaint homes, the sailing fleets, and local costumes. The national costumes of the local residents identify the home town of the wearer, indicate the marital status and religious denomination, and also show whether the wearer has passed his eighteenth birthday. The Island of Marken is the only coastal region where the women’s caps are lace.

Another trip to the open-air cheese market at Alkmaar really is a must on Friday mornings.

Leaving Amsterdam, we come to the town of Aalsmeer which is the chief flower market center. A trip through the market will be breathtaking to see the tables covered with every-colored tulip, rose, and hyacinth imaginable. Every morning you can see the flower auction sales. Tulip Time is in April-May; and the main fields are in the region between Haarlem and Leiden. During this time there are great flower parades and contests in the local villages.

The Hague or Den Haag is known as the seat of the Dutch Government. This city has the famous Peace Palace which is the seat of the International Court of Justice. The palace is richly decorated and includes gifts from all the different nations.

Van and I thoroughly enjoyed every minute of our various trips through central Europe and wish we could have added the Scandinavian countries, the British Isles, Spain, and Portugal before our return home.

We have found the peoples of the various countries very hospitable, and most interesting. The Continental restaurants with their regional specialties are definitely delicious and worth their fame. The scenery, the customs, and the European atmosphere will all add to the desire of a return trip.

Unfortunately, the time passed too quickly, and we found ourselves homeward bound to an Army post in the U.S.A.

Must close for now and my very best to you all.

HISTORY OF THE NURSES' ALUMNAE PIN
UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND

When the Alumnae Association was organized in 1903, they accepted the pin of the Class of 1894 as their emblem. The pin was an original design submitted by Tiffany in New York, Bailey, Banks and Biddle of Philadelphia. It showed a serpent (representing wisdom) twined around the glass denoting "the wise presiding over decoctions of medicine." It is the shape of a St. George's cross with maroon and black and gold colors of the University of Maryland. The Caduceus, Greek emblem of medical science, is in the center of the cross.
CHINCHILLA RANCHING—A NOVEL EXPERIENCE

By Marguerite R. Bitner, ’17

Little did I realize in the summer of 1948 that I was launching an era of fascination for myself when I undertook the role of a chinchilla rancher, a past time unheard of locally. At first I proceeded with fingers crossed as so little was known in these parts of what was good or bad for the valuable little animals which had their native roots high in the Andes Mountains. The story is indeed fabulous of how a California mining engineer on a temporary assignment to South America brought back with him in 1922 eleven chinchillas which it had taken a small band of Indians over a year to capture. The time element is understandable only when it is considered that chinchillas had become almost extinct in their native habitat and that being nocturnal the remaining little animals were far back in the crevices of the mountains while the Indians searched by day.

Beginning with three pairs of chinchillas in the basement of my home in the city, my herd, consisting of 130 animals, is now housed in an air conditioned unit built into the basement of a new ranch home in the country. Due to the fine texture and exceptional density of their fur the animals are partial to the lower temperatures, although conditioned air is not essential to their well being. In size the mature chinchilla is slightly larger than a squirrel but in appearance more closely resembles a rabbit. They are gentle, easy to handle and above all else are entirely free of any odor. Apparently proud of their cleanliness and insistent upon remaining so they ordinarily resort to a vigorous bath in volcanic ash after being handled.

Chinchillas are ready for mating when about 7 or 8 months old. They immediately set up housekeeping in a wire cage about 2½ feet square and 18 inches high. The animals are generally considered to be monogamous and if on occasion there is “rough house” the finger of guilt can be unmistakably pointed at the female whose grievance is seldom disputed by her mate. For animals so small as the chinchilla the period of gestation—111 days—is unusually long. A litter of three babies is above the national average but even one—a literal bundle of elegant fur—always receives the plaudit of an appreciative rancher. At birth, the baby is fully furred, his eyes wide open and he has a set of serviceable teeth, proof of which is the sight of him chewing at a blade of grass when only 2 or 3 days old.

In the little more than four years since I turned rancher—and I have never regretted a minute of it—numerous programs on research have been inaugurated at some of the leading universities in the country. In this same period comprehensive studies in nutrition and genetics have been made by ranchers having an urge for experiment and it is this phase of chinchilla ranching which I find both challenging and fruitful. While the animals have a definite monogamous trait there are some of us who are making polygamous use of our finest males which have been adjudged as superior stock in national competition. Within the last year I have also tried some line breeding, the mating of a father and daughter or a mother with her son and the results have been wholly successful. However, the cautious rancher will be sure that each animal in the mating possesses a goodly number of the fine characteristics in fur as determined by himself and ranch inspections which are available through the National Chinchilla Breeders of America at Salt Lake City.

Since 1950 I have been entering some of my animals in chinchilla shows where they compete with other chinchillas from all parts of the United States, many of the entries coming from California where domestic ranching began thirty years ago. It is definitely an understatement for any rancher to define as a thrill the feeling he experiences at shows to see the expert fur judges keep moving the owner's entry toward the head of the table where the top awards are made. I don't mean to infer that all of my entries travel on in one direction on the judging table, but I did have the complete satisfaction at a recent Chinchilla Field Day of having the judges award ribbons to more than half of my entries.

At meetings of chinchilla ranchers, whether at a regional or local level, it is always interesting to learn of the various professions that have been attracted by the lure of this new avocation. Not the least among these are graduate nurses whose experiences may be little different from my own. Suffice it to say I have no disposition to doubt that my training as a nurse has contributed in no small way to the success of my novel experience.
THE NEEDLEWORK GUILD OF AMERICA

"The Charity that helps other Charities," this phrase expresses in a few words the aim and purpose of The Needlework Guild of America, Inc.

The function of the Guild is to collect new garments, which are donated to orphanages, missions, hospitals, or any welfare agency. Two identical new garments; linen, or any amount of money will qualify YOU to be a member.

These garments are collected once a year, by local Branches at Ingatherings. At this time the garments are sorted in preparation for distribution to the various charities. The ones selected have previously sent in requests for articles according to their needs. The money, which is contributed by sustaining members, is used by the local Branches to maintain their activities during the year. Both sustaining members and members who donate garments are urgently needed. All types of clothing are gratefully accepted, but there is a greater demand for warm underwear, nightgowns, pajamas, sweaters, shoes, coats and blankets.

The Needlework Guild supplements the work of many hospitals by supplying them with the proper type of clothing for their charity patients. It assists the homes for children, the aged, and the friendless, child-welfare agencies, orphanages, and many other institutions and homes by answering their crying need for garments. Many of these organizations depend upon the Needlework Guild for the greatest portion of the clothing that they require.

The University of Maryland Nurses' Alumnae Association and the Woman's Auxiliary Board have for ten years been most interested and active in this fine work. In 1939 these two organizations formed a division in the Needlework Guild of America. This group was organized at the request of Mrs. Charles Reid Edwards, who is a member of the Nurses' Alumnae Association and also a member of the Woman's Auxiliary Board. Mrs. Edwards' request came to us direct from the Secretary of the Maryland Branch of the Needlework Guild. The Secretary explained to us that the University Hospital Social Service Department needed so much help that they were calling upon us to help them. Our Section known as Section 37 was organized under the capable leadership of Miss Mary C. Shaffer who held the office as President of the Section until 1949.

The present President of the University Hospital Branch is Mrs. Sarah Headley Hampshire, 2430 Ellamont Street, Baltimore 16, Maryland. Will you please make your donations each year to her before October 1. This is a worthy cause, and a great many of our donations are in turn given to our own hospital for its use.
REPORT OF SECTION 37 OF THE NEEDLEWORK GUILD OF AMERICA

By Sarah H. Hampshire, President

Please accept my most grateful thanks for the wonderful way each and everyone of you helped to really put new life in Section Number 37 this year. PLEASE help me to do likewise in the years to follow. Yes, we can do it with everyone’s help.

I am indeed grateful to the following, Co-Chairman, Mrs. Samuel Proctor, representing The Woman’s Auxiliary Board of the University Hospital, Directors; Mrs. Gwendolyn H. Almony, Mrs. Shirley L. Milke, Mrs. Edna Rembold, Mrs. Bessie Maston Arnurius, Misses Anna Pratt, Carol Hosfeld, Mary B. Saulsbury, and Emma Winship.

Miss Elizabeth Aitkenhead, retired supervisor of the Operating Rooms, knitted a pair of argyle socks, which were chanced off, making ten dollars. This money was used to buy clothing. Thank you, Miss Aitkenhead, and everyone who helped in any way to make this project so successful this year.

The Section donated two hundred and forty-five garments, and eight dollars in cash. PLEASE GIRLS GET STARTED NOW FOR THE YEAR 1953.
ANNUAL BANQUET AND DANCE

By Milbrey Neikirk, Chairman of Banquet Committee, 1st Vice President of the Nurses’ Alumnae Association

In honor of the graduates of 1952 the Nurses’ Alumnae Association sponsored their annual banquet and dance in the main ballroom of the Emerson Hotel on June 7, 1952.

The Reverend Edward J. Farren, S.J., of St. Ignatius Catholic Church, offered the invocation. Miss Flora Streett, President of the Nurses’ Alumnae Association, brought greetings to the graduates and introduced the groups celebrating their quinary reunions, beginning with 1907.

Mrs. Roy D. Whillock, Past President of the Maryland Federation of Women’s Clubs, was guest speaker. Her message was a challenge to all women, stressing the importance of good leadership in the home, in the community, and in the nation. She pointed out the important part women can play in selecting good leaders for our country by taking an active part in political affairs.

Among the honored guests were Mrs. Nathan Winslow of the Class of 1903; Dr. Florence Gipe, Dean of Nursing; Miss Margaret Hayes, Assistant Dean of Nursing; Miss Virginia Connelly, Assistant to the Dean of Nursing; Mr. George Buck, Director of University Hospital and Mrs. Buck; Mr. David Bringham, Executive Secretary of the University of Maryland Alumni Association and Mrs. Bringham; Mr. J. Milton Patterson, Treasurer of the Board of Regents, University Hospital.

Awards were presented by Dr. Gipe to the graduates of 1952 who had shown outstanding skill in their profession during their three years of training as student nurses. The Operating Room award was presented by Miss Elizabeth Aitkenhead, former Supervisor of Surgery.

The president of the graduating class, Miss Ann Reicks, presented Dr. Gipe, on behalf of the class, with a monetary gift to be utilized in Dr. Gipe’s scholarship fund.

Following the banquet there was dancing to music furnished by the Debonaires.

Our many thanks go to the Banquet Committee who worked so diligently to assure us all such a pleasant evening.
REUNIONS—1912 AND 1917

By Ethel M. Troy

It was pleasant to see Miss Lucy Harvey and Miss Lena Stauffer at the Banquet representing the Class of 1912. Miss Stauffer must enjoy life in the very pleasant Riderwood community where she lives. Miss Harvey, with her well-known smile, avers she is still an “unclaimed blessing” but busy every minute.

The Class of 1917 had five members present:

   Adeline Cavano Smith
   Marguerite Risley Bitner
   Anna Robinson Lutz
   Ellen Christine Lloyd
   Ethel Monroe Troy.

Ellen, shortly before, had gotten a group together at the Hospital Dining Room to surprise Mrs. Brooks of the Gift Shop at luncheon in honor of her seventy-fifth birthday. “Bobby” told us of her plans for her daughter’s wedding in August. “Friz” invited us all to her “Blue Star Chinchilla Ranch” and her lovely new home in Ruxton. “Cavvie” was forgiven for boasting about her fine grandson and precious granddaughter. Apparently Ethel’s chief interest was her garden which had only produced sore muscles and blistered hands. We hope many blossoms come later.

REUNION OF THE CLASS OF 1927

By Eva Foust Darley

At the Annual Banquet of the University of Maryland Alumnae, the Class of ’27 was represented by four members to celebrate the 25th anniversary of their graduation.

Participating in the reunion were:

   Grace Young Spangler
   Rae Gerber Manheimer
   Beatrice Krause Dailey
   Eva Foust Darley

The evening passed much too quickly for those present. There was much chatting and reminiscing. Of course, none of those present looked any older and only a little more “filled out” than they did to each other twenty-five years ago.
A message was related from Jane Henderson, who was vacationing in Europe. One of the members present shared a letter from Rebecca Hall Phillips, who is a busy wife and mother in Houston, Texas. In the letter was enclosed a picture of herself and her two beautiful daughters. We all agreed that the daughters resemble their mother considerably.

We were sorry that Louisa Willis was unable to attend the reunion because of being tied up with a maternity case, and Lucy Röyster Brenner was recuperating from a serious operation in Washington, D. C.

We sincerely hope that all of the members of our class will be able to be present at our next reunion.

REUNION OF THE CLASS OF 1932

By Maurice Hardin Robinson

The Class of 1932 held its twentieth reunion on June 6, 1952, at the annual banquet held by the Alumnae Association at the Emerson Hotel in the Main Ballroom. Four members of the class attended:

Clara Wilburn Holder
Gladys Durst
Ruth Schaffer Schlotterbeck
Maurice Hardin Robinson

Clara Holder is in active nursing at Somerset Hospital in Somerset, Pa. She has two children. Gladys Durst married Elmer C. Durst and they have four children. She didn’t change her name when she married and she still has the same good disposition she had when she was a student nurse. Ruth Schaffer Schlotterbeck, who was in the February section of the class, now lives on a farm near Ellicott City, Md., with her husband and son. Maurice Hardin Robinson visited Paris and London with her husband this past summer. She lives in Roland Park, Baltimore, with her husband and two children.

We had a letter from Irene Gladden Speed who was unable to attend the reunion because of illness. She was retired from the Navy last October with the rank of Lieutenant Commander, and is now living at 70 Mill Street, Newport, R. I. A letter from Nellie Butler informs us that she has been married since 1934 to Howard W. Kline and she has one son who is sixteen years old. She is living at 5440 Taylor Street, Bladensburg, Md. Elizabeth Worthy Lundeen visited friends in Baltimore this summer. She is a very busy woman, having taken over her husband’s business after his death in December, 1951. She has one son and they are living in Oak Park, Ill.

Write to us as we would love to hear from you. We would like to have a much larger attendance when our next reunion is held in 1957.
The fifteenth reunion of the Class of 1937 was held in June at the Emerson Hotel with nine members attending. Those present were:

Virginia Banes Layfield
Helen Wagner LaMotte
Naomi Hersh Merryman
Rose Pennington Sellers
Catherine Carpenter Tochterman
Sallie Knight Miller
Frances Parks Lucas
Frances V. Sappington

A number of girls, besides being homemakers, said they were actively engaged in nursing. Some were doing public health and institutional work, and others were doing private duty nursing.

Lengthy and interesting letters were received from eleven members of the class who were unable to attend because of distance, illness, families, etc.

Beatrice Pilgrim Burstone wrote that she was busy with her home, garden, and dog, and doing occasional private duty nursing. Everywhere she went she said her cap had caused much curiosity and comment (favorable).

Mary Rudisill Gsegner wrote that it was impossible for her husband to get off to come to Baltimore. He is with Lockheed in Marietta, Ga. She sent her regards to all.

Freelove Sherrill Locke wrote that she would have loved to have come but her children had measles and there was a likelihood of mumps appearing!! She sent her best to all.

Winifred Quarterman Matol wrote that she was expecting her fourth child in June—so all traveling had to be cancelled for a while.

Dorothy Toom wrote a most interesting letter from Japan. She said the Japanese were very pleasant people to know and work with and that the country was most interesting and beautiful. I am going to quote the following from her letter:

"I'm sure you've been wondering what the ABCC is doing here in Hiroshima and in Nagasaki. It was organized under the Atomic Energy Commission and the National Research Council as a field study group to determine what long range effects atomic radiation has had on humans. An effort is made to examine all survivors and all children born of survivors to determine these effects. This necessitates bringing all the survivors and controls into the clinic for physical examinations, x-rays and laboratory work. We have had fine cooperation from the survivors of Hiroshima and Nagasaki."
Last year we had about 110 Allied employees but that number has been reduced gradually as the Japanese employees are trained to take more responsibility. Last year at this time we had six Allied nurses; we have four now and beginning this fall there will be only one between Hiroshima and Nagasaki. We have about 65 Japanese nurses and they are remarkably efficient after they receive proper training in our procedures. I do hate to leave such pleasant surroundings and such a nice place to work but I'm also anxious to make my 'trip' and also to get home to see my folks."

Evalyn Mattson Hardeyst wrote a nice, newsy letter. She was unable to come down from Oakland, Md., because of a brand new baby daughter. She said she'd make the twentieth anniversary though.

Edna Sutton Bradel wrote that much as she would love to see all the girls she had to stay close to home as she was waiting for the word to join her husband in Germany. She was planning to take her two children with her.

Muriel McArthur Jones said that her doctor advised her against taking a long trip. She said that she is able to get around pretty well now with the help of a brace on her leg, and she can use her left hand for typing. She sent her love and regards to all.

Esther Dallmus McQuire, Wanda Bosley Lewis, and Mina Hooe Pierce wrote saying they would not be able to be present.

Marjorie Kautz Corkran who very kindly wrote to a number of the girls was unable to attend the reunion because one of her boys had recently had a bad fracture of his leg.

Here's to a happy reunion on our twentieth anniversary, and I'll be there if my husband doesn't have a last minute delivery.

Respectfully submitted by Jane Slick Seegar with the help of Naomi Hersh Merryman.

REUNION OF THE CLASS OF 1942

By Tillie L. Richards, '42

On June 6 the most frequent remark made was "It doesn't seem like ten years." But the Class of '42 was actually having its tenth reunion. Rarely does an event quite live up to expectations but this one was really above all. There were great moments of gaiety when we spied a close friend whom we hadn't seen for years, solemnness when we thought of Doris Etzler Mathis, whom we missed so much, and wistfulness when we asked about others who were absent because of distance or family responsibilities.
Mickey understood our wanting to get in a lot of "catching up" and graciously asked us to her house for cocktails before the banquet. We were so caught up in the web of "do you remember" that we almost were late for dinner. The ballroom at the Emerson was beautiful and as there were twelve of us present we almost filled two tables.

Joining in the gaiety were Shirley Byers—now teaching school; Gladys Foster Smith—who has four children; Sara Hollister Whiting—talked of her little boy and girl; Pauline Cope—finishing her credits at Johns Hopkins University for her degree; Tillie Logan Richards—keeping busy with her two boys and Buzz's general practice in Port Deposit; Karolyn Shaffer Bair—living in Westminster with her family; Ruth Petry Blunt—has a girl and just recently moved into a new home; Mickey Magruder—working as plant nurse for Locke, Department of General Electric; Martha Repp Burleigh—who flew in from Detroit with her husband just for the party leaving her two boys at home. From the February group, Florence Hubbard Tarr—talked about her two sons and joining in with her was Doris Alt Heaver—who also has two boys; Gladys Leonard Poffenberger—who came from Silver Spring, has a little girl; Jean Conrad Woelfel—who flew in from Chicago leaving her three children in Annapolis with the grandparents.

Scattered about the United States and consequently unable to attend—but definitely missed—were Alden Tucker Scarborough, Esther Garrett Cox, Nancy Black Beck, Jane Small, Grace Angleberger Pendleton, Julia Hodges Orofino, Grace Frederick Eckert, Polly Tucker Woodson, Mary Alice Fisher, Nancy Jones Altimier and Emily Ballard. In the February group Betty Beach Eby, Rachel Skiles Davinich, Peggy Loock Gelpi, Ivy Albaugh Morey, and Louise Coard.

To those of you who weren't able to come, we want you to know that you were truly missed. We hope that our next reunion will be even more exciting than this one was and that all will be there.

A GALA EVENING FOR THE CLASS OF MARCH, 1947

By Elizabeth Rohr Singleton

As we gathered around the table for our fifth class reunion, the topics of conversation could be summarized by the two words tempus fugit. It seemed impossible that five years had elapsed since we took off our blue dresses for the last time.

The three divisions of the Class of 1947 were well represented, and we were as delighted to see classmates of the other two sections as we were to see the members of our own March division. Forty-two percent of the March Class of 1947 returned for our fifth reunion. Distance or anticipated progeny prevented the other fifty-eight percent from being with us.

To those of you who were not with us we send greetings—to Ruby in southern Maryland; to Jo in Ohio; to Nancy and Gilly in North Carolina; to Jerry and Kjerstine in Texas; to Lois and Smiley in Severna Park; to Betty Lacey in California; to Reck at Fort Meade, Md.; to Yami in Michigan; to Betty Yewell Schaffer in Bel Air; to Shorty who was unable to come; and to June and Georgia whose blessed events had them otherwise engaged.

We felt that Anne Hubner Cloninger, Mel Maholic Booher and Chris Raab Weber deserve special recognition for their efforts to attend the reunion. All three girls have families—Anne has three children; Mel, two, and Chris has one. Mel and Chris came from far western Pennsylvania and Anne from North Carolina.

We were all interested to know what our classmates were doing, and we spent a busy several hours sharing news about one another. Matrimony and motherhood had top priority on the list of topics for conversation. Our newest bride is Ellen Baggett who became Mrs. John Millar in March, 1952. Dottie Kidd’s beautiful engagement diamond predicts that she will be the next bride.

Looking at us statistically, eighteen of our group have changed Miss to Mrs. Fifteen are now called “mother” by twenty-six offspring. Our postgraduate experiences have carried us into nine major areas:

Homemaking .......... 15
Private Duty .......... 3
Veterans Administration ... 2
Civil Service .......... 1
Public Health .......... 1
Army Nurse Corps ..... 1
Anaesthesiology ....... 1
Pediatrics .......... 1
Nursing Education .... 1

We decided that in the main we had changed very little in these five years. We are older and perhaps a little wiser but the basic personality characteristics of each of us remain the same. Jayne’s laugh is as jolly as ever; Thelma is as poised as she was when we were students; Goldie can still find in most things sufficient humor to stimulate a hearty giggle; Rusty’s lovely red hair continues to give her the appearance of a youngster just out of high school; and Tish is still able to keep us entertained with wonderfully interesting anecdotes.

From those of us who were here to those of you who would like to have been here, we send our best wishes for health, wealth and happiness in the years which will pass before our tenth reunion. Those who enjoyed the evening together were:

Ellen Baggett Millar
Jayne Brown Johnson
Anne Hubner Cloninger
Ethel Groves Brandon
Dorothy Eleanor Kidd
Thelma Kleckner
Mildred Maholic Booher
Christine Raab Weber
Mary Jane Reiblich
Bette Rohr Singleton
Rosemary Tisci

Isabelle Hollapeter Chenowith
Gloria Smith

Nancy Franklin Hartsock

A card came from Peggy Stine Kaufman, who is in Japan with her army husband. Frances Hicks Van Horn is in Germany. There were notes from many all over the country—Texas, North Carolina, California, Florida. So it is easy to see why there were so few of us in Baltimore at the banquet.

The dances that followed was very enjoyable but somehow we have all been converted from jitterbugs to waltzers. It was so grand to see everyone again and we sincerely hope more of us will be together in the years to come.
JANET HALE MEMORIAL SCHOLARSHIP

The Janet Hale Memorial Scholarship which has been awarded in the past by the Alumnae Association to the member of the graduating class having the highest average in scholarship is discontinued, due to the fact that so few of those awarded the scholarship took advantage of it. Instead, each year the Alumnae Association is making an award of $50 to the student maintaining the highest average in scholarship, in addition to making available $300 for scholarship purposes to those who wish to continue their education.

Those interested in applying for use of this fund should apply to Mrs. Nancy Craven Sheppard, secretary of the Education Committee. Recommendations for the granting of the funds are made by the Education Committee to the Executive Committee, which in turn grants the scholarship.

Miss White writes: "When I was in Jacksonville, I was stationed with Mary Alice Miller. She was in the October Class of 1947. Neither one knew the other was in the Navy. We had a good time talking over 'University days.' Miss Miller is now stationed in Charleston, S. C."

Miss Louise D. Milton, Class 1900, is residing at the Uplands Home for Church Women, located at 4501 Old Frederick Road, Baltimore, Md. Miss Milton is very happy in her new home, and invites all of the nurses to come and see her.

One Friday evening in April Miss Bernice Conner, Class 1912, showed the pictures of her world tour last summer and told us many amusing incidents of the trip. Following the pictures and lecture a reception in her honor was held in the living room of the Nurses' Home and refreshments were served.
Thelma M. Jones, Class 1941, who is stationed at Robin’s Air Base, Georgia, received the always welcome news of her promotion to Captain in the A.N.C. in April.

On Tuesday evening, May 13, our Alumnae were represented on the University of Maryland television series on station WBAL-TV. We were represented as a part of the hospital family. Miss Flora Streett, Class 1938, our President, gave a brief history of the Alumnae Association and also gave a brief history of our Florence Nightingale Cap. Miss Jean Crow, Class 1947, modeled our modern-day uniform and cap. Miss Thelma Grove, Class 1949, modeled the old cap and the uniform of the class period of 1913 loaned by Miss Martha Mallon, Class 1913. The program continued on to show the hospital family and through the medium of a short movie tried to give the public an idea of how many persons come into direct and indirect contact with a patient during his stay in the hospital.

First Lt. and Mrs. V. E. Van Horn, Jr., are now stationed at Camp Polk, La. They returned from Europe early in the summer after several years of duty abroad. Mrs. Van Horn was Frances M. Hicks, Class 1947.

Mrs. Emma Mergardt Stow, Class 1894, has been confined to the Deer’s Head Hospital, Salisbury, Md., for a fracture of her hip.

Mrs. Henry V. Guhlman, Jr., formerly Florence Laws, Class 1944, writes: “How happy I was to receive your personal letter requesting my address so that I could receive the 1952 Bulletin. It might be of interest to some of the Alumnae, especially the Class of 1944, of which I was a member, to know that we are living in Jefferson City, Mo., with our daughter, Patricia Ann, born November 1950. My husband is practicing neurology and psychiatry, a real pioneer job in this community, but there is a real need and it is indeed a challenge. I am proud of the fact that in our efforts to stimulate interest in a mental health program for the state, we are able to use Maryland as an example of one of the more progressive states in this field.

“We are on the main East-West route and I would be so happy to have any of the Alumnae going through to the coast stop over and see us.”

Lt. Marguerite W. Foster, A.N.C., Class 1939, has been promoted to Captain, and is stationed in Munich, Germany. Captain Foster expects to remain abroad for three years.

Miss Amanda V. Crew, Class 1947, is on the Staff of Prince George’s County, Md., doing Public Health Nursing. Miss Crew is living in Hyattsville, Md.

Word has come in that Miss Velma Kish, Class 1923, received her Master’s degree from the University of Michigan in 1946. She then took a position with California Hospital in Los Angeles. Since she has joined the staff the student body has tripled and both the degree program and the non-degree program have been set up. With all this she has found the time to teach at the University of Southern California and also at the Los Angeles City College. Besides being teacher she has been student and has completed about one-fourth of the necessary requirements for her Doctorate degree. May we say that we are proud of Miss Kish’s achievements though she is prone to say “it’s nothing.”

Margaret Beall Johnston, Class of 1939, was home on a flying visit. Illness in her immediate family brought her back to us but we were glad something gave her the opportunity for her visit with us. It was like old times to see Margaret bubbling over again.

A lot of news was received on one small postcard from Phyllis Sliney, Class of 1946. She was married on October 20, 1951, in Livorno, Italy, to Dr. Robert E. Lee who was stationed there in the Army. They returned home in May of 1952 and she settled down to the duties of housewife and mother in Framingham, Mass. Yes, mother! Their son, Patrick James, was born on August 10, 1952. Congratulations and good wishes, Mrs. Lee.

Freda Fazenbaker Gill, Class 1929, writes from Kingsport, Tenn., that after an illness this summer she is gradually getting back on her feet. She is one of the supervisors in the Director’s Office of the Holston Valley Community Hospital, and is teaching an advanced course in Medical and Surgical Nursing to Practical Nurses. She also writes us that Edith Hilbert Mann, Class 1945, is in charge of the Emergency room at Holston Valley Community Hospital. Of course they find much to talk about whenever they get together.

Grace Colburn Hunter, Class 1948, writes that they are moving to Wright Patterson Field in Dayton, Ohio. She tells that they have managed to make quite a tour of the country in the past two years. She took time out from her travels to welcome a son, Robert, Jr., on January 5, 1952. Congratulations, Dr. and Mrs. Hunter.

Ellen Sirman LiPira, Class 1946, writes that they are pulling up stakes since her husband has been called into the service. They are expecting to go to Sacramento, California, first. Best wishes in your new adventures and hurry back to Baltimore.

She is carrying on her husband’s business and finds additional time to belong to an Executive Club, of which she is a charter member and one of the two women members. She has also found time for a Poetry Club and a Painting Club. Besides all this she squeezes in lectures on “Be Kind to Animals,” introducing films and magazines, in the county schools. With all of these she writes back about other people’s energies. Many of us wish we were able to maintain one of her activities.

Mrs. Burgess graduated in June, 1949, and through some error her name was not included in the graduating class. We are happy to state everything is all right now with the records. Thank you, Doris Royer Burgess.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph E. Bankert moved to 1 Landers Lane, Swanwyck Gardens, in New Castle, Delaware, in April, 1952. Mrs. Bankert was Eva Laigneil, Class 1930.

Lackland, Nannie Jacqueline
Class 1898, on September 3, 1952

The Alumnae Association mourns the loss of an outstanding member in the death in Charlestown, W. Va., on September 3, 1952, of Nannie Jacqueline Lackland, Class 1898, prominent in nursing circles in West Virginia, North Carolina, the District of Columbia, Oregon, Missouri, and Mississippi as well as in Maryland. Through her long, useful life, she was greatly appreciated, too, for her civic activities. A biographical sketch of Miss Lackland’s numerous achievements appeared in the 1948 Nurses’ Alumnae Bulletin.

Word has been received that Miss Lackland has provided in her will for bequests to the Alumnae Association for the student nurses’ Library and to our Sick Benefit Fund.

YOUR HEALTH AND ACCIDENT PROTECTION

On June 1, 1947, through the Nurses' Alumnae Association of the University of Maryland, a plan was inaugurated to give its members actively engaged in their profession, a monthly income to replace earnings in the event of disability through accident or illness.

The plan, operated by the MASSACHUSETTS BONDING AND INSURANCE COMPANY, provides income up to $120 monthly, covering all diseases. There are no discriminations regarding female disorders, but pregnancy, miscarriage and abortions are not covered. All operations and accidents are covered. Up to 60 years of age, $80.00 monthly may be had with no reference to prior medical history. Payments begin the first day in event of accident, the seventh day in illness. Hospitalization has been added.

Members, including recent graduates, may join the plan on the anniversary date, June 1, 1953.

For further particulars and application forms, communicate with the State Representative, Ethel M. Troy, 17 Light Street, Baltimore 2, Maryland, or directly with the Dana G. Hall Agency, 123 William Street, New York 7, New York.

I wish to thank every member for her continued support and cooperation during the past year. Each officer and committee did a good job. We had some very interesting and educational programs.

The banquet and dance was very well attended and enjoyed. The committee deserves much praise for its time and efforts expended to make it a success.

We had a number of articles donated for the Needlework Guild, but we are under our quota this year. Let us all remember to give our articles next year and to try to make the quota. This is a very worthy group and deserves our wholehearted support.

The Fall Festival, given for the benefit of the Scholarship Fund, was very successful and we added about $1600 to that fund. Everyone worked very hard for the affair and I wish to thank the members of each committee, as well as those who patronized us. The student nurses and members from the other schools of the University in Baltimore were more than generous in their participation in the Variety Show. It was a gala affair and those who missed it really did miss a good show. Now that we have gotten into the spirit of the show it would be a good idea to have one every year. I am sure we can find some fund in the Association to which we can add a few dollars.

Thank you again for your support and for the honor of serving as the president of your Association for the past three years.
With the death on October 7, 1953, of Mrs. John Francis Lutz, the Nurses' Alumnae Association lost one of its most loyal and faithful members.

Born Anna Caryle Robinson, she was a graduate of the 1917 class and from student days was always affectionately known as "Bobby."

She served overseas with the Army Nurse Corps in World War I. While on duty with the U. S. Army Base Hospital No. 69 at Savenay, France, she was selected to nurse Miss Jane A. Delano, Director of Nurses, American National Red Cross, in what was Miss Delano's last illness and was entrusted afterwards with delivering Miss Delano's papers and personal possessions to National Headquarters in Washington, D. C.

In 1921 Miss Robinson was married to Dr. John Francis Lutz, a 1914 graduate of the University of Maryland School of Medicine, now Professor of Histology there.

Their only child, a daughter, is Mrs. Charles G. Morgan of Durham, N. C. Mrs. Morgan, following in her mother's steps, graduated from the School of Nursing in 1946. Her son, John Frederick Morgan, was born in Durham on October 10, 1953.

In 1941 Mrs. Lutz returned to the University Hospital, in charge of the Dressing Room on the Operating Floor, in which position she served until her death.

Throughout her years Mrs. Lutz lived by her Christian ideals. Her charm was instantly impressive, her voice gentle and soothing, her blue eyes twinkling. Association with her always gave encouragement and stimulation to others.

Besides having been active as a member and officer of the Nurses' Alumnae Association, Mrs. Lutz was a member of the Women's Guild of St. Bartholomew's Protestant Episcopal Church, Baltimore, and a member of The Woman's Club of Ten Hills.

Funeral services were held October 12, 1953, in St. Bartholomew's Church, The Rev. Jack Malpas officiating. Burial was in Arlington National Cemetery.
Mrs. Margaret Massey Winslow
MARGARET MASSEY WINSLOW

By Virginia C. Conley, '40

On June 5, 1953, Margaret Massey Winslow celebrated her fiftieth anniversary as a graduate of the University of Maryland School of Nursing.

Mrs. Winslow was graduated from the School of Nursing in 1903. During the following year she engaged in private duty nursing until she became the wife of Dr. Nathan Winslow.

In September, 1917, Mrs. Winslow became the first housemother of the Nurses' Residence and served in that capacity until 1920. While she has not been in active nursing since that time, Mrs. Winslow has made invaluable contributions to nursing.

Margaret Winslow served several terms as a member of the Board of Directors of the Maryland State Nurses' Association. She also served as treasurer of the Nurses' Alumnae Association from 1903-1920. She served as a member of the Advisory Committee of the School of Nursing from 1947 until the committee was dissolved in 1950.

Mrs. Winslow has exhibited a keen interest in the library of the School of Nursing, which has been evidenced by her generous contributions.

On the occasion of her fiftieth anniversary it seems fitting to extend a word of gratitude to Mrs. Winslow for her interest and loyalty to the University of Maryland.
NEW METHODS IN THE NURSING OF CHILDREN

FLORENCE M. GIPE, ED. D.
Dean, School of Nursing, University of Maryland

One of the most important phases of the Nursing of Children is to keep the child happy. Research studies show that many individuals who become maladjusted during their childhood have later become patients in hospitals for the mentally ill. Any long term illness wherein the child is retarded in his school work could be a decisive factor of maladjustment in later life.

During hospitalization, which is often several years in duration, the child grows physically and to an extent mentally. But this mental growth, unless it is carefully directed through scientific methods of teaching, may result only in an awareness of things immediately around him or of a children’s nursing unit. The child may acquire undesirable habits as well as desirable ones. For this reason, provision should be made in a well managed children’s department to have facilities wherein the child can live and work in as normal an environment as possible. He should also keep in touch through books and visual aids with things in the world outside.

During the past year a new addition has been made to the children’s ward of the University Hospital. Some of the space has been assigned for offices for the medical school and nursing school faculty. One room has been assigned as a small dining room for children who are ambulatory patients; another important addition has been a small equipped schoolroom with desks, a special blackboard and bookcase. An educationally prepared elementary school teacher has been employed on a full time basis to teach the children and to keep them on the same learning level as that of the regular school pupils. When the child returns to his home, the university teacher contacts his grade teacher who looks over his work and places him in his achieved grade. Through this method, embarrassment as to over-agedness in grade placements will be prevented. The child usually reacts normally with his group since his experiences will be similar to those of his classmates.

This phase of medicine and nursing education is considered to be preventive as well as curative. All professional nurses in the future will be prepared in one way or another to give health counseling and guidance to families as well as to personnel who are allied with the health team.

Accreditation

The School of Nursing in July, 1953 underwent a thorough survey by the Accrediting Board of the National League for Nursing. The survey lasted from July 6-11 inclusive. The program of interest was the three year diploma course with a general overview of the college program.

On December 7, a letter was received stating that the Collegiate Board has approved the School of Nursing for full accreditation of its diploma program. Meanwhile, as soon as our first class graduates in the collegiate program, it will also be eligible for full approval. The name University of Maryland School of Nursing will be included on the accredited list which will be published in February, 1955.
"INTERNSHIPS IN NURSING"*

The basic purpose of an internship must be the education of the intern, and the provision of service is purely incidental to the achievement of this purpose.

By CLARENCE A. NEWELL†

FLORENCE M. Gipe‡

Several professions are now attempting to introduce or to improve internships for prospective professional workers. These include such divergent fields as hospital administration, dietetics, teaching, social work, the ministry, library science, school administration, and public administration. Even the field of medicine, which has utilized internships over a long period of years, is now studying the internship in order to realize its potentialities more completely.

In nursing, as in other professions, there is a growing interest in internships. It is believed that they might be highly beneficial as an important part of the professional education for those who are preparing to be deans of nursing schools, professors of nursing education, directors of nursing service, supervisors and head nurses, and specialists in various clinical areas.

If internships are to be offered in nursing, careful attention must be devoted to the kinds of experiences that are to be provided. Experience in other professions indicates that there may be bad internships as well as good ones.

An internship program in nursing can be justified only if it ultimately results in better nursing care for patients. In the past, nursing has often been provided largely on a custodial basis. Rather generally, nurses have been thought of as menial workers who are to follow orders without question, and nursing education as a way of providing supplementary nursing service at low cost.

Nurses must learn to respect themselves as competent professional workers in their own right. Today a competent nurse ministers to the total needs of the patient—mental and emotional as well as physical. Satisfying personal relationships must be a primary concern of effective nursing service. The need for developing such personal relationships, growing out of the new emphasis on mental health, indicates that nursing must become a profession in fact if it is to provide the type of care that patients need.

The recent emergence of nursing as a profession emphasized the need for sound internship programs, especially for the nurses who plan to prepare for more specialized work. For example, if nurses are to maintain satisfying personal relationships, their administrators and supervisors must promote personal security and secure cooperation through democratic leadership rather than through threats or other autocratic devices. Internships as well as other phases of the educational programs which prepare nurses for administrative and supervisory positions must help them to develop the needed competencies.

What then, is an internship? How should an internship be designed? What kinds of experiences should be provided? How long should an internship last? How should the institution be selected? How should the internship be supervised? What about university credit or a salary? It is difficult to answer these questions. Not only are there many intangibles involved, but there is no clear agreement regarding the kinds of skills and understandings that are needed for successful performance in the various nursing areas.

Nevertheless, we must find the answers to these and other questions if internships in nursing are to achieve their greatest potential value. We recognize that these may be partial and tentative answers:

What Is an Internship? An internship in administration has been defined "as a phase of professional education in which a student nearing the completion of his formal preparation works in the field under competent supervision for a considerable block of time for the purpose of developing competence in carrying administrative responsibilities."

An important aspect of this definition is the emphasis on professional education. An internship must not be a period of temporary employment designed to secure the repeated performance of routine duties at a low cost to the institution providing the internship. On the other hand, the basic purpose of an internship must be the education of the intern, and the provision of service must be purely incidental to the achievement of this basic purpose.

2 Ibid., p. 4.
school or department of nursing in a university or college which might well invite the cooperating hospitals or other agencies to help in developing such provisions.

An intern in nursing would be an experienced student at the graduate level, and would normally work under a field practitioner in a position of the type for which she is preparing. For example, a nurse preparing to be a director of nursing service would work under a director of nursing service. The field practitioner, of course, would be highly competent in her particular area and would also be qualified to take part in this type of educational program.

A tentative plan for the internship experience might be worked out first by the intern, and might then be reworked cooperatively by the intern, the field practitioner, a representative of the school or department of nursing, and any other persons who might contribute effectively in such planning. The plan should indicate the competencies to be developed and some appropriate activities for developing such competences, but should provide flexibility so that the intern can meet the day-by-day demands of the particular position for which she is preparing.

What Kinds of Experience Should Be Provided? It is imperative that the intern should carry the same kind of responsibilities in the internship experience that she would carry in the actual position, if the internship is to be meaningful. An intern should be a professional person who can be trusted. Emphasis upon creative thinking, involving activities relating to human relationships, administrative research, and the like would seem preferable to emphasis upon routine activities.

How Long Should an Internship Last? A considerable block of time is necessary; probably an internship should last at least a school year, on a full-time basis.

How Should the Institution Be Selected? The selection of an appropriate learning situation is the responsibility of the nursing school or department which sponsors the internship. It is difficult for any internship to be raised above the field practitioner’s level of thinking. A hospital, school, or other agency may have serious problems, but, if it has administrative vision and competence in dealing with its problems, it may provide superior internship opportunities. It is assumed that internships would be provided only in hospitals or schools of nursing that are approved by the appropriate national accrediting agencies.

How Should an Internship be Supervised? An intern must necessarily be responsible to the field practitioner with whom she is working or confusion will result. The field practitioner, therefore, must be responsible for supervising the daily work of the intern. A university or college should maintain general supervision—through periodic visits to the field and through related seminars—to make sure that the basic purpose of the internship is professional education, and to help provide for sound planning and evaluation of the experience.

What about University Credit or Salary? Formal recognition of the internship as part of the professional program is probably desirable. Such recognition might be achieved by requiring every student to complete an internship, or by granting university credit for it. If university credit is granted, care should be taken to make sure that an internship will supplement rather than replace the regular program of graduate work.

A stipend is desirable to help assure that interns will be selected on the basis of professional ability rather than on the basis of ability to finance additional study. Such a stipend should not be considered a salary paid for service, but, rather, a fellowship for advanced graduate study.

As has been indicated, the emphasis in an internship program must be upon the professional education of the intern rather than upon the service which he might give during the internship. An internship which emphasizes professional education will result in a substantial amount of incidental service, and in addition it should help the intern to provide better service throughout his or her entire professional career. In the long run, the best way an internship can provide service is through the professional education of the intern.

There will probably be many difficult problems involved in providing internships in nursing education. Experience in the other professions suggests, however, that even critical problems can be solved. As internship programs are developed and as problems are encountered and solved, it is hoped that those who meet the problems will share what they have learned in order that all may work together in building a new and vital profession.
The Maryland League for Nursing is very happy to have this opportunity to say "Greetings" to the many alumnae of the University of Maryland School of Nursing. I am sure you are all familiar with the Maryland League for Nursing and know that it is affiliated with the National League, and the purpose is to improve nursing services and to assure the best education for all nurses.

The Maryland League for Nursing is now in its second year. The first was a very busy one with all details that are time-consuming but very important. Those of you who are members have been kept informed by the newsletter. Many of you have been able to attend the meetings sponsored by the League, The Workshop on Nursing Education held in April, the September meeting at Emmittsburg and the combined annual meeting in October.

We are planning many activities for the coming year and we would like to have each of you join us, as we think you will find them enjoyable and profitable. We all are aware of the many problems confronting our profession today, and realize that it is up to us as nurses to solve them because they are nursing problems. When we face them as individuals they are rather overwhelming, but when we join with others we then have the strength of united thinking and united efforts. In this we will find solutions that will benefit both the patients we serve and each of us as nurses.

Membership for both the National and the Maryland League can be gotten from our office at 1215 Cathedral Street. The combined dues are ten dollars ($10.00) a year. Join now as you need the League and the League needs you.

The Tomorrow in Nursing Depends Upon What We Do Today—Let's Do It Together.

THE N.L.N. CONVENTION IN CLEVELAND

By Flora M. Streett
President, Nurses' Alumnae Association

On Wednesday, June 24, at 6.00 a.m., Miss Clara McGovern, Miss Lorraine Neel and I left Baltimore for Cleveland. It was a lovely trip out and we arrived at the Hollander Hotel at 4.00 p.m. with no mishaps. We had dinner at one of the popular restaurants in Cleveland and, being tired from the long trip, we retired early in order to make an early start Thursday to attend the meetings.

Thursday morning we found our way to the Public Auditorium to register and then attended the session on "What is the Focus in Emerging Nurse Education Patterns? What Are Some of the Changes?" Miss Lulu K. Wolf discussed the "Four Academic Year Program"; Miss Rhoda Rettig, the "Conversion of Three-Five Year Curricula to Four Year Pattern"; Miss Anna Gring, "General Nursing Curricula for Graduate Nurses"; Miss Lillian Patterson, "Reorganizing Baccalaureate Programs." It was very interesting to hear the ways in which each of these programs is being handled in the different schools.

We had a quick lunch and visited the exhibits before going to the afternoon meeting of the Department of Hospital Nursing Program. Mr. Robert Crook spoke on "Improvement of Nursing Service Through Improved Inter-Personal and Inter-Group Relationships." He showed us a movie of "Meeting in Session" which compared the right and wrong ways to conduct a word conference. The audience was divided into groups to discuss the different phases of the movie and some very good pro-and-con suggestions developed from the discussion. Following this meeting we watched some movies which could be used in teaching.

Friday morning we attended the closing business meeting, with Miss Ruth Sleeper, president of the N.L.N., presiding. In the afternoon we took a sightseeing tour around Cleveland and Lakewood and then we succumbed to a woman's weakness and went on a shopping tour.

We left Cleveland at noon on Saturday, heading back to Baltimore. We made a couple of wrong turns trying to get out of town and we were finally escorted out by the Police Department. It was a very interesting and enjoyable trip and the meetings were very enlightening. This is just a brief resume of a few days of the convention. You will find a more detailed report in the July 1953 issue of the American Journal of Nursing.
MARYLAND ATTENDS THE FIRST INTERNATIONAL CONGRESS ON MEDICAL LIBRARIANSHIP

Every year the professional schools of the University of Maryland send one or more members from their library staffs to the national meeting of the Medical Library Association in this country. In 1953, when plans were announced for the First International Congress on Medical Librarianship, it was decided to send the medical librarian, Mrs. Ida Marian Robinson, to London to represent our libraries of medicine, nursing, dentistry, and pharmacy at the congress. The term “medical librarianship,” used in its broadest sense, includes all fields of the health sciences; thus the congress specifically covered librarianship in relation to nursing.

Since this was the first congress of its kind, some uncertainty had been felt about the possible response of medical librarians throughout the world. It was therefore especially gratifying that the excellent planning of our British medical colleagues resulted in the attendance of three hundred fifteen medical librarians from thirty-two countries. Every continent was represented, with New Zealand the most distant point sending a delegate. As might be expected, the largest membership was from the British Isles; the United States was second, with more than forty representatives.

Sir Cecil Wakeley acted as president of the congress, and honorary vice presidents were named from various parts of the world. At the opening session, after the presidential address each vice president was introduced and brought greetings from his country and organization. The Director of our Armed Forces Medical Library, the largest medical library in the world, was among the speakers.

Daily sessions of the congress were held at the University of London. Symposia covered such subjects as “The Role of the Medical Librarian in the World Today”; “Education and Training for Medical Librarianship”; “Centralization of Medical Library Resources”; “International Cooperation.” French and English were the official languages of the congress, with an interpreter and translator present to give résumés.

The sessions for scientific papers were supplemented by extensive displays, both at the congress headquarters and in London libraries. An exhibit was held at the British Medical Association Library, showing 2,200 current medical periodicals of the world, divided by broad subject into medicine, nursing, dentistry, pharmacy, etc. Medical books and library equipment were displayed at University College. The history of medical libraries was covered by an exhibit at the Wellcome Historical Medical Library, and space was provided there also for a sixty-foot display of the United States Armed Forces Medical Library, showing its scope and services.

Members of the congress were extensively entertained by medical organizations, including the Royal College of Surgeons, the Ciba Foundation, the British Medical Association, the Royal Society of Medicine, the Royal College of Obstetricians, the Worshipful Society of Apothecaries, the Wellcome Research Institution, and the Royal College of Physicians. Some of these organizations are housed in historic buildings of great interest, not usually open to the public.

It had been suggested that the final session of the congress be devoted to organizing an international medical library association. When the time came, however, it was the general agreement of the members that such an organization would take more preliminary consideration and planning than had been possible in the preceding week. It was therefore decided that a committee would be chosen to plan the next international congress, perhaps five years hence, and at that time to present suggested plans for an international organization. Accordingly a committee of nine members was elected, representing various countries. A former president of our Medical Library Association is the representative from the United States.

The most stimulating aspect of the congress was the contact with colleagues from all parts of the world. In the past several years, medical librarians from other countries have had fellowships in the United States (many of them through the program of the Medical Library Association) and have visited the University of Maryland medical science libraries to observe our methods. Several of these old friends from other countries were present at the congress, so that there were daily reunions. Other European and South American librarians "known" through correspondence in the past were there; thus friendships started on paper became more personal. In addition, so many new professional contacts were made that our international ties are greatly increased.

Maryland is a state rich in libraries of the medical sciences, yet the representative from the University of Maryland was the only Maryland librarian present at the congress. It is gratifying that the University has a broad international outlook and makes it possible for our libraries to promote worldwide friendships.

Ida Marian Robinson.
LIBRARY REPORT

The School of Nursing Library is progressing steadily in its acquisition of scientific materials, books, and journals; thereby making it possible to increase the services, and more adequately meet the demands of its patrons. Library services are directed not only to the school, its students and faculty, but also to students outside the school with an interest in the profession of nursing.

At the time of this report there are 2,325 scientific books in the library collection, and 560 volumes of fiction. Journals, both scientific and popular, along with vertical file material form an invaluable part of the library holdings.

A few statistics taken from the annual report of 1952-53 will show in part some of the services rendered. The total of “Reserve” (overnight) book loans is 1,251; total of weekly loans is 466; reference questions answered 56; search questions 10.

An item of interest, one which constitutes a major improvement in the library, is the installation of an indirect lighting system. Lighting is now adequate throughout the reading room, to the freely expressed satisfaction of all concerned. Another item concerns the extension of hours during which the library is open—this to provide maximum service to patrons. The library is now open, under supervision, from 7.30 a.m. to 10 p.m., Monday through Friday; Saturday from 7.30 a.m. to 12.30 noon.

The library is indebted to many friends for gifts of books, both scientific and fiction, as well as popular magazines. Sincere appreciation is here expressed to all who have made these gifts possible, through their kind interest and generosity.

The library looks forward to continued growth and enrichment of its collections, and to the expansion of its services.

SIMONE C. HURST.
THE FALL FESTIVAL

By Ethel M. Troy, Chairman

The report of the financial gain from our Fall Festival surprises and pleases us all. With small sums still being received, principally in payment of program advertisements, the present computation reveals Sixteen Hundred and Five ($1605.00) Dollars put into the Scholarship Fund.

But more valuable than the money are the other benefits accruing from the enterprise. They are innumerable, but we cherish the memory of our pleasure in working together, in getting to know each other "out of uniform" as it were, and in realizing the need for other similar projects to help attain our recognized objectives.

There were disappointments and frustrations—oh yes, but they were minimized by the energy expended to meet the responsibilities and they are forgotten in retrospect.

Remember the years when the Alumnae Association planned a benefit each fall to balance the spring "wing-ting" of the Women's Board? Since we had neglected that routine recently the machinery was a bit rusty, but by a few applications of the oil of friendliness and mutual interest, chairmen and committee members were found who spared no time or effort to insure the success of the venture.

Trips to various government offices to secure required licenses and hoped-for tax exemptions were made by various members, and after considerable (lost) motion were finally procured in order.

An unexpected complication regarding the date of our reservation for the quarters in the Psychiatric Building threw the group into a flurry, but reassurance from the Director of the Hospital was forthcoming and we were able to proceed with our plans.

The highlight of the two evenings was the Variety Show—shining with a brilliance not to be surpassed by a professional group. Our actors were members of the Association, graduate nurses associated with us in the school and hospital, students of the School of Nursing as well as graduates and students from Medicine, Dentistry, Pharmacy, and Law. Friends from other areas added their talents and we who looked on were amazed and impressed at the excellence of the performance, especially since there was only limited time available to whip the program into shape. The director, the cast, and the musicians merit our unstinted praise. "Old grads" will be in-interested to know that the music maestro was none other than the bugler with the U.S.A. Base Hospital No. 42 at Bazoilles-sur-Meuse in World War I—(small world)!

The bazaar was held in the foyer and left-hand corridor on the first floor where we "got them coming and going." Beautiful baked goods, Christmas cards and wrappings, flowers and plants, handiwork, and novelties were set out amidst decorations of yellow and black—remember?—the Maryland colors.

The Parcel Post Packages gave out-of-town members their opportunity to shine—and shine they did! The "grab-bag" element of suspense and surprise cleared out that booth in good style.

As for the sweepstakes! The postal regulation which prohibits mailing anything pertaining to chances somewhat restricted the aims of that committee, but the cooperation of members and friends in carrying out the books by hand—and bringing back the money by handful—took that committee well "over-the-top."

The dancing following the show each evening was another occasion for companionship that was much enjoyed.

Would that it were possible to name each person who helped. To do so would require great space, and for fear that some one person might be inadvertently overlooked, we must be content with expressing our thanks to everyone—and each one knows what contribution in time, energy, interest, money, imagination, talent, transportation, or "footwork" he or she made. The President and the officers, chairmen, committee members, students, associates, friends—all helped.

Throughout the house one hears, "Next fall let's do—," "Please let me help again next time," "We should do something like this every year!" Shall we?
ROBERT BRUCE DODD, M.D.

Department of Anesthesia

Doctor Dodd, Professor of Anesthesiology and Head of the Department of Anesthesia at University Hospital, was born in Fairbury, "The Best Town by a Dam Site," in Nebraska.

As a young child he had already resolved to embark upon a medical career. While still in grade school he wrote a theme reflecting his interest in that profession. His father, a railroad engineer, encouraged that interest.

Having finished his basic education in Fairbury, Dr. Dodd attended the University of Chicago for two years, and the University of Nebraska for one year. He was then qualified to enter the University of Nebraska School of Medicine, where he received his M.D. During his internship at the Research and Educational Hospitals of the University of Illinois, he began to realize the vast potentialities in the field of anesthesia. The following year he began specialized training in this field, continuing this training while in the military service and later at Massachusetts General Hospital.

He became increasingly interested in anesthesia because of its possibilities for development and investigative work, and because of the contributions that a Medical Anesthetist can make, through his specialized knowledge, to the care of both surgical and medical patients.

In Milwaukee, Wisconsin, two events occurred which altered and further enriched Dr. Dodd's life: he arranged through Dr. K. Beecher to serve a year of residency at the Massachusetts General Hospital; and he met and married Mary Karl.

From Massachusetts, Dr. Dodd went to Dallas, Texas, where he assisted Dr. M. T. Jenkins in organizing a program for residency training at Parkland Hospital.

Dr. Dodd's experience has been primarily in the clinical rather than in the research field. His plans for the University of Maryland Hospital are to set up a good clinical department of Anesthesiology, to establish a good teaching program in the Medical School and Hospital, and to institute investigative work in Anesthesiology and allied fields. He hopes to have Anesthesia residents in training by July of 1954, and to have several research projects underway by the following year.
Dr. Dodd has been warmly received by the faculty of the Medical School and the Staff of the University Hospital. He is very much impressed by this, and is grateful for the cooperation given him by both groups.

He learned about the vacancy in our Anesthesia Department through Dr. Beecher, while attending the annual meeting of the American Society of Anesthesiologists in November of 1952. Dr. Beecher had been assisting the Maryland Faculty Committee in the organizing of policy for the Anesthesia Department, and requested that Dr. Dodd come to University to be interviewed. Dr. Dodd was so impressed by the sincerity of the Committee members in their desire to set up a good department of Anesthesia, and by the tremendous possibilities for developing this department, that he decided to accept the position if it were offered him.

Dr. Dodd's cumbersome duties have been alleviated somewhat by the arrival of an assistant, Dr. Paul R. Hackett, M.D., of the Western Reserve University School of Medicine. Perhaps Dr. Dodd, an ardent football fan, will now be able to cheer the "Terrapins" to victory.
GREETINGS FROM AN ARMY WIFE

Dear Alumnae:

I can hardly believe that nine years have flown by since I graduated from the University Hospital. They have been busy and interesting years, a combination of travel and work. As you may recall, I sailed to Shanghai in 1946 to join my husband, and from there we were transferred to Japan in 1947. We enjoyed that tour in the Far East a great deal, and I spent a year working as a civilian nurse in an Army hospital during that time. We returned to the U.S.A. in 1949, and while in Washington, D.C., I worked nine months at Casualty Hospital. Finally, I decided that experience in another line of work could be useful, and I became a clerk-typist at Andrews Field and, at the same time, took a shorthand course at night. When we were transferred to Mountain Home, Idaho, I secured a position as stenographer at the Base. I have found that many Air Force bases will not employ civilian nurses and yet they always need stenographers, so that now I always manage to keep busy with one type of work or the other. I went back to nursing last summer, while waiting for my orders to Clark, but now plan to return to secretarial work, as it's the same old story here—no use for civilian nurses!

There is little to tell you of the Phillipine Islands for the simple reason that I haven't seen much of it. Due to the Huk situation, we are quite restricted to the Base, and can only travel to Manila or Baguio, and then during the daylight hours only. Clark Field is in the middle of a Huk-infested area, and we often hear machine guns blazing just eight miles from here. Our living quarters are very nice and we have all the household help we want at the rate of $15.00 per month per person. The food situation is adequate, considering nearly everything we eat must be shipped over, but most of us are raising small gardens in our back-yards to supplement the lack of fresh vegetables. Recreation appears to be centered around golf and bridge, but, so far, I must admit I have not taken up either one. I do a little textile painting and have a license to operate an amateur radio, so have tried to keep busy that way. However, I plan to go back to work in a month or two before I vegetate altogether.

This summary, I think, brings you up to date on the doings of one old graduate. Thanks so much for taking the time to write such a nice letter.

FIRST TRIP TO EUROPE
September 28 — October 31, 1952

BY WANDA GREGORIUS COULBOURNE, '51

We have all heard people remark that they would prefer seeing the United States first before visiting foreign countries. However, my advice would be, “Go to Europe first.” There is the beginning of world history, civilization and culture. From there we have borrowed and developed our own culture. Then see our own country, and you will admire it more and understand it better.

Many people have asked me how I managed to go to Europe alone and wondered how I could afford it. The members of the tour I traveled with were strangers at first, but I believe we all felt as though there were a common bond among us and soon became very friendly.

As to the financial side of the trip, well, any single girl could afford it if she would earnestly save her money. It’s surprising how fast a bank account can grow in six months if one has a real incentive.

Now for the trip. You can imagine how excited I was when I embarked on the R.M.S. Queen Mary, with the realization that I was actually going to sail to Europe. I wondered how on earth I was going to avoid getting lost on this gigantic ship. It wasn’t long after that I realized that that’s what the signs and arrows were for. There was an air of anticipation and festivity all over the ship, and the English service was wonderful. Even the food was, when I noticed it.

Going out on deck at night is my favorite memory of the trip across. The wind was blowing sixty miles an hour, but once we reached the rail, after plowing through the gales, it was exhilarating. All we could see were millions of stars, the lights on the ship, the vast black ocean, and the whitecaps beating against the bow. The differences between spending five days at a resort hotel or on the Queen Mary are that, of course, when you went out on deck you knew you weren’t at a resort hotel, and at times it was very difficult to keep one’s equilibrium.

We reached Cherbourg and took the train for Paris. All during that ride I tried in vain to convince myself that I was really in France.
As Benjamin Franklin said, "Everyone dreams a dream and calls it Paris." It was my dream come true. My first impression of Paris was its appearing antiquity. I felt like I was in another century. The city is really beautiful, with its tree-lined, wide avenues and narrow, crooked streets. Art is everywhere you look, from the fashionable art galleries on the Right Bank to the one-man exhibits in the street on the Left Bank.

The Louvre Museum, which surrounds the lovely Tuileries Gardens and is situated in the Ancient Residence of the Kings of France, I surveyed with awe and thought of the wealth of art which has been stored here for centuries. Two afternoons I spent at the Musée du Jeu de Paume, the building which houses the works of the Impressionists—the group that is responsible for the illusion built up around the Latin Quarter today. This is the international center for students, potential artists and escapists from all over the world, and is very colorful.

The Opera House is palatial with its great staircase and regal, if faded, plush red decor. We saw four stories from the imagination of Rameau enacted on stage, and every one was a spectacle of gorgeous scenery and magnificent costumes. In one scene, a volcano exploded, and you thought it was real. In another scene we counted sixty huge chandeliers on stage.

Notre Dame Cathedral is beautiful and reminded me of a great haunted church. Its ancient stained glass windows and famed rose window, immense ceiling and numerous chapels seem to echo events of the past. Notre Dame overlooks the Seine River, one of the most romantic and idealized rivers in the world.

To me the French people are gay, friendly, seem to talk a mile a minute and are almost overly polite when they discover you are American, the shopkeepers mainly. They dress almost exclusively in dark clothes, for economy's sake, and their food is a gourmet's, or anyone else's, delight. Pastries are miniature works of art. You dine at seven or after, with tea at a Salon de Thé between five and seven.

Shopkeepers will always open the door for you when you leave, a courtesy rather unusual to us, but a custom over there.

The two most important or beneficial things to know in Paris are your French and your francs.

The trip to Switzerland from Paris, which took approximately eight hours, was uncomfortable even in a first class compartment. All compartments on this train held six persons. The only difference in "class compartments," outside of the graduating fees, is that in third class the seats are wooden, in first class they are faded plush, and in second class they are plush but don't have the separating arms between seats. The service is essentially the same.

On arriving at Lucerne at dawn, I received the impression that here was the most picturesque little village I had ever seen. Fishing boats were tied up at the wharves, masses of brilliant-hued flowers were to be seen everywhere, and the air was clear and pungent. I was warmly welcomed at the Palace Hotel and the view from my rooms was breathtaking. They overlooked the beautiful Lake of Lucerne, with the rugged grandeur of the snow-capped Alps in the background. You were almost overwhelmed by the cleanliness of the city, and one could go window-shopping for hours looking at the displays of clocks, china figurines, and exquisite hand embroidery.

We climbed the Alps one day, not literally, but with the help of a cog train, and at one point it was actually snowing. The weather was brisk, and the scenery was indescribable. On the way up to the Jungfrau, one of the highest Alps in Switzerland, we all stared incredulously at the gorgeous panorama of color. One could see miles across the landscape, and the colors of the foliage ranged from brilliant yellow to the deepest crimson. We had lunch while a Swiss couple played the accordion and yodeled their native songs.

Lucerne seemed to pull in its sidewalks at seven p.m., and the streets were deserted. The tourist season had been over two weeks previously. Switzerland is reminiscent of Florida, with European architecture and flavor.

We traveled on to Amsterdam. I was struck by its quaintness and Old World atmosphere, too.

We visited the Rijksmuseum there and saw Rembrandt's immortal "Night Watch," which had been hidden from the Germans during World War II.

The living cost in Holland is extremely low, and you could rent a modern, immaculate apartment for fourteen dollars per month. However, our guide informed us that it took his week's wages to buy one white shirt. He also could not understand where or how Americans originated the word "Dutch," when they consider themselves Hollanders. It was evident in many instances that they still hold a vivid picture of the Nazi occupation in their minds.

Volendam, a small suburb of Amsterdam, is reputed to be the cleanest in Holland and there they still dress in native costume, black and white during the week, and more colorful costumes on Sundays, complete with wooden shoes. The visit there made one feel like a real character in a Hans Christian Andersen story.
We stopped at The Hague, known as the “millionaires’ row” before the war, on our way to the night steamer bound for England. Dinner at the House of Lords was a lasting memory. The food was delicious, violinists played at our tables, and dessert consisted of huge baskets and floral designs all made out of spun sugar in striking colors, banked with pastries which looked too good to eat.

London appeared reserved, staid and dignified, a correct first impression. Blocks of bombed-out ruins can still be observed. Candy and meat can only be had with ration coupons, and the food generally is what one expects it to be—not very good.

Sightseeing in London is truly interesting but one gets a rather eerie feeling, so much are the past kings and queens revered. You feel as though the royal family and tradition are what holds the English together.

Night life in London is void since it consists mainly of private clubs and parties.

I was grateful for one thing in London—for four days out of my entire trip I was warm, when I wasn’t out in the consistent rain and fog. The Savoy Hotel supplied heat.

Of course, from there I had to return to Paris. As someone said, “When one gets there, how can one leave?” Sheer necessity was my reason finally.

Paris, truly the city of light, culture and gaiety, with its crazy non-traffic-regulations, babbling Frenchmen, and sidewalk cafes, seemed like my home in Europe. I continued to marvel at the knowledge that any Frenchman has of the arts and history. This holds true of all Europeans. They are proud of their ancestry, and they look up to Americans primarily because of our material wealth. American invasion they welcome, however, and do not consider us intruders.

The voyage home on the S.S. United States was the one disappointment of the whole trip. The employees on the ship constantly complained about their respective jobs. They conveyed a personal relationship between employee and passenger. In direct contrast, the European considers waiters or any other public occupation a respectable profession. Their employee-customer relationship is purely impersonal, but a feeling of condescension is absent, and you do not feel as if they are on the defensive at any time.

Possibly the speed of the U. S. liner through the stormy waters contributed to our feeling, since most of us became seasick. However, we were all glad to see the Statue of Liberty. After disembarking, my first thought was that everything looked so modern. For the first several days this impression remained.

My trip was a memorable one, and it truly was a good investment.
ENGLAND, FOREVER ENGLAND

Dear Alumnae:

Living in England is a very pleasant experience and one I'll long remember. The countryside stays green throughout the winter. In the charming little villages are lovely little thatched houses, narrow cobblestone roads, picturesque churches and the inevitable village green. It's not unusual to find a moss covered windmill beside a small canal giving the impression that you are being swept back into the centuries. Here and there you'll find horseback riders and occasionally the time-honored pubs with their quaint names, such as: "The Green Man," "The Woodman," "The Queen's Head," "The Boar's Head" and many others.

Back in modern London with its many fashionable shops, smartly dressed women, American cars flashing by, you might be back home until you notice the bay windows of the Tobacconist Shops dating back to 1700 and the wrought iron signs hanging over the doorways. Down in "Petticoat Lane" you find an animated scene of buying and selling in the open-air markets, especially Sunday morning. There you'll meet people from all walks of life. There'll be Australians and New Zealanders—whose twang will give them away immediately. There'll be Scots, Irish, Indians, Pakistanese and Africans. In fact, so many nationalities will be represented that you'll wonder where you are until you hear the unmistakable accent of the good-natured Cockney.

Over on Portsmouth Street you'll find the "Old Curiosity Shop," with its overhanging eaves and tiny windows. In this same area is the one-time home of Charles Dickens.

London proper has many magnificent buildings, one of the most venerated structures in the British Empire being Westminster Abbey for their sovereigns are coronated there. One of the most beautiful parts of this building is the Chapel of Henry VII, containing his and other royal tombs.

The houses of Parliament located on the banks of the Thames have some of the largest gothic structures in the world. There you'll find the famous Big Ben sounding the hours. It is said a true Cockney is born within sounding distance of the clock.

The children have enjoyed London far more than we had anticipated. They would walk for hours down the Victoria Embankment watching the coming and going of vessels down the Thames. They found much pleasure in watching the police launches going swiftly through the water.
History really becomes alive when you visit the Tower of London and see the tiny bedroom of the Princes in the Tower. The guide will show you the place under the stairs where the skeletons were found years after the Princes were murdered. The Yeoman Warders wear quaint Tudor uniforms in red, with knee length skirt effect and long tight pants beneath. Around their neck is a stiff, wide, white ruffle. They are very friendly and proud of their positions. On the Tower green are large black ravens. The rumor goes that when the ravens fail to return to the green the fall of the Empire is near. On the Tower Wharf, with its row of cannon facing the river, you can watch the river craft, and sooner or later the great bascules of Tower Bridge will open to allow the passage of a vessel.

When the Queen is in residence at Buckingham Palace, the Royal Standard flies over the palace. The changing of the guards is a colorful procedure when a full band of one of the guard regiments march to the Palace wearing their scarlet uniforms and bearskin hats.

There are many lovely parks to take the children. In Kensington Gardens, there is a delightful bronze statue of Peter Pan. At the base are squirrels, mice, rabbits and fairies all worn smooth by the countless stroking of little hands. There is also a Round Pond for the sailing of toy boats and model yachts. Most of the parks have lovely artificial lakes where you’ll find swans and numerous kinds of water fowl.

Over in Richmond you’ll find a beautiful view overlooking the river which will remind you of Richmond, Virginia.

There are many large private houses open to the public throughout the country. One of the nicest Georgian style houses is The Knole, over at Seven Oaks. It is partly occupied but the part that is open to the public has beautiful furniture and very lovely gardens.

Hampton Court is a stately place built mostly in Tudor style, where the famous Henry VIII lived. The gardens are delightful. The State apartments contain some fine paintings and tapestries.

I could go on endlessly chatting about England. There are so many historical buildings coming down from the past, traditions that go with almost every major event, the people themselves, their Educational System down to the pronunciation of words and spelling, so completely different from ours.

We went to Austria, Switzerland, Italy and, of course, Paris. Mrs. Van Horn covered these places so well in the last Bulletin I will not attempt to.

Soon we will be starting home so that the children will be settled in school—but I’m sure every time my husband flies off to Rome, Lisbon, Copenhagen, etc., he’ll leave a very wistful wife behind.

A RIP VAN WINKLE SPEAKS

By Elizabeth W. Craft, R.N.
Class 1903

I have had a rather unusual experience. I was a patient in the hospital from which I was graduated in 1903 and which, my interests being elsewhere, I had not visited for many years. I had an operation and was very ill. For a while, the struggle back to life was so all absorbing that I thought of little else. In time, however, I began to dip into the past and, comparing it with the present, found my situation most bewildering.

As the nurses flitted in and out the first part of the night and were replaced by others, my thoughts went back to my own first night duty. It lasted all one frightfully hot summer when sleep in the daytime would have been impossible except for the exhausted. I was on duty in the Woman’s Ward, and from 7 P.M. to 7 A.M. I tubbed typhoids—did you ever hear of it? I shaved and prepared patients for operation the next day. I cared for postoperative cases, looked after the drunks, attempted suicides, and other accident cases sent in during the night. Before I went off duty in the morning, I straightened the beds and served breakfast. It is too tiring to think of even after fifty years.

After a time, I fell to thinking of the operations I could remember. Their beginning was disagreeable, to say the least: purging and enemas, light suppers, and no breakfasts. The patient awoke to thirst and nausea, no pillow allowed, no turning in bed. However, for $15 a week—if you were a private patient—you could have a “special” who stayed with you night and day. (Your room would be from $15 to $25 a week.) This special nurse would be a second-year student who was sent from her duty on the wards and told to go on special with number so-and-so who had just been operated on.

You may believe it or not, but this nurse was in for some training all nurses of that day were required to have. She was to live without sleep. All night she hovered over her patient, watching the pulse, moistening parched lips, and giving a little crushed ice as nausea ceased. She was also to give much of her weary self in her sympathetic care. In the morning, leaving her patient in the care of a floor nurse, the special made a hasty toilet, ate an unappetizing breakfast, and went back to a long weary day, employing every little trick to make the patient comfortable. Perhaps a little nourishment was now allowed, usually a lemon albumen or beef tea. I do not remember that the value of milk in the diet was ever stressed.

The next night was somewhat better, and maybe the nurse caught some sleep in a chair by the patient’s bed. Then as the patient slowly improved, there set in a period that was to furnish a subject of conversation for a long time to come: “When I was operated on.” Flowers began to come in: red and white carnations or American Beauty roses; get-well cards were unknown. The patient was bathed and rubbed and powdered and her best gowns and bed jackets came into play. These garments were not of silk or nylon, but of nainsook, much trimmed in lace and ribbon. Dainty, delicate food was offered and, as time went on, the patient was propped in bed.

Things also began to improve markedly for the nurse. A cot would be put into the room now; and the nurse, in kimono, slept when the patient did. After a time, the patient was carefully lifted to a wheel chair and in the course of a few weeks wheeled to the sun parlor. Here the nurse could rest her weary feet and make herself agreeable.

Believe me, my friends, there is no such pleasant aftermath of an operation today. It is true that there is not the nausea or thirst. There is indifference as to how many pillows you have or how you turn in bed. They are too busy doing other things to you. You seem to be continually surrounded by figures in white bent on tormenting you. They stick you with painful needles; all kinds of bottles are hung on your arms. You are given unpleasant things by mouth and hypo. You feel your whole personality slipping from you. All reticences of soul and body surrender to this army in white.

Gradually, however, you find yourself relaxing more and more in the care and kindness of those around you. Even the busy surgeon finds time to bring someone to see you who knew you long ago. The visitors see a haggard and weary old woman. Those I see are changed beyond recognition. It would be sad, but my interest is in another generation.

Those tall young interns whose one object in life once seemed to be to think up ways to torment me have turned into nice boys who are as kind to me as if I were their grandmother; but it is those efficient young women, coming and going, at whom I marvel. They are cheerful and kind and so clever in the things they can do. I know in my heart that they are vastly superior to the timid, over-worked nurses of my day. How skillfully they find the right vein! How gently they insert the needle! They are equally efficient in other treatments, and it becomes a pleasure to yield to their ministering.

I have no resentment that I once worked twelve to fourteen hours to their eight, or that much of my time had been taken up with scrubbing and playing lady’s maid while they had been given time to learn things of much more importance. Instead, I felt a certain pride. All professions have their pioneers; and if my weary feet have helped to blaze a trail for better things, the hardships have not been in vain.

Perhaps Rip Van Winkle was not altogether the pathetic creature Irving would lead us to believe. Might it not be that, after his first bewilderment upon waking, he did find that the world had much improved while he took his famous nap?
CLASS REUNION OF 1903

By Margaret Massey Winslow

The reunion of the Class of 1903 was a disappointment in a way as I was the only member to attend the banquet. Out of thirteen who graduated fifty years ago, six have passed to the great beyond. Three of the seven living wrote to me that they were unable to be present but would be thinking of us. Nothing was heard from the others.

My interest in the School of Nursing and our Alumnae Association has never lagged in the fifty years since I received my Nightingale cap. As I am an honorary member of the Class of 1920, I have a double interest in the Alumnae Association, and all its members. It is always a real joy to attend the banquet and greet the many nurses I have known through these fifty years.

REUNION OF THE CLASS OF 1913

By Martha Mallon

Five members of the Class of 1913 celebrated their 40th Reunion at the annual banquet held at the Emerson Hotel June 9, 1953.

Members present: Valenia M. Rutherford, Katherine V. Shea, Pearl Rush Thompson, Elva L. Dean, Martha Mallon.

Valenia, true to her Alma Mater, came from Los Angeles, Cal., to attend the reunion. She has visited relatives in Boston, Mass., Winchester, New Market, and Roanoke, Va., and friends in Baltimore, Md.

Katherine V. Shea, came from North Adams, Mass., and visited friends in Annapolis and Baltimore before returning to her beautiful Berkshire Hills.

Pearl R. Thompson, housewife, lives in Baltimore, Md.

Elva L. Dean, Assistant Supervisor in Central Supply Room, University Hospital.

Martha Mallon, struggling with private duty nursing and the latest cardiac and thoracic surgery.

By Martha Gladys McMillan

A small group of the Class of 1918 gathered to greet classmates and friends after a lapse of thirty-five years at the Emerson Hotel, at the Nurses' Annual Banquet, June 5, 1953.

Those present were Naomi Kirkley Fay (Kirk), Margaret Lauper (Maggie), Ellen McCarthy Ogden, Lena McDaniel Rausenbach (our Merry Widow), Martha McMillan (Mack), Temperance Ann Scout (Scoutie), Marian Turner Outerbridge, Ruth Yingling (Ying), Esther Carr Melvin, Beulah Bay McCausland.

We reminisced, relived the good times, laughed about the more difficult ones, and regretted that more of the girls could not be present.

Some notes and letters were received from the absent ones. Martha Benson Jones and Iva Dolly Underhill regretted they could not be with us and sent their love and best wishes to all. Gay Linstrum Hughes, who had been here for an eye operation, had her reservation to fly back to California. We wish her the best of luck.

We missed so much one who was with us five years ago. Emma Kate Hook was in the hearts of every member of the class.

We wish to express our appreciation to all of those who did so much and worked so hard to make the evening an enjoyable occasion.

30th REUNION—CLASS OF 1923

By Helen Teeple Fassitt

Getting together again after 30 years was an interesting experience for the 10 members of the Class of '23 who were able to get to the annual Alumnae Reunion and Banquet on June 5, 1953. Some had changed in outward appearances but not in the underlying traits and characteristic manners of thinking and talking. It was fun—linking up the present to the past, and all ten, plus our beloved honorary member and real friend, Elizabeth Getzendanner, felt rewarded and enriched by the renewal of this spirit of '23. Lillie Hoke, who is Director of Nursing Education in the Memorial Hospital, Winchester, Va., was taken ill rather suddenly and was not able to be with us as planned. Marty Hoffman who is doing 3-11 supervisory duty at U. of Md. Hospital was not able to find relief for her duty, and also was unable to meet us again.
Those present were: Hulda Harkins Carter, Baltimore; Medora West Champe, Charleston, W.Va.; Helen Teeple Fassitt, Rising Sun, Md.; Elizabeth M. Getzendanner, Baltimore; Ruth White Holt, Dover, Del.; Kathryn Read Kellam, Frankstown, Va.; Wilhelmina McCann, Baltimore; Ruth Boyd Monninger, Baltimore; Anna E. Pratt, U. of Md. Hospital, Baltimore; Ida Nagle Unger, Federalsburg, Md.; Evelyn Pearl Wich, Towson, Md.

News from these absent ones was enthusiastically received and talked over at the dinner and later in the Girls' rooms:

Dorothy Hazen Horn, Conneautville, Pa.; Margaret Herrington Ruhland, Bellevue, Ohio; Kathryn R. Toms, Hagerstown, Md.; Velma C. Kish, Los Angeles, Calif.

Letters were received too late for the reunion from Margaret Stailey Sargent, Bethesda, Md.; Marie Schroeder Davenport, Hertford, N.C.

The girls found it much more interesting to look at pictures of each others' homes, children, and, yes, grandchildren; to learn of the interests and activities of the others, than to dance.

The end of the banquet was only the beginning of the real reunion, for the next day all were the guests of Boyd and "Teeps" at luncheon at a downtown tea room. Previous to this, in the morning, some had gone shopping, some had visited the new Hospital and Psychiatry Building, while others had visited Miss Aitkenhead. At the luncheon, surprise followed surprise. Pearl Wich brought in a beautiful cake for the class. Small black trays, as place favors, were signed by each one present as a reminder of the day. Miss Getzendanner presented her long-cherished Alumnae Pin to one of "her Girls"—"Harky" was the lucky girl to draw the lot with her name on it. Alumnae plates were shown and ordered. Boyd presented "Teeps" with a beautiful vase from the class as a token of appreciation in getting everyone together. Messages were sent to the absent ones. After the long luncheon was over, "Teeps" took color pictures of the group and even turned aside busy Howard Street traffic on Saturday afternoon to get just the right pose and placing in the sun. (The passers-by were just as interested and amused, too).

One by one the group broke up, as some had to get on duty, or home. Those who lived out of the city were taken by car, so each could see where the others lived and Miss "Getzy" loved every minute of the trip with "her Girls." When the last had been taken to the train, and all were gone, the city felt lonely. In the words of one, "It was a joy to see what fine women these classmates have grown into—women I'd be happy and proud to call and cherish as friends."
CLASS REUNION—1928

By Mildred Marcus Holland

Ten members of our class attended the annual Alumnae Banquet to help celebrate our 25th Anniversary. It was hard to realize that twenty-five years could slip by so fast. We had a pre-banquet gathering in the cocktail lounge of the Emerson. It was good to see classmates again and get caught up on the happenings through the years. We missed all those who could not come and the newsy letters received from Marie Pearce Staton, Elizabeth Pennewell McCrosson, Anne Hoffman Lynd, and Grace Wagner Dawsey were read and enjoyed by all those present. Irene Hamrick Fleischer called and sent regrets and wished to be remembered to all.

We regret that we were unable to get all the news of everyone to pass along. Grace Wagner Dawsey is the first grandmother of us. Marie Pearce Staton has the most children, with three. Margery Currens Johnson has the youngest child, aged two and a half years. Some of us have sons in the service. Some are still following our chosen profession in industrial, private and in institutional work.

To those who could not come we send our regrets and sincerely hope that our next anniversary will see us all together once again.

The following were those of us who enjoyed the evening: Margaret Currens Johnson, Hilda Dugger Barnes, Edith Hall Miller, Alice Hastings Garheart, Frances M. Leishear, Mildred Marcus Holland, Elizabeth Priester Jones, Mary Margaret Rifile, Emma A. Winship, Elizabeth Work Kornbau.

REUNION OF THE CLASS OF 1933

By Ruth Dalhnur Benson

With 15 out of 25 of our classmates present we felt that the 20th Reunion of the Class of '33 was a success. All members of the class except two were successfully contacted, and while all could not be there it was wonderful to read their letters and receive news of them.

Two classmates were present that we had not seen for 20 years, they were Sally Melson Gibb and Vivian Wynne Lindsay, and just seeing them again made the reunion. A humorous incident occurred when one of our classmates, getting her dates confused, found herself on a boat on the Chesapeake Bay heading for Baltimore on the night of the banquet. However, a luncheon planned the next day by Gladys Hix Schaum for the class saved her trip from being a complete loss. (Viv, hope your husband does not read this).

A sad note was that Daphne Barcliff Walston, due to moving to La Porte, Indiana, just a short time before, could not attend our reunion for the first time. Also Miss Lilly Hoke, who was our class sponsor, and whom we were looking forward to seeing, could not attend due to illness. (We sure missed seeing you, Daphne and Miss Hoke; I hope this finds you fully recovered). A provoking incident was that at the banquet instead of being all together at one table we were split up, and that I hope will not happen again.

I am sure that all of us who attended this reunion are looking forward to our 25th. So, come on Class of '33, and let's make it the best and biggest yet. Be seeing you all in '58.

CLASS REUNION—1938
By Sara Jane Mays Cockey

The Class of '38 celebrated its fifteenth anniversary in June with a reunion at the annual banquet for graduates. Although there were only five members present, we felt somewhat special in that our classmate, Flora Streett, as Alumnae president, presided over the banquet. Catherine Hanna Hundertmark, now doing duty on obstetrics; Catherine Burbage Schraitle, with pictures of a handsome young son; Ada Gray Bowling, Captain, U.S.A. Nurse Corps; and I enjoyed reminiscing and exchanging bits of news of other classmates and all hope for a bigger reunion in '58.

REUNION—CLASS OF 1943
February Section
By Pauline M. Rogers

The night of June 5th at the Emerson Hotel Ballroom was a very happy one for all of the girls who attended our tenth reunion. All during the meal our table buzzed with talk of the past and present. Here is some of the news which might be of interest:

Mary Alice and Allen Fisher and their two daughters are living in Silver Spring, Md. Jane Adams Camp, who's home in Charleston, W.Va., was destroyed by an explosion several years ago, tells us they have completely rebuilt their home and she and Harry have a new daughter whom they adopted on January 10th. Faith Weigert Bittle has been busy caring for her family (two girls) and working as school nurse in one of the county schools. Amy Lee Miller has two husky boys who keep her on the run, but she finds time to do occasional relief nursing in a dental office. Clara and Johnny Wilson have moved into a new home in Bel Air and have three children, two boys and a girl. Marguerite Pannill Pruitt spends her time caring for Maurice and Carrie and helping Jimmy in his dental office in Oxford, N.C. Polly Rogers talked about Ronnie and Jackie and of the four acres in Harford County where she and Berry are planning to build their home. All of us are very proud of Maria Sagardia who has been named Director of Nursing at Mt. Wilson Hospital, and we wish her the best of luck in her new position.

We missed the girls who were not present, but exchanged the bits of news we had from them. The Brown girls are living in Charleston, W.Va. Ada is married and has a daughter, and Becky works in the local hospital. Bernice Horner had planned to attend the banquet, but at the last minute found this impossible. We’re sorry, Horner, we had all looked forward to seeing you. Bernice, by the way, is working in the T. B. hospital in Salisbury, Md. Ruth Michaels Gassaway wrote that she is unable to take long trips due to the expected arrival of her first child this summer. Sara and Van Whiting, with Patty and Bruzzie, are living on a small farm in Hebron, Md., and seem quite pleased with country life.

We’re sorry there was no news of the other girls who graduated with us, but hope at our next reunion more of the girls will be able to be present.

REUNION OF THE CLASS OF 1943

By Shirley V. Pratt

We all remember the thrill of the Alumnae Banquet when we were the honored graduating class of 1943. This feeling was matched I think, on the night of June 5, when our class met again, but this time for a tenth year reunion at the Emerson Hotel.

Those gathered at the friendly table were as follows:
Doris Gerwig Feaster, mother of two girls and one boy, came from lovely Oakland, Md. Betty Harlan Kennedy, mother of two darling girls with golden hair, came from Wilmington, Del. Lively Evelyn Eselhorst Fowler, mother of one boy and one girl, came down from Spencer, Mass. Miriam Stultz Parrott, mother of one daughter, from Statesville, N.C., and Martha Fanning Tilt, from Shelby, N.C., brought their soft accents with them. Catherine Kurzenknabe Owen, blessed with three boys and two girls, brought her infectious laugh all the way from Chicago, 111. Miriam Hutchins Stier showed us pictures of her youngsters. Ruth Forsyth Shell, mother of an 18-month old daughter; Rita Schwinger Larsen, who works at the U.S.P.H.S. Hospital in Baltimore; and Shirley Virginia Pratt, who works at The Johns Hopkins Hospital, were the Baltimore contingent.

It was the general consensus that the ten years that had passed had changed us surprisingly little, save to make us less boisterous and give us more poise. The girls who were known in student days for being quiet or outspoken, gentle or sharp, serious or light, were the same at the reunion.

Those that distance or family responsibilities or duty kept from attending were truly missed. Perhaps we will see you next time.

CLASS REUNION — 1948

By Lois Fraley Schildwachter

Jean Waters Cohn, Barbara Hart Howard, Augusta Kossman Neff, Brunehilda Oliveira Kerger, Lois Fraley Schildwachter, and Jean Burgess Awalt represented the October Division of the Class of '48 at the banquet and dance. A special guest at our table was Shirley Byers, who had been our nursing arts instructor.

As the group talked about student days, letters were passed around from: Dottie Brooks who is attending school in St. Louis; from Betty Kahn who is working at the Naval Hospital in Bethesda; from Virginia Hinkel Dietrich living here in Baltimore; from Anita Krause Rossberg who now lives in Van Nuys, Cal., where her husband is in practice; from Harriet Pollack Berler who is in Arizona while her husband is stationed there in the Air Force; from Charlotte Halter Iacona who wrote from Rhode Island; Nolly Steffler wrote in from Pittsburgh, where she is doing industrial nursing.

The evening passed much too rapidly for all of us and we are now looking forward to having a bigger representation at our ten year reunion.
REUNION OF MARCH, 1948

By Grace Colburn Hunter

Believe it or not but five years have really flown past and here were nine of our crew of 17 back at the Emerson again, dancing to the Debonairs, and alive with much chatter. For the benefit of the absent eight the loyal nine were: Jean Warfield Donnelly; Katherine Prokop Donnelly; Ellen Reapsomer; Ellen Tschantre Chris-singer; Hortense Bunting Tegler (all of whom dwell in Baltimore and vicinity and who are doing their share of nursing when called upon); Betty Jane Eselhorst Hennegan; Amanda V. Crew; Darlene Trostle; Grace Colburn Hunter.

Horsie was headed for California with her Marine husband, who may be en route to Korea by now. Mandy is doing Public Health Nursing at Easton, Md. Recently Mandy completed courses at Catholic University in Washington, D.C. Darlene has passed her National Boards in Anesthesia and now has a wonderful position in Tiffin, Ohio. As for yours truly, I am at Wright Patterson A.F.B., Ohio, while Bob completes his stretch of military duty.

We missed our classmates but were able to find bits of news about some: Betty Byers was unable to attend because of illness. Betty attained her B.S. in Nursing from McPherson College in McPherson, Kan. She is Supervisor of University’s 11th Floor.

Elaine Woodburn Crow spent the reunion in the hospital welcoming a new daughter, Patricia Ann.

Joan Cowles Klag has her home in California and writes that she has intentions of doing some nursing while her husband is at sea.

Jane Knudson Morris, who is our most recent bride, is believed to be in New Haven, Conn.

Peggy Sappington Novotny is at her home in Brownsville, Texas, while her hubby is in Korea.

JANET HALE MEMORIAL SCHOLARSHIP

The Janet Hale Memorial Scholarship, which has been awarded in the past by the Alumnae Association to the member of the graduating class having the highest average in scholarship, is discontinued, due to the fact that so few of those awarded the scholarship took advantage of it. Instead, each year the Alumnae Association is making an award of $50 to the student maintaining the highest average in scholarship, in addition to making available $300 for scholarship purposes to those who wish to continue their education.

Those interested in applying for use of this fund should apply to Mrs. Nancy Craven Sheppard, secretary of the Education Committee. Recommendations for the granting of the funds are made by the Education Committee to the Executive Committee, which in turn grants the scholarship.

RULES

1. Graduates of more than two years standing are permitted to register for or against any kind of case or hospital or duty desired.

2. Graduates of less than two years are allowed to register against contagious, mental or obstetrical cases only.

3. Members "when on the list" and given call for case not registered against are expected to respond, or go to the bottom of the list.
4. Nurses when on call are expected to keep in close touch with Registrar.

5. If a member wishes to resign from the Directory she should do so in writing to the Chairman of Committee. She may then be reinstated at any time. Any nurse who does not send in written resignation can be reinstated only on payment of all back dues.

6. In cases of contagion the nurse shall be governed by the rules of the Health Department.

7. Any complaints, either from Directory members or concerning them, may be made to Chairman of Committee or to Alumnae Association at regular meeting.

8. Nurses’ fees regulated by the Alumnae Association:

   $12.00 per day for 8-hour duty.
   $18.00 for 12-hour duty.
   $25.00 for 20-hour duty.

At the University Hospital a nurse may be called, for her first day on a case, to report for duty not more than four hours preceding a regular period and asked to remain through the regular period, for which she receives one dollar ($1.00) per hour up to time of regular period and nine dollars ($9.00) for regular period. The nurses receive $1.00 a day for each extra patient.

When nursing in hospitals, a nurse’s fee is regulated by rules of the hospital in which she is working.

9. Members may be denied the use of the Directory at any time for not observing rules of same.

HISTORY OF THE NURSES’ ALUMNAE PIN

When the Alumnae Association was organized in 1903, they accepted the pin of the Class of 1894 as their emblem. The pin was an original design submitted by Tiffany in New York, Bailey, Banks and Biddle of Philadelphia. It showed a serpent (representing wisdom) twined around the glass denoting “the wise presiding over decoctions of medicine.” It is the shape of a St. George’s cross with maroon and black and gold colors of the University of Maryland. The Caduceus, Greek emblem of medical science, is in the center of the cross.
YOUR HEALTH AND ACCIDENT PROTECTION

On June 1, 1947, through the Nurses' Alumnae Association of the University of Maryland, a plan was inaugurated to give its members actively engaged in their profession, a monthly income to replace earnings in the event of disability through accident or illness.

The plan, operated by the MASSACHUSETTS BONDING AND INSURANCE COMPANY, provides income up to $120 monthly, covering all diseases. There are no discriminations regarding female disorders, but pregnancy, miscarriage and abortions are not covered. All operations and accidents are covered. Up to 60 years of age, $80.00 monthly may be had with no reference to prior medical history. Payments begin the first day in event of accident, the seventh day in illness. Hospitalization has been added.

Members, including recent graduates, may join the plan on the anniversary date, June 1, 1954.

For further particulars and application forms, communicate with the State Representative, Ethel M. Troy, 17 Light Street, Baltimore 2, Maryland, or directly with the Dana G. Hall Agency, 123 William Street, New York 7, New York.
